Young Cotati Councilmen Move To Bounce Manager

Push Ordinance To Allow Dismissal On 3-2 Vote

By BONNIE BARD

Youthful members of the Cotati City Council last night teamed up to oust the city manager next month in a move oldtimers called "the radical take-over of the town."

The council meeting began with a shouting match behind closed doors in a personnel session to consider firing City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen.

Councilman Herbert T. Winter said he and Councilman Frank J. Dolinsek strongly supported Salfen, but the three young people out-maneuvered them by introducing an ordinance to reduce the required margin for dismissal from 4-1 to 3-2.

"What this does is give them full control," Winter said. "All the oldtimers will just go down the drain now. This is the last step in the radical take-over of Cotati."

Winter said no major accusations were brought against Salfen in the closed session. "It was just a lot of small items and some of the things weren't even his fault," Winter said.

The three Sonoma State College graduates ousted three council incumbents last year to become the council majority and have been threatening to fire Salfen for months, saying he is working against plans they have to improve the community.

"They just drove Salfen right into the ground", Winter said. It will be a month before the ordinance takes effect and the firing can be done by the 3-2 vote. Winter said the personnel ordinance also gives the city manager three months before he must give up the post.

"We've got to do something about this, " Winter said. All the old timers, he said, are going to get together in the next few days and will try to come up with something." He said a recall movement against the three young people may result.

The councilmen and their young constituents blasted Salfen for his handling of the city tree ordinance. The planning commission last week gave Forhim Corp. permission to remove sapling cottonwood trees, but the city later received complaints that mature trees had also been destroyed.

Mayor Geoffrey Dunham said that when complaints were called in to city hall, Salfen had promptly warned representatives of Forhim Corp. to give them time to complete the tree removals before an official appeal could be filed.

Appeals were filed last night by Lee Gray and Robert Davis of the parks and recreation commission. The council asked City Atty. Jay Cantor to determine if Forhim Corp. had indeed violated the ordinance and could be fined.

Gasoline Shortage Is Felt

By MARY LEYDECKER

Marin's independent service stations already are feeling the pinch of a nationwide gasoline shortage as they face the busy summer season with reduced supplies.

So far, however, the major company stations seem unaffected as their parent firms take care of them first.

Peter C. Van Alyea, owner of Marin-based Redwood Oil Co., said he is selling one of his three stations because he cannot get enough gasoline to operate all of them. He has sold his operation in Petaluma, he said today, but will retain stations in Fairfax and San Rafael.

Van Alyea, a true independent in the complicated service station field, buys his gasoline directly from one of the Bay Area's six refineries. His allotment has been cut 30 per cent from last month's supply, he said, although he said he thought some of the cut was due to a temporary problem at that refinery.

In any event, he said, he chose to sell one station in order to keep enough gas to supply the other two.

Young said the dealer's allotment has been cut with the shortage passed on to his customers.

"I've been alloted less gas this month than last," Young said, adding that the real problem is that "I should start doing more business this time of year."

Rather than run out of gasoline mid-month, Young said he will cut operating hours at his station. "You don't want to

NEAT TRICK IS CLUE TO BOILED EGG

Easter egg time is often broken egg time, so C. E. Brannon of Novato has an egg safety tip for housewives, egg painters and dyers.

The way to separate the raw eggs from the boiled eggs is to try to spin them, he said.

"The raw egg won't spin. A boiled egg will spin readily and the harder it is boiled the harder it spins," he said.

Prison Closing May Be Delayed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A toughened outlook by the Adult Authority toward parole and crime in general could result in delay of the planned closing of San Quentin Prison in 1975, a spokesman for the state Department of Corrections said today.

Philip D. Guthrie, department information officer, said the stance has resulted in fewer inmates being paroled and more parolees being sent back to prison.

Under a policy endorsed last year and enunciated last month, the Adult Authority is "looking at each case more conservatively and giving higher priority to public safety," Guthrie said. "They're taking less risks than they were a couple of years ago."

Guthrie said the overall state prison population has risen since last summer by 1,200 to a total population of about 20,500, with another increase of 2,000 expected by July of 1974.

While current plans still call for the closing of San Quentin in fiscal 1974-75, Guthrie said, that may have to be reevaluated in light of the projected prison population increase. Moreover, the department may have to consider reopening closed portions of such facilities as Soledad, Susanville and Vacaville, he said.

At San Quentin, information officer Lee DeBord said today the facility's population has gone up to 2,114 from a low of 1,426 last September. This is due to transfers of "problem" inmates from other facilities and creation last fall of a parole violator unit which now houses up to 200 men.

Guthrie said the get-tough program was the product of a response to a "general public concern about crime," coupled to a smaller extent with a slight increase in "violent crimes committed by parolees."

Male parolees committed 358 violent crimes last year, compared to 236 in 1971, according to department statistics, despite a drop of 1,400 in the number of male felons on parole.

Gov. Ronald Reagan had announced the planned closure of San Quentin last January, at the same time proposing construction of two new maximum security facilities of 400 prisoners each.

Traffic Big Renaissance Bother

By FRANK FARRARA

The major adverse environmental impact of the proposed Renaissance Center at a site north of Novato will be the traffic generated by the annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire and other special events.

Renaissance Center Inc. consultants described the traffic impact, up to 5,560 cars a day, as significant in an environmental impact report accepted yesterday by the Marin County Environmental Protection Committee.

The traffic problem, which haunted the center in its unsuccessful attempt to locate in Lucas Valley, is again a major hurdle toward obtaining a use permit.

The California Highway Patrol and the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors have opposed the center's plan to accommodate northbound fair traffic on Highway 101.

With left turns for northbound traffic too hazardous, the Center proposed closing median openings in the area and routing northbound highway 101 traffic to Petaluma and then south on Highway 101 to the fair site.

The State Division of Highways said, by letter, it won't make such median closings "on a unilateral basis." The committee interpreted this as meaning the division won't close the medians if there is opposition.

The California Highway Patrol said routing northbound fair traffic to Petaluma Boulevard South and then back onto southbound Highway 101 would cause backups, slow traffic and generate rear-end accidents.

Consultants Royston, Hanamoto, Beck and Abbey of San Francisco said in their environmental impact report that the Renaissance Center, described as an educational and recreational operation, would have no significant adverse effect on air or water or noise.

Supervisors Begin General Plan Work

By JEFF GREER

Marin County supervisors yesterday tentatively adopted the three goals of the proposed countywide general plan and approved a draft of the required environmental impact report on the plan.

Only about 60 persons attended the public hearing — first of four scheduled by the supervisors. Little opposition to the plan surfaced, surprising some supervisors and onlookers.

"Perhaps they're saving their ammunition" for the later hearings on housing, open space and implementation portions of the countywide plan, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini speculated. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said he was "disappointed" at the small audience and lack of public reaction.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell noted that the plan, more than two years in the making, was approved March 19 by the county planning commission after eight hearings. Scores of hearings previously were held by the City-County Planning Council of Marin and the county planning staff, to hammer out points of the plan.

Yesterday's session was limited to two topics — the general goals, and the environmental impact report.

There was no public reaction to the environment report and it was quickly approved, subject to later revision if the plan itself is changed.

The report, in essence, says that the countywide plan as proposed will harm the environment less than either a composite of all existing master plans in Marin, or the complete absence of any development restrictions — the so-called free market concept.

The plan's three goals, as tentatively adopted, seek to:

"1. Discourage rapid or disruptive population growth but encourage social and economic diversity, across the county and within the communities."

Part of the goal is a proposal to limit population growth to about 300,000 persons in Marin by the year 1990.

"2. Achieve greater economic balance for Marin by increasing the number of jobs for residents, and by adding to the supply of housing for some of the people who now commute into Marin but who would like to live here."

This goal includes concepts of at least maintaining the existing ratio of low and moderate-income housing until 1990, and increasing the number of in-county jobs to perhaps 90,000 by then.

"3. Keep the quality of natural environment high, and achieve high quality in what is built, through a balanced sys-

Surviving Quint In Serious Condition

ASHDOD, Israel (UPI) — Cohava Fisher, 25, gave premature birth to quintuplets Thursday. Four of the infants died within 20 minutes and the surviving child was reported in serious condition.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Fisher had taken hormones to induce conception.

Mitchell Admits Discussions Of Bugging, Says He Refused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell acknowledged for the first time today that he sat in on meetings last year where bugging and "more detailed intelligence" against the Democrats were discussed.

Interviewed at the federal courthouse just before he began testifying before a grand jury investigating the Watergate case and other alleged political espionage, Mitchell did not indicate when the meetings took place or who else was there.

Mitchell insisted anew that he had no prior knowledge of the June 17 break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building. Yet he said that he thought a report that he had rejected such plans when they were suggested on three occasions was correct.

Mitchell, long regarded as one of President Nixon's closest confidantes and political strategists, served as attorney general until early in March, 1972, when he resigned to head Nixon's re-election campaign. He quit that post two weeks after the Watergate incident.

Mitchell told a grand jury last year that he had no advance knowledge of the Watergate conspiracy, and has told reporters "at least a hundred times" that he knew nothing about it.

Food Prices In Record Rise Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food prices rose at a record pace for the third straight month in March and the cost of living shot up by 0.9 per cent, the greatest increase in 22 years, the government announced today.

President Nixon's top economist, Herbert Stein, said the report "contains the first encouraging signs on prices we have seen in the past two months."

Stein explained that most of the March increase was due to higher food prices, which should moderate some in April because of the ceiling placed on meat prices March 28.

"The moderate size of the nonfood increase, together with the strong evidence that the rise of food prices is abating, support the promise of more satisfactory prices in the months ahead."

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., predicted that "the worst news is still to come" for consumers and urged Nixon to give "urgent consideration" to an across-the-board freeze of prices, wages, interest rates and profits.

And George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, declared the price rise was "proof positive ... of the complete failure of the economic policies of the Nixon administration."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, charged the huge jump in living costs was due to irresponsibility of the administration and Republicans in Congress.

Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, explained his optimism by noting most of the March increase was attributed to rising food prices. The latter should moderate in April because of the ceiling imposed on meat prices on March 28, he said.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that in the first three months of President Nixon's relaxed Phase III controls, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 8.8 per cent, the largest since early 1951 —the height of the Korean War.

The BLS said prices of food in supermarkets, after seasonal adjustment, went up at a record pace of 3.1 per cent — marking the third consecutive month for a record high. Record increases of 2.4 per cent in February and 2.3 per cent in January also were higher than the previous record of 1.9 per cent in June, 1965.

Meat prices contributed significantly to the higher food costs, rising 5.4 per cent in March before seasonal adjustment and 4.8 per cent after adjustment. Meat prices in March were 19.6 per cent above a year earlier. The figures were tallied before President Nixon clamped a retail price ceiling on meat and consumers carried out a one-week boycott.

Because of a sharp rise in fish and poultry prices, the overall index for meat, poultry and fish set a new record with a

Poison Suspected By Dead Senator

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The personal secretary of former U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long has told authorities the senator thought he was poisoned the night he died, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said today.

At the time of Long's death, it was assumed he had died of natural causes. He died Nov. 6, 1972, at his estate at Clarksville, Mo., at the age of 64. No autopsy was performed.

"Miss Helen Dunlop, secretary and long-time companion to Long, has told authorities that minutes before his death, Long told her he thought he had received a fatal dose of poison in a box of candy," the newspaper said.

The story said investigators were puzzled why Miss Dunlop waited nearly four months to tell of the suspected poisoning.

The Globe said Miss Dunlop refused to comment Thursday on the case. However, she did say she had volunteered to take a lie detector test relating to the events surrounding Long's death.

J.O. Mudd, Pike County coroner for some 25 years, signed the death certificate stating the cause of death was a stroke or "a cerebral vascular accident." Mudd, who is not a physician, said the death "had all the appearances of a stroke."

Mudd said if Miss Dunlop had told him of the senator's suspicions at the time, he would have insisted an autopsy be performed, the newspaper said.

The Globe said Miss Dunlop contacted a law enforcement official and an inquiry into the death began April 10 with the Missouri Highway Patrol assigning a member of its investigative unit to the case.

"The bizarre new twist in the Long case has caused investigators to take another look at the break-in at the Long home two days after his death," the Globe-Democrat said. The break-in was thought to be a burglary, although only a few goblets were missing and a great amount of more valuable property was untouched.

"Authorities now are considering the possibility that the break-in was to recover the box of candy so it could not be submitted to laboratory tests," the story said. "The candy was not found by authorities at Long's estate."

Minnesota, California and North Carolina are the leading turkey producers, says National Geographic.

Three Years For Kerner On Bribery

CHICAGO (UPI) — "My real punishment, deserved or not, has already been inflicted," U.S. Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner said Thursday shortly before being sentenced to three years in prison and fined $50,000 for taking bribes.

Kerner, the only sitting federal judge ever criminally convicted, made an impassioned 15-minute statement before U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor pronounced the sentence.

Kerner said the verdict, reached two months ago by a federal jury, "deeply and irreparably tainted the good reputation that I cherished. Years of imprisonment can never compare to the severity of that punishment."

The former Illinois governor was found guilty Feb. 19 of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud and income tax evasion on charges of accepting racetrack stock at bargain prices from Illinois racing heiress Marjorie Lindeimer Everett between 1961 and 1968.

Former Illinois State Revenue Director Theordore J. Isaacs, who was tried and convicted with Kerner, drew the same sentence from Taylor Thursday.

"I am neither apologetic nor defensive of my conduct," the 64-year-old Kerner said. "I was never tainted and my integrity never bought."

The former governor, who said he "most humbly" disagreed with the verdict, has refused so far to resign his $42,500 a year post as an appeals court judge. Unless he resigns, he can be removed only by U.S. Senate impeachment proceedings.

Prosecutor James O. Thompson did not recommend a specific jail term for Kerner or Isaacs, but made it clear he felt incarceration was necessary to provide a deterrent against public officials becoming involved in illegal activities.

Before sentencing, Taylor turned down a defense motion for a new trial, but threw out five of the 19 counts on which Kerner and Isaacs had been convicted in the jury trial. The judge said there was insufficient evidence that one of four bribery counts and four of eight mail fraud counts were part of the overall scheme.

A Cambodian Port City Falls To Reds

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Americans warplanes struck suspected Communist positions within five miles of Phnom Penh late yesterday and the government announced the fall of the port city of Kep, 110 miles south of the capital.

Field reports also said Communists, after more heavy fighting, closed Highway 4 and thus severed Phnom Penh's main link with the sea again.

The reports said the fighting flared around Sre Ambel, 58 miles south of Phnom Penh, and forced a supply convoy going to the capital from the port of Kompong Som to turn back.

Highway 4 was closed for nearly three weeks by fighting but was reopened one week ago by Cambodian forces aided by heavy American air strikes. There were no immediate details or casualty reports on the action around Sre Ambel.

The latest American bombing raids, some of the closest so far to Pnom Penh, came on the 44th consecutive day of U.S. air raids. In other raids, sources said, B52 bombers carried out strikes Thursday near Damank Ampil, 15 miles south of the Cambodian capital, where government units were engaged in heavy fighting.

The action came on the 80th day of a Communist offensive in the only Indochina country without a formal cease-fire.

Fighting In Delta Area Said Heavy

SAIGON (UPI) — Heavy fighting flared in the Mekong Delta near the Cambodian border today with Saigon reporting 35 battlefield deaths in clashes less than 100 miles from the capital.

In other developments, Peking broadcast a denunciation of the suspension of U.S. minesweeping operations in North Vietnamese port waters and Hanoi accused the United States of conducting two reconnaissance flights Thursday over the Hanoi and Haiphong port areas.

The Saigon command said a total of 30 Communists and five government troops were killed and 59 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded in two battles yesterday and today between Hong Ngu, a river town 85 miles west of Saigon, and the Cambodian border.

Peking's New China News Agency (NCNA), monitored in Hong Kong, broadcast a statement issued Thursday by North Vietnam's foreign ministry condemning the U.S. mineclearing suspension as a "blatant violation" of the Jan. 28 Vietnam cease-fire.

Although NCNA carried the North Vietnamese statement, it issued no official Chinese reaction to the U.S. move.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA), in a broadcast monitored in Saigon, said a North Vietnamese foreign ministry spokesman made the U.S. reconnaissance flight charge today and labeled it a "gross violation" of the Vietnam peace agreement.

Crusade Claims No Candidate Backing

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — At times, the Christian Crusade of evangelist Billy James Hargis has expressed preference for a political candidate, his attorneys said. But the Crusade, they said, never has endorsed one.

The statement came Thursday in a petition filed with the Supreme Court asking it to review an appeals court decision that lifted the group's tax-exempt status. That decision, the petition said, "casts a great fear upon every church whose pastor conceives his sacred mission to encompass teaching the relevance and validity of the truths of the gospel in relation to contemporary society."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Holy Week Rites

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Thousands of tourists and religious pilgrims flocked into Rome today to see Pope Paul VI lead a torchlit Good Friday procession from the Colosseum to the Palatine Hill as part of Holy Week celebrations.

The Easter festivities began yesterday when the 75-year-old Pontiff celebrated a "Last Supper" mass at St. John's Basilica and washed the feet of 12 young seminarians to symbolize Christ's gesture to the apostles.

Tomorrow an Easter Eve Mass celebrated by the Pope in St. Peter's Basilica will end the 40-day mourning period of Lent and proclaims Christ's resurrection from the dead.

Siege Lifted

BEIRUT (UPI) — Syrian army tanks and military units have lifted a three-day siege of the central Syrian town of Homs where gun battles erupted over the weekend between Moslem demonstrators and police, travelers reaching Beirut said today.

At least 15 persons were killed and more than 200 others wounded in rioting Sunday and Monday when security forces prevented citizens from participating in celebration marches marking the prophet Mohammed's birthday, the travelers said.

Visitor Impressed

PEKING (UPI) — President Louis Echeverria of Mexico visited a Chinese communal farm today and said he was impressed by its cleanliness, the care its children receive and its self-sufficiency.

Echeverria was invited to the Red Star Chinese-Korean Friendship Commune outside Peking during the second day of his state visit to China, one of the stops on his worldwide tour to promote closer international ties with his country.

Later, he joined Chinese Premeier Chou En-lai for the second round of talks the two leaders have held since Echeverria's arrival.

Hits Gas Cutbacks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Independent gasoline stations are being cut off from shrinking supplies while the major suppliers protect their own stations, an independent operator complained yesterday.

"The majors are gradually cutting us off from supplies of domestic gasoline. They are doing so in order to take care of their owned and franchised stations. That leaves us largely dependent on foreign oil," said James Robertson, president of Cheshire Oil Co., Keene, N.H., and president of the Independent Oilmen's Association of New England.

Flood Crest Due

MORGAN CITY, La. (UPI) — The greatest threat of massive flooding in Morgan City will come tomorrow with the arrival of a flood crest from upstream. But several residents are not waiting to find out if a protective levee, bolstered yesterday by National Guard troops, will hold.

"A lot of people have already sent their families out," said real estate agent C.J. Cutrone. "I sent mine out yesterday."

Guardsmen, local citizens and Corps of Engineers workers packed mud and plywood on the dikes yesterday increasing their height by four feet. Officials said they should hold the swell of overflow water expected.

Riot In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — Paratroopers battled women early today in a Roman Catholic area of Belfast after a 13-year-old boy was slain in crossfire between troops and gunmen.

Women surrounded the paratroops after word of the death of Anthony McDowell spread through the neighborhood. They pushed, cursed and spat at troops, who struck back with rifle butts.

Militant Killed

BILBAO, Spain (UPI) — Official sources said today policemen trapped, then shot and killed a onetime Benedictine monk who became the leader of the most militant Basque underground movement for independence.

They said Eustaquio Mendizabal, 28, chief of the military wing of the "Basque Homeland and Liberty" (ETA) movement, died yesterday when he tried to shoot his way out of the police trap.

Highway Funds Held Not For Transit Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless the Senate can work its will in a post-Easter conference, the sanctity of the 17-year-old highway trust fund has been preserved for another two years.

Proponents of using some of the closely guarded highway funds for mass transit projects in auto-choked cities came closer than ever before in a showdown vote on the issue in the House Thursday. But the House rejected 215-190 an amendment that would have allowed cities to use $700 million of the fund for mass transit projects.

To be ironed out are the wide differences in a Senate bill allowing cities to finance mass transit projects from their $850 million share of the $8 billion-a-year trust fund and the $7 billion-a-year House bill which sets aside $700 million for cities to use exclusively for highways.

The 190 votes for the mass transit amendment by Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., were 22 more than mass transit proponents mustered last fall when a similar House proposal was defeated.

Since Congress failed to agree on a highway bill before adjourning last fall, the bills passed this spring authorize funds for the current fiscal year, 1974 and 1975 with another bill to be worked out in 1975.

In other action on the bill Thursday, the House:

—Defeated an amendment to allow funds set aside for cities of 400,000 or more population to be distributed directly to the cities without passing through state agencies.

—Approved an amendment knocking out a section setting aside the funds for those 32 cities.

—Defeated an amendment requiring separate congressional appropriations for the mass transit funds in the bill instead of leaving it to the discretion of the Transportation secretary.

—Defeated an amendment to delete from the bill a section providing for 10,000 miles of "priority primary routes" which has been branded a "junior interstate system."

—Defeated by a 74-30 standing vote an amendment to delete from the bill a moratorium on the enforced removal of directional billboards from beside federal highways.

—Defeated an effort to allow the $3 billion funding for the Urban Mass Transportation Act to be used to subsidize mass transit operations.

Halt In Sale Of Options Ordered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Corporations Department Thursday ordered Universal Commodity Option Corp. to halt the sale of options at its San Francisco and Sacramento offices.

Corporations Commissioner Brian R. Van Camp said he issued the special desist and refrain order after investigators allegedly found Universal salesmen offering the options in violation of a previous commission order.

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was born April 20, 1894.

On this day in history:

In 1903, American industrialist Andrew Carnegie gave $1.5 million for construction of The Hague Peace Palace in the Netherlands.

In 1926, a picturegram of a bank check transmitted from London to New York by RCA was honored and cashed.

In 1968, a South African Airways jetliner crashed in South West Africa, killing 122.

In 1972, Apollo 16 astronauts John Young and Charles Duke landed on the moon for the third U.S. exploration of the lunar surface.

A thought for the day: American novelist Thomas Wolfe said, "There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

San Rafael Air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Mitchell Admits Hearing Bugging Plan Discussed

those convicted in the case; and Jeb Stuart Magruder, Mitchell's deputy in the Nixon campaign organization, are reported to have told investigators that Mitchell not only knew about the Watergate plans but also approved them.

Asked by CBS whether he could confirm or deny a report today in The New York Times that he had participated in meetings at which bugging was discussed, Mitchell replied:

"I haven't read The Times article carefully, but what I did read is correct. But I want to add the plans were not just to bug somebody. They were for more detailed intelligence. We were not there just to talk just about bugging."

Asked then about his repeated denials over the past 10 months that he had any knowledge of the Watergate affair, Mitchell said his earlier statements "are still operative."

"Does that mean you did not have prior knowledge of the Watergate bugging operation?" Mitchell was asked.

He nodded yes.

In addition to Mitchell, White House counsel John W. Dean III was expected to testify today before the grand jury.

In another interview on his way to the courthouse, Mitchell told ABC that the Committee for the Re-Election of the President already had "an intelligence gathering operation" when he joined it as campaign manager and that it continued "with my approval."

Mitchell said the operation was designed to learn "every bit of information that it could about the opposing candidates," but that "it wasn't necessarily surveillance" and did not include wiretapping.

"It was a gathering of information from informants and investigators," he said. "Wiretapping is illegal, as you know, and we certainly were not authorizing any illegal activities."

Asked if he shared his wife's fears that the administration was trying to make him "a scapegoat" in the affair, Mitchell replied: "We'll have to wait and find out, won't we."

The New York Times reported today that Mitchell, who quit as Nixon's campaign manager two weeks after the June 17 spy raid at the Democratic headquarters, has told friends he rejected on three occasions proposals to bug Democrats during the campaign.

This was a big departure from Mitchell's previous statements that he had no knowledge at all of the Watergate bugging.

The reports fueled speculations that Mitchell and other high-level officials in the Nixon campaign soon would be indicted.

Three reporters who sneaked into the prosecutor's suite found Mitchell affable and smiling. Asked if he would stand by statements of his wife, Martha, protesting his innocence, Mitchell replied: "Yes, I have to — I'm married to her. You know I still have to live with her."

Mitchell testified before the grand jury last summer during its initial Watergate investigation that resulted in the indictments of five men arrested at the Watergate and two former campaign aides. All have been convicted or pleaded guilty.

PRICES

6.9 per cent increase in March, the highest since June, 1965. Fruit and vegetable prices went up 2.6 per cent, the highest since last June.

The overall 0.9 per cent increase in consumer prices in March, the highest since a 1.2 per cent rise in February, 1951, pushed the consumer price index to 129.8. This was 4.7 per cent above a year ago —nearly twice the administration's 2.5 per cent price guideline. This meant that goods and services which cost $10 in the 1967 base period cost $12.98 in March — nearly a 30 per cent increase in six years.

The inflation in prices in March more than offset the rise in average weekly earnings of rank and file workers, reducing the purchasing power of their earnings by 0.3 per cent.

The cost of living figures were released a day after the Commerce Department reported that preliminary figures showed prices rising at a 6 per cent annual rate during the first three months of the year, accounting for a major portion of the 14.3 per cent total economic growth recorded over the same period.

The administration's top economist, Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, indicated that if the growth rate doesn't start cooling off soon, the economy could be headed for a tailspin.

The January-March inflation rate was twice the administration's own 3 per cent forecast for price increases in 1973.

Coupled with the new price report, the figures could provoke fresh calls for tighter economic controls from opponents of President Nixon's economic game plan.

Quarantine On Mussels Will Start May 1

California's annual quarantine on mussels will begin May 1 and continue through Oct. 31, Marin County Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht announced today.

During the warm months, all California mussels may be poisonous to humans and pets, because the shellfish feed on tiny marine plants that are poisonous. Cooking cannot destroy the toxin, Dr. Albrecht warned. The mussels may be used only for fishbait during the quarantine.

Dr. Albrecht also cautioned shellfish lovers to discard all dark meat from clams during the summer, and thoroughly to clean and cook the remaining meat before eating it, because the dark parts of clams may concentrate the same toxin as the mussels.

Yo-Yo Contest Set Tomorrow In San Rafael

Youngsters 16 years old and younger may demonstrate their skills with yo-yos in two contests being sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department tomorrow, both starting at 1 p.m.

Boys and girls will be asked to perform 10 basic yo-yo tricks, including "the spinner," "rocking the baby" and "man on the flying trapeze."

Winners will receive trophies and prizes, according to Andrew J. Snyder, director of parks and recreation, and may compete in a Northern California competition next month. The winner of that contest will receive a $500 college shcolarship.

Financial Windfall Decreases

The financial windfall of $540,000 expected from senate bill 90 has become a mere breeze of $200,000, the Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, heard last night.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan told the board the district will not be in as good a financial condition as first expected. He said that while the district will receive increased state support over last year, the local tax rate might be reduced from the current $3.33 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.87.

He said the reduction in local tax revenue may leave the district in a difficult financial position. "The whole picture of state support is very confusing," Magowan said. He told the board he would prepare an updated financial report when more information is available from the state.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

FUNDS — Heard that a reduction in state funds will limit the proposed early childhood education program to kindergarten and first grades. Plans had been prepared to also include second and third grades.

TRIP — Approved plans by sixth grade students at La Tercera School to go to Disneyland May 3-5. Students raised funds to finance the trip.

TEACHERS — Accepted the resignation of Neill Whitman, who will leave the teaching profession, and granted a one year leave of absence to Kathleen Carriger so she may adopt a baby.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to hear opinions from teachers on the level of services for students and recommendations for improvements next year.

FAIR

chaeological sites on the property and the center has agreed that no earthwork will be done until completion of a full archaeological survey is completed, the firm reported.

San Antonio Creek is subject to periodic flooding, so permanent buildings would be placed outside the flood plain and only activity such as bicycle and pedestrian paths would be near the creek, the firm said.

During fair activity, dust may be created at the parking area, a large open meadow near Highway 101, but it will be sprinkled and reseeded after each fair.

The firm also reported that all sewage waste will be self-contained in ponds and no chemical wastes or other discharges added to creek waters.

"Conservationists do not feel the proposed project will be a major threat to current wildlife," the firm reported.

The firm also reported that:

"The center's permanent parking area and substantially all improvements will not be visible from Highway 101... Only during fair activities will temporary parking be permitted in the front meadow.

"Preservation of a natural setting is of the greatest importance to the essence of the entire proposed Renaissance Center.

"The year-round permanent population of the Renaissance Center will be no more than 250-300 people... It is expected that up to 15,000 people will attend the fair on each of its weekends.

"The bulk of the lands owned by the center will continue to be devoted to agricultural and-or open space purposes throughout most of the year."

Injured Youth Is Satisfactory

A Mill Valley youth was reported in satisfactory condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with injuries suffered Wednesday in an auto accident on Mount Tamalpais.

The California Highway Patrol said Knapp was hurt in a two-car accident at 6 p.m. Wednesday on Bolinas Ridge Park Road one-half mile north of Ridgecrest Boulevard.

Knapp was southbound, officers said, when his car and another driven by Nancy J. Denmark, 26, of Box 498, Bolinas, collided head-on. Officers said her car was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the mishap.

Rabbi Hoffman To Give Talk Tonight

Rabbi Morton Hoffman, formerly of Marin County, will talk about his experiences as a teacher at the Leo Baeck School in Jerusalem at 8:15 p.m. today at Rodef Sholom Temple in San Rafael.

A resident of Marin for 13 years, Hoffman has been a teacher in Jerusalem since 1970.

PLAN

tem of transportation, open space and land use."

The goal proposes preserving some 41 per cent of the land in the urbanized eastern corridor as open space.

Spokesmen for the Tomales Bay Association, Marin Conservation League and Environmental Action Committee for West Marin urged adoption of the countywide plan, as did University of California law professor Caleb Foote, an Inverness Ridge resident.

He compared the fringes of Point Reyes National Seashore to the neighborhood of the Acadia National Park in Maine, which he said had been left unplanned to degenerate into a "terrible, ugly blight of development... motels and hamburger stands" where property owners' taxes have tripled in recent years to provide the necessary public services.

Foote said he feared the supervisors' decision to limit interim zoning of West Marin to only six months would leave the area wide open to spoiling.

"We require environmental impact reports now" before development can occur, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney replied. "You also have Proposition 20 (the coastal conservation commission)" board chairman Arnold M. Baptiste added. "You also have A-60" zoning, Arrigoni chimed in, and Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere topped the responses with, "you have no water, sewers or roads" to facilitate development. "What more do you want?" for protection, until the countywide plan is adopted, Roumiguiere asked.

Pamela Loyd of Mill Valley said that Marin cities and the county "must give up a small part of their individual rights" to make the countywide plan work.

Roy R. Rhodes of San Rafael opposed the annual cost of implementing the plan, estimated at $335 per capita in the plan itself.

"That's too damned expensive for me. Do we get a vote on this?" he demanded.

His criticism was joined by Harold K. Thompson of San Anselmo who said he had previously spoken against the plan's cost and reiterated "we can't afford it."

Baptiste, acting somewhat as apologist for the plan during the hearing, stressed that "we have an economic study" in progress on the plan. He said it will be discussed during the board's final hearing on the plan, now set for May 26.

Supervisor Michael Wornum asked the critics to specify whether they object to transportation, open space or housing segments of the plan.

"If you say the plan is too costly, period, it doesn't give us much guidance," he explained. He got no reply.

Wornum said he would vote for the goals, but questioned whether the search for more Marin jobs really is necessary. "It seems to me we've done rather well as commuters," he added.

Roumiguiere said, "There are few who quarrel with the goals — what they really say, is 'we want to keep Marin a lovely place for a wide variety of goals'. I think there's a lot of disagreement whether "we need the (countywide plan) to accomplish these goals."

Next hearing on the countywide plan, at 8 a.m. next Thursday, will deal with the environmental quality portions of the plan, according to Von Gundell.

A hearing at 7 p.m. May 10 will cover the commercial development and transportation phases of the plan and the final session at 9 a.m. May 26 will deal with the economic feasibility and means of implementing the 17-year plan.

GAS

have to close down altogether at some point," he said.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Standard Oil Co. of California in San Francisco said, "so far, we are filling all orders" for Standard and Chevron stations. "That's not to say we won't have to go to quotas later," he added, noting that "we all know there's a gasoline shortage."

Standard discontinued supplying independents about a year ago, the spokesman said, and "we're not soliciting any new business," he added.

"We just have to call up and tell them how much (gasoline) we want," manager of an ARCO station in San Rafael said today.

An employee at a local Richfield station said there are no quotas for his supply of gasoline either.

This move leaves independents dependent on foreign oil, according to James Robertson, president of Cheshire Oil Co. of New Hampshire and president of the Independent Oilmen's Association of New England.

The problem, according to Robertson, is that major stations still must set retail prices at less than independents can buy gasoline wholesale from foreign markets.

Two senators, Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., have introduced bills which would require oil companies to allocate gasoline to independent customers on the same basis as their own stations.

"I just don't believe that all the oil companies in the country can come up with a shortage at the same time — there's something fishy," a local independent dealer said today.

Accident Victim Off Critical List

Diane Lee Schulz, 17-year-old Novato girl injured in an auto accident April 7 near Stafford Dam, has been removed from the critical list at Marin General Hospital, a spokesman said today.

Miss Schulz, who suffered head injuries and cuts, was described in "serious" condition today.

She was a passenger in a car driven by another 17-year-old Novato resident, Linda L. Paladini, who died in the crash.

The California Highway Patrol said their car rolled over at least twice after Miss Paladini attempted to pass a car on a curve on Novato Boulevard.

OBITUARIES

INA S. HOLTZ

Ina S. Holtz of Corte Madera, a resident of Marin County for 27 years, died yesterday in a local hospital from complications suffered after choking on a piece of meat.

According to the Marin County Coroner's office, Mrs. Holtz, 56, was dining at a local restaurant Sunday when the piece of meat lodged in her throat. She went into a coma from which she never recovered.

Mrs. Holtz, a native of San Francisco, lived at 121 Redwood Avenue with her husband, Clarence R. Holtz, an employee of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

She was a member of the Redwood Presbyterian Church in Larkspur.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Diane Grijalva of San Jose and Linda Holtz of Corte Madera and one grandchild.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Daphne Funerals Marin in Corte Madera. The family requests memorial contributions to the Redwood Presbyterian Church.

JOHN SEVERSON

Private funeral for John E. Severson, father of Dorothy Potter of San Anselmo, will be held Saturday in a local mortuary.

Severson died Wednesday in a local convalescent hospital after a series of illnesses. He was 81.

A native of Sweden, he came to the United States as a boy with his parents, settling in Evanston, Ill., where he spent most of his life. He was a janitor for the school district there, retiring in 1957. He moved to Marin County five months ago.

Severson was a member of the American Legion in Evanston.

Surviving are his wife, Anna M. Severson; another daughter, Mrs. Marion E. Mattern of Tustin, Orange County, a brother, Samuel Shuneson of Oak Park, Ill.; a sister, Alma Wedikind of Nielsville, Wis., and five grandchildren.

WILLIAM HEWIT

Funeral for William Andrew Hewit III, former Post Office employee in San Rafael, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Hewit died yesterday in a Petaluma hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 51.

Before his retirement 10 years ago, he worked about 16 years as a letter carrier in Marin. He was born in San Francisco, and was a veteran of Navy service in World War II.

His home was at 25 Alta Drive, Petaluma.

He is survived by a daughter, Kathleen Hewit and three sons, William A. IV, Steven and Kirt Hewit, all of Santa Rosa; two sisters, Barbara Cory and Vivian McCoy of Santa Rosa; a brother, Robert L. Hewit of Rohnert Park, and three grandchildren.

Private inurnment will follow the funeral.

MERLE HAYNES

A native of California, he was the west coast representative for an eastern firm specializing in the sale of parts for refrigeration machinery.

He was a graduate of the University of Oregon, where he received a degree in engineering.

SKYSCRAPERS ABOVE A WINDSWEPT BAY

Only one sailboat braves the whitecaps on San Francisco Bay; scores of others huddle behind the breakwater of the marina adjoining Fort Mason in San Francisco. Highrise buildings on Russian Hill loom knife-sharp in the sunny and clear but chilly air, as seen yesterday from Point Cavallo at Fort Baker near the Marin County end of the Golden Gate Bridge. Federal forecasters said the windy but fair weather will continue through tomorrow, with highs in the low 70s and lows in the 50s.

Nine Names Under Study For Nixon's Plan Post

Marin County Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere today announced the names of nine citizens under consideration for appointment to the county planning commission seat vacated by the resignation of San Rafael Councilman-elect Jack G. Nixon.

Roumiguiere will fill the vacancy since each supervisor appoints one planning commissioner and Nixon represented Roumiguiere's District 1, an area stretching from Marinwood to Peacock Gap and portions of San Rafael.

Under consideration for appointment to the seat, Roumiguiere said, are:

Calvin B. Colt, a member of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary board; Donald A. Duerr, a member of the Marinwood Community Services District board; Richard L. Less, a member of the former Terra Linda Community Services District board; Joseph J. Garbarino, a San Rafael planning commissioner; Jerry Russom, former president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association and architect of Lawrence E. Mulryan's successful San Rafael City Council election campaign.

Marie Sessi, amember of the Las Gallinas Valley Task Force and an unsuccessful candidate for election to the San Rafael Board of Education; Robert C. Jones, chairman of the Las Gallinas Valley Task Force; Larry Hoyt, former president of the San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association, and Alex McMillan, a member of the Marin County Grand Jury.

Roumiguiere said the list of possible appointees is open-ended and tentative, and declared he will announce his selection within a week.

Nixon's term on the county planning commission, to which he was appointed in 1969, expired yesterday. He announced his resignation from the group Tuesday in the wake of his election to the San Rafael City Council.

$39,000 Robbery Of Armored Car

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — Two men held up an armored car driver at a mental hospital Thursday and escaped with more than $39,000 in currency and coins.

Police said Edwin Girroir, 42, of Haverhill, was confronted by the bandits in a corridor of the Danvers State Hospital's administration building, where he was delivering two sacks of money for an employe check-cashing service.

Coastal Control Group Adopts Criteria For Judging Permits

The North Central Regional Coastal Conservation Commission last night adopted a set of criteria to evaluate applications for development permits.

The commission, which has jurisdiction over a 1,000-yard-wide stretch of ocean coast along Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco, had been shelving applications pending adoption of the criteria.

Their adoption will mean voting on a backlog of some 35 permits at the commission's next meeting on May 3 in Santa Rosa.

The commission's executive director, Michael L. Fischer, took the criteria from Proposition 20, which created the commission last November. They will judge applications on the bases of whether they have any substantial ecological effect, constitute an irreversible use of the coast, are in a hazardous area, open the door to future additional development, and restrict public enjoyment of the coast.

Also on the next agenda will be a hearing on whether to exempt Bodega Harbor from commission rules. Developers of the 1,600-home project claim they did enough work before passage of Proposition 20 that they should be exempt.

The Santa Rosa meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the county supervisors chambers. A tour of the Bodega Harbor development will be held first at 4 p.m., after which the commission will have dinner in Santa Rosa.

In other business, Fischer reported he has hired three planners. David Dubbink, a doctoral candidate in environmental planning at the University of California at Los Angeles was hired as senior planner at $17,300 a year.

Gary Holloway, senior planner for the City of Novato, was hired as associate planner at $14,916, and Robert Brown, assistant planner for San Luis Obispo County, was hired as assistant planner for $11,160.

Off-Duty Arrests Ordered Halted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Policemen who are off duty were told Thursday not to arrest traffic violators or persons involved in misdemeanors.

The order by Safety Director Bernard Chupka followed a furor over the accidental shooting death of a 19-year-old motorist who was being frisked by an off-duty officer last month.

Chupka said the order will "clear up much of the confusion that now exists on the part of the policemen and the community."

Tight New Rules Told On Welfare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has proposed sweeping changes in welfare regulations designed to halt payments to ineligible persons, overpayments and other inefficiencies.

After they were announced Thursday the proposed rules were immediately criticized by a spokesman for the National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO), who said they would create hardship for the poor.

Robert D. Carleson, special assistant to the secretary of health, education and welfare for welfare matters, announced the proposed changes.

"These regulations were requested by the states and are designed to give the states additional tools to eliminate errors in the welfare system and in effect clean it up," he said.

Carleson said the proposals include provisions to:

—Give states 45 days instead of the current 30 to make decisions on applications. Catherine Jermany of the Welfare Rights Organization's legal committee, said this would "cause extreme hardships" for the poor. She said landlords, utilities and other would be less likely to provide service to a person who would not know for 45 days whether he would receive welfare money.

—Require welfare applicants to submit written, signed applications for aid.

—Permit states to verify eligibility through employers, neighbors and other third parties without obtaining the recipient's consent. Regulations which now say that an aged, blind or disabled applicant shall be the only source of information about himself would be revoked.

—Set up a system of local hearings to reduce the backlog of pending hearings at the state level. Carleson said this backlog has meant that ineligible recipients continue to receive welfare for long periods until hearing examiners get to their cases.

—Allow states to recover overpayments from individuals, even by taking the money from current assistance checks.

The public was given 30 days to comment on the proposed rules, after which the government could put them into effect.

Pilgrims Following The Path Of Jesus

JERUSALEM (UPI) — More than 25,000 Christian pilgrims trudged along the Street of Sorrow, carrying wooden crosses along the traditional Good Friday route followed by Jesus from where He was sentenced to death to Mt. Calvary where He was crucified.

The pilgrims walked through the narrow winding alleyways of ancient Jerusalem. On adjacent rooftops, Israeli troops guarded against possible Arab terrorist attacks.

The Christians, many of whom traveled here from abroad, paused at each of 14 Stations of the Cross on Via Dolorosa (Street of Sorrow) and sang hymns.

Police checked the passports of the pilgrims at the Omariya Grade School near St. Stephen's Gate, built over the traditional site of the Roman court where Jesus was condemned to death.

"We're watching for anything and everything, including guerrilla activity," one officer said.

From St. Stephen's Gate, the pilgrims wound their way to Mt. Calvary and the tomb of Jesus, both stations inside the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Christianity's holiest shrine.

The solemn Good Friday ceremony will give way to the joyous Easter Sunday high mass in the church celebrating Jesus' resurrection. The mass will be celebrated by the Latin patriarch to the Holy Land, Msgr. Joseph J. Beltritti.

The Christian pilgrims crossed paths with observant Jews on their way to Judaism's holiest shrine, the Wailing Wall —the sole remnant of the Temple of David. The Jews were en route to Sabbath and Passover services.

The pilgrims filed quietly through the pillared entrance of the church for brief prayers at the Stone of the Unction, where Jesus was anointed before burial, according to tradition.

Death Sentences Passed In Connecticut Senate

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Connecticut Senate today passed a bill which would allow the death penalty for six crimes. One of those would be the case of a nonaddict drug pusher whose client dies from the drug.

The measure now goes to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill for his signature. He has called for a return to capital punishment, and so is expected to sign the bill. If Meskill signs it, the measure would become effective Oct. 1.

Last week, the state House passed the bill on a vote of 89-49.

In the Senate, the vote was 19-17. The deciding vote was cast by Senate Majority Leader Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, who remained silent in his seat while the clerk called his name twice, then voted for the measure after the other 35 senators had cast their ballots.

The law would permit the death penalty for: nonaddicted hard drug pushers whose sales result in death; the slaying of law enforcement officials while on duty; murder for hire or gain; murder by a person serving a life term; murder by a previously convicted murderer; and kidnapping resulting in death.

It provides that, after a person has been convicted of murder, a posttrial hearing must be held by a three-judge panel to determine if the defendant should receive life imprisonment or death.

Density Cut In Hilarita Plan Eyed

The proposed 112-unit moderate-income housing project at Hilarita, under attack in the courts, may be reduced in size in the hope the suit will be withdrawn, it was reported today.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association for Housing, said the final decision is up to the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, a nonprofit group planning the federally financed development.

Under consideration, Mackey said, is trimming one of the nine planned structures housing 10 units from the project, scheduled for construction on the site of the old World War II barracks in Tiburon.

Not only would the reduction save about $200,000, Mackey said, but it is hoped the drop in project density would encourage six neighbors challenging the development to drop their suit.

A decision on the suit is pending in a state appellate court.

Mackey said the building tentatively proposed for elimination would be the most expensive in terms of buttress and foundation work.It would be situated at the highest point of the hillside development.

Low bid for the project, from the Williams and Burrows Construction Co., totaled $2.6 million, plus undetermined charges, Mackey said.

Petaluma Trio Hurt In Accident

Three Petaluma youths were injured yesterday, none seriously, when their auto, westbound on Petaluma-Point Reyes Road one-half mile west of the Marin-Sonoma Line, skidded out of control.

The California Highway Patrol said the car was operated by Roberta G. Brothers, 19, of 424 Union Street, Apt. A, who suffered head cuts in the 2 p.m. accident. She was treated at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma.

Officers said the car began skidding on a curve near the Volp Ranch, slid along the road for 150 feet, sheared off a mailbox on the left shoulder, then slid back onto the highway for another 90 feet.

Debra Lanning, 17, of 305 Garfield Drive, was treated for a broken right arm and head cut at Hillcrest, then transferred to Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco where she was reported in satisfactory condition today.

A second passenger, Thomas Brott, 20, of 2572 Bodega Avenue, was treated for head cuts, and John Lear, 22, of the same address, was reported injured, but was not treated at Hillcrest.

Deaths Are Linked To Radiation

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A nuclear physicist has linked an increase in cancer-related deaths in Ohio River cities to radiation from a nuclear power station on the river in Beaver County, Pa.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, director of radiological physics at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, said Thursday cancer deaths increased 24 per cent in Cincinnati from 1958 to 1968—while the national average increase was 8 per cent and the Ohio increase 6 per cent.

"You are drinking effluent from Shipping Port Nuclear Power Station," Sternglass told Cincinnati Mayor Theodore Berry.

He attributed the increase here, a 37 per cent increase in East Liverpool, Ohio, another Ohio River town, and 31 per cent increase in Pittsburgh to air-born gaseous materials and contaminated milk. Sternglass said most cows which furnish milk to Pittsburgh graze in areas near Shipping Port where the reactor is located.

Mayor Berry, noting the jump in fatal cancer cases from 186 deaths per 100,000 people to 229.9, called for an immediate statewide investigation.

Students Jailed By Russ Police

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet police arrested "six or seven" American student tourists demonstrating outside the Soviet visa office today protesting Soviet emigration policies for Jews, American embassy officials said.

The embassy said Soviet police confirmed that the Americans had been arrested.

Embassy officials had no further information immediately but said they assumed the students had entered the country as tourists. There are 38 Americans studying at various Soviet universities, mostly Moscow State University. They are all graduate students and scholars, and embassy officials considered it unlikely that they would become involved in a demonstration.

Foreigners and Russians who were present said the youths chanted "Liberty, Liberty" and sang Jewish songs in Hebrew before police arrived. They said the youths made no attempt to resist and were carried away in squad cars.

Shortly before the incident, a young man speaking with an American accent telephoned United Press International and said he was one of a group of 10 American students who planned to occupy the visa office, OVIRM. He said they wanted to protest Soviet emigration policy toward Jews.

"We are going to stay there until they throw us out," he said. "They will have to forcibly remove us."

He declined to give his name or say where he was from.

But witnesses said a group of American youths, variously reported to number seven and 10, entered the building, stayed inside about three minutes and then came out.

They sat in front of the door on the street about 15 minutes, singing Hebrew songs and chanting "Liberty! Liberty!" the witnesses said.

They said police then arrived and took them away.

A busload of Moscow militiamen (city police) sat across the street from the visa office after the incident.

The demonstration came only a few days after U.S. officials said the Soviet Union has informed them that it has suspended a controversial, so-called education tax on emigrants.

The tax affected mainly Jewish emigrants. Jewish sources in Moscow generally have taken the position that suspension of the tax does not solve the problem completely.

Shoreline Board Sets A Bond Vote

Shoreline Unified School District trustees have decided to call a $450,000 bond election this fall to build seven classrooms and a multipurpose room at Tomales Elementary School.

Asst. Supt. Kenneth L. Barnes said the new classrooms would house pupils now in portable classrooms at the old Tomales High School site, and place all pupils on the school site east of Shoreline Highway.

Voters last year twice defeated $1.2 million bond proposals to provide not only new classrooms at Tomales Elementary but also improvements at Bodega Bay School and a $300,000 building fund.

Barnes said the board probably will set a special meeting on details of a bond proposal.

Trustees last night also hired Charles Billings, a school psychologist with the Marin County Schools Office, as director of pupil personnel services at $14,815 a year, working a four-and-a-half day week.

Prison Duo Pleads To Knife Count

Two San Quentin inmates pleaded innocent today in Marin Superior court to felony counts of possessing prison-made knives.

Judge David Menary Jr. set a jury trial for the week of June 4. Estimated length of the trial is three days.

The two inmates, chained hand and foot and around the necks for the court appearance, were arrested Jan. 13 in the prison's lower yard after up to four inmates attacked convict Daniel Harris, stabbing him in the left arm and back. Harris recovered.

Goins is serving six months to life for robberies in San Francisco and San Mateo last year. Cavanaugh has been in prison since 1970 on a sentence of six months to 15 years for grand theft and burglary in Los Angeles.

The two were indicted with three other inmates March 21. The five indictments by the Marin County Grand Jury were the first in approximately 15 months.

Wallace Becomes Grandfather Again

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace became a grandfather for the second time Thursday when his oldest daughter, Bobbi Jo, gave birth to a boy. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 4 ounces and was named Jason Thomas Parsons.

"I am very elated and I am especially happy to hear both mother and baby are doing fine," said Wallace from his office in Montgomery.

Funds Approved For Boyd House

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night approved budget expenditures of $55,316 for renovation and relocation of Boyd House and hiring of a parks ranger.

The proposals are part of a $441,671 budget for 1973-74 which the commission approved last week pending further study of park ranger and Boyd House renovation proposals.

The commission approved a $5,316 expense for hiring a park ranger for a six-month period, according to Andrew J. Snyder, parks and recreation director. The ranger is needed, he said, to patrol parks as well as the city's open space areas which have become campgrounds for hunters, transients and motorcyclists.

Relocation and renovation of the Boyd House may cost as much as $50,000, according to Snyder. Current proposals concern renovating the house and relocating it near the tennis court area of Boyd Park, he said, although the commission last night called for a detailed study before any work begins.

Relocation of the house would allow for realignment of Mission Avenue near the park and provision of off-street parking according to Snyder.

The proposals will now be considered by the city council, he added.

Food Products Recalled Because Of Mushrooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Friday announced that thousands of food products, ranging from frozen pizzas to instant airline dinners, are being recalled as part of the botulism scare in mushrooms.

All of the products involved contain mushrooms made by Fran Mushroom Co., Inc., Ravenna, N.Y., whose entire mushroom production —estimated at 500,000 pounds —is being recalled because of possible botulin contamination. Earlier recalls have included canned mushrooms distributed to military commissaries across the country.

Today's announced recalls include:

—About 72,528 Cap'n John tuna noodle casseroles made by the National Fish Division of Atlantic and Pacific Stores and distributed to AP outlets across the country.

—An estimated 3,300 mushroom, olive and pimiento pizzas made by Macabee Foods Inc., Hackensack, N.J.

—An estimated 1,200 boneless breast of chicken dinners with mushroom gravy sold to United Airlines for first class service. And 300 cases of other chicken dinners, all made by Manischewitz Food Products, Corp., Vineland, N.J.

—About 5,331 frozen pizzas of various types made by Festive Foods, Inc., Mount Vernon, N.Y., and 21,900 packages of bagels made by the same company.

The FDA said it could not estimate how many of the products still remain on store shelves, or how many might have been consumed. In the case of the Manischewitz products, the agency said those labeled "for Passover use" were not involved.

The botulin bacteria can cause serious illness and even death. It usually results from undercooking during the preparation process. The FDA said no illnesses had been reported so far from mushrooms involved in the current recall.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

9:31 a.m., Alto — Fire in trash container at the Cove apartments on Barbary Way. Cause unknown; minor damage to container.

9:44 p.m., San Rafael — False alarm from box at Medway Road and Belvedere Street; no one there on arrival.

Plan For Open Space Is Backed

San Marin Improvement Association directors have endorsed the Mount Burdell Open Space Committee's plan to preserve open space on the upper slopes of the mountain, according to recording secretary Gloria Burnett.

The plan would prohibit homes above the 600 foot level or in areas that are viewable from the Novato Valley.

Directors voted to back the plan Wednesday night after a presentation by Joyce Aplen of the committee.

John W. Walker of 5 Coronado Court was appointed to the board to succeed John T. Wyant.

Delay Being Asked On Marin City Plan

Directors of the Marin City Community Services District last night agreed to ask county supervisors to postpone approving a revised master plan for the community until the proposal has been presented to the district.

George B. Baxter, district consultant-manager, said the supervisors are scheduled to consider adopting the plan May 8. The county planning department has been reviewing and making changes in the master plan which has been in the works for several years.

He said the district board asked for the continuance because it has not yet had the opportunity to look over the revised proposal.

Marin City CSD Board Also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Otis Gaines, district recreation director. Gaines had been suspended from his duties for 30 days, then reinstated. He submitted his resignation April 5.

LEASE — Signed a lease with the Sausalito School District to rent the Manzanita School for $1 a year. The school district has agreed to make necessary repairs to the building which will be used by community groups.

CONVENTION — Decided to open district facilities to the Northern California First Jurisdiction of the Churches of God and Christ which will hold its annual convention at the Village Baptist Church in Marin City May 24-26.

BUDGET — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Thursday to consider a preliminary budget for 1973-74.

General Plan Panel Will Meet Thursday

San Rafael's Citizen Advisory Committee on the General Plan will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in city hall to air committee reports and discuss the status of the city's new general plan.

Among topics of discussion will be San Rafael's growth, economic balance and housing mix, according to Tina Ferris, committee publicist.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Strawberry's Kublai Khan Offers Some Of Marin's Top Chinese Fare

After Marco Polo returned from the realm of Kublai Khan in the 13th Century, his account of the East became the prevailing authority on the subject in the western world for almost 600 years.

Among other things, what he had to say on eastern foods caused many changes and improvements in European menus. But this influence became obscured as to its origin until the Chinese themselves migrated to the west and brought along their own customs of cooking and eating.

Not until then was it understood that Chinese families did not divide their meals into courses, but served all foods at the same time. For some people it was not entirely satisfactory. While they set to work on one dish, the rest got cold. Eventually they got used to disposing of multiple dishes simultaneously and today there are many fans of Chinese cooking, with its lean meats, combined with crisp vegetables and delicate sauces.

The Chinese, like the French, hold to traditional and ancestral recipes, but have made some compromises to the West and in fact are usually good at western cooking.

One of the Marin County Chinese restaurants that still retains the best of the old and has taken on some of the new is the Kublai Khan at Strawberry Town and Country Village.

I recall that when Stanley Toy first opened here he dug out many authentic recipes of old Peking and to a great extent these still influence cooking at Kublai Khan. I always enjoy his meals. Chinese family dinners are from $3.25 per person, depending upon how much variety or novelty you're after.

STANLEY TOY
Combines East, West

But you can order four complete Chinese dinners to take out for as low as $5.95 for the lot.

Kublai Khan's menu is by no means restricted to Chinese dishes. Indeed one of the biggest culinary attractions is the complete steak dinner (filet mignon or New York) for two at $6.95. In these days of high meat prices this is phenomenal.

MAURICE AMZALLAG of Maurice et Charles' Bistrot in San Rafael must have been quite confused on returning from a trip to Minnesota to find himself billed in last week's restaurant column as "Robert Charles' painter" — a slip of the fingers in the typesetting department in trying to spell out "partner."

Actually Maurice happens to be a talented painter (artist, that is) but I doubt that he has ever undertaken to render a portrait of his associate in business.

Another error omitted reference to the bistrot's new summer schedule, which now calls for it to be open Wednesdays through Sundays, and closed on Mondays and Tuesdays. Many calls for reservations on Sundays, when it was previously closed, caused the change.

AGAIN THIS YEAR, North Bay restaurateurs appear to be expecting a good turnout for Easter, so this Sunday is likely to see some well filled tables. It's not quite as big a day for the restaurants as Mother's Day, but big enough to justify advance reservations.

Many restaurants will be open and this might be a good time to visit one that's new to you or where you haven't been for a long period.

How about the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur which will be serving both brunch and dinner? John Weiland definitely suggests booking space ahead for either period.

RESTAURANT LE CHATEAU at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road in San Rafael will serve a special Easter brunch from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (regular lunch also available) and dinners will be from 3 p.m. Regular dinner menu will be in force.

LE TONNEAU in Corte Madera will start its Easter dinners at 4 p.m. Regular menu will be served, in addition to which you will also find leg of lamb listed.

ALVARADO INN at Ignacio will have a full day on Easter Sunday — from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

OUT AT BLACK POINT INN, young Greg Galway of Novato is the new chef, replacing Wally Price, who moved up to Anchor Bay to be with Eric Benson. Greg has worked with Wally at several restaurants and knows his style of cooking and recipes. For a test, order the bouillabaise. But don't expect to find him there on a Monday, his day off. Tom Daley himself puts on the chef's hat then. He wears it well, too.

Brunch will be served here on Easter from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. — eggs benedict, steak and eggs and other combinations. Dinners will be from 4 p.m., with the regular men served, plus leg of lamb.

DEER PARK VILLA in Fairfax will probably be using all of its recently expanded facilities for brunches from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinners from 3:30 to 9:30 p.m.

IN THE SAME COMMUNITY, Rubini's will be open at 4 p.m. and serve a special Easter menu prepared by Gordon Jones.

The restaurant continues its policy of $1 off on a complete dinner for those seated in the dining room by 6:30 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday evenings.

EL GRECO on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile will serve Easter dinners from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Regular Spanish menu will be in force.

If you are interested in bullfighting, this restaurant will have a colorful collection of collages on the subject — about 45 of them in all — on display for two or three weeks starting Tuesday. There are the works of several outstanding Spanish artists.

HERE'S ONE TO CONSIDER— the San Geronimo National Golf Club in west Marin. Special Easter brunch (with Ramos fizz or champagne cocktail) will be served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and then dinner up to 10 p.m. There's quite a bit of space out here but I'd still advise reservations.

IF YOU'RE INCLINED to travel additional miles, try some of the Sonoma County restaurants. There are several possibilities in the Valley of the Moon, including London Lodge at Glen Ellen and Golden Bear Lodge, Kenwood. Farther north at Windsor, Kleist's Heidelberg would be a good place.

EASTER SUNDAY will be the last day at 909 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael for Stan and Ursula Valan of the Grotto and their staff.

Starting Monday they will close here to move things to their new place at 3751 Redwood Highway, across from the Marin County Civic Center. It's a beautiful, new building, with large dining room, cocktail lounge and parking lot in the rear. There's good access to and from the highway. There will be much new equipment and novel decor. Stan and Ursula have been picking up a lot of maritime gear these last few months. Their reopening should be on May 10.

Meanwhile for these last few days on Lincoln Avenue, fresh salmon is in and Ursula prepares it beautifully.

OLD VIENNA RESTAURANT, closed since the first of this month at 508 Third Street, San Rafael, will reopen at 909 Lincoln about May 15. Karl and Edith Klauda will set about remodeling it to conform to their own ideas of what a Viennese restaurant should be. Many changes will be made and the menu will be expanded.

A Chinese restaurant is scheduled to go into 508 Third.

LEG OF LAMB is a traditional French item for Easter dinner, so naturally Le Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia will be among those Marin restaurants serving it. Regular menu will also be in force, with dinners from 4 p.m.

Regular Sunday brunch will also be served here on Easter from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Hearing Losses Courses Slated

A six-week hearing improvement course to assist persons over 16 years old with mild or moderate hearing loses will begin April 30 at Marin General Hospital, sponsored by the Marin Hearing and Speech Center and the College of Marin.

Classes will be held Mondays from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m.

People with normal hearing who work with those with hearing handicaps may also attend, according to the sponsors.

Anyone interested in attending may call the Marin Hearing and Speech Center or the College of Marin adult education division.

Closed Session

The Dixie School District board will meet in closed session at 8 p.m. Monday to conduct its annual review of the performance of Supt. Clifford W. Campbell, the superintendent announced yesterday.

Special March Of Dimes Events Set

The second annual March of Dimes walk-a-thon and bike-a-thon will be held May 6 to benefit the North Bay March of Dimes Chapter, serving Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties, announced publicist Nancy King Hayden.

The day-long event, will begin at Fort Baker near Sausalito from 8 to 10 a.m.

Entrants may take a 20-mile walk across Golden Gate Bridge and through Golden Gate Park, or a 40-mile biking circuit to Lake Merced in San Francisco and back to Marin County.

Contributions pledged by sponsors of hikers and bicycle riders will go to March of Dimes research, medical services, professional education and community service programs, Mrs. Hayden said.

75 Streptococcus Cases Reported

Seventy-six cases of streptococcus infection and 28 cases of gonorrhea were among communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

One case each of mumps and infectious hepatitis also were reported.

Thieu Sets Tour Of Six Countries

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu will visit six countries this summer, a government source said Thursday.

The countries are Australia New Zealand, Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia and Singapore. No specific dates have been set.

Marinite Will Design Fair For Third Time

Marin designer Robert J. Mahoney has been named for the third consecutive year as designer for the 1973 Marin County Fair, Marcelle B. McCoy, fair manager, announced yesterday.

The fair is scheduled this year from Aug. 30 through Sept. 3 on the fairgrounds at the Marin Civic Center.

Mahoney, display director for Gump's in San Francisco, lives in Fairfax.

The fare again will include outdoor displays as well as displays in the Exhibition Hall of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, Mrs. McCoy said.

Space Jobs Cut

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Forty-five civil service employes' jobs will be eliminated by June 1, the Space Agency said Thursday.

A 'Postal People' Day Scheduled On April 30

Souvenir envelopes, guided tours and collectors' items will highlight "postal people day" at the San Rafael main Post Office April 30, according to Postmaster Hugh Cassidy.

The open house, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will honor Postal Service employees and introduce a new issue of stamps depicting postal occupations to the public. The issue consists of 10 designs of 8-cent stamps.

Guided tours, starting on the half-hour throughout the five hours, will allow the public to get a first hand look at how their mail is processed.

All customers at any San Rafael branch office, including Greenbrae, Kentfield, Mission, Terra Linda and Civic Center, will be given souvenir envelopes to mark the occasion, Cassidy said.

The "postal people" stamp issue will be on sale on a regular basis, and cacheted envelopes with all 10 of the new series stamps will be hand postmarked locally for "first day" issuance to interested collectors.

Israelis use 90 per cent of their water for irrigation, the highest rate in the world.

Warrant Is Issued In Heroin Case

A Marin Municipal Court judge has issued a bench warrant for a 21-year-old San Franciscan who failed to appear for arraignment on a misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence of heroin after he learned he would not be prosecuted on a felony charge of possessing the narcotic.

Judge Peter Allen Smith issued the warrant for Benjamin Joseph Valenzuela Wednesday, three days after Valenzuela was told in Marin Superior Court that he would not be tried for drug possession.

Valenzuela and James Peter Fry, 22, also of San Francisco, were arrested Dec. 17, by a California Highway patrolman who stopped Valenzuela's car near the Spencer Avenue off-ramp from Highway 101 on Waldo Grade.

Fry was arraigned Monday.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
10 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

The Voters Have Spoken (Minority, That Is)

The voters have spoken — about a third of them, that is.

Countywide, only 32.47 per cent of Marin's voters went to the polls Tuesday to decide who should run their schools. The turnout was better — but still not a majority, where additional issues were at stake.

ON THE WHOLE, we find little to complain about in the decisions made for the electorate by this minority, although it did not follow the Independent-Journal's recommendations in a majority of cases. Five of 11 candidates endorsed by the I-J won election; on only seven of 14 ballot measures did the result go as we recommended (two of the seven others being bond issues which mustered substantial majorities but fell short of the necessary two-thirds).

We would be alarmed rather than pleased, however, if all the candidates we endorsed were elected and the voters agreed with us on all the issues. We merely attempt to judge the candidates and evaluate the issues on the basis of the best information obtainable and offer our recommendations as guidance to those who want them.

AS IN LAST year's elections, the environmental issue proved a big vote-getter Tuesday. Candidates who were able to label themselves "environmentalists" were uniformly successful.

In the contest in which this had the greatest effect on the vote it may have also the greatest after-effect. Dr. L. Martin Griffin Jr., whose credentials as environmentalist are beyond question, won a whopping victory in Division 4 of Marin Municipal Water District. His vote on the district board can be expected to mean a "no growth" policy will be pursued by the water district which serves most of Marin's population.

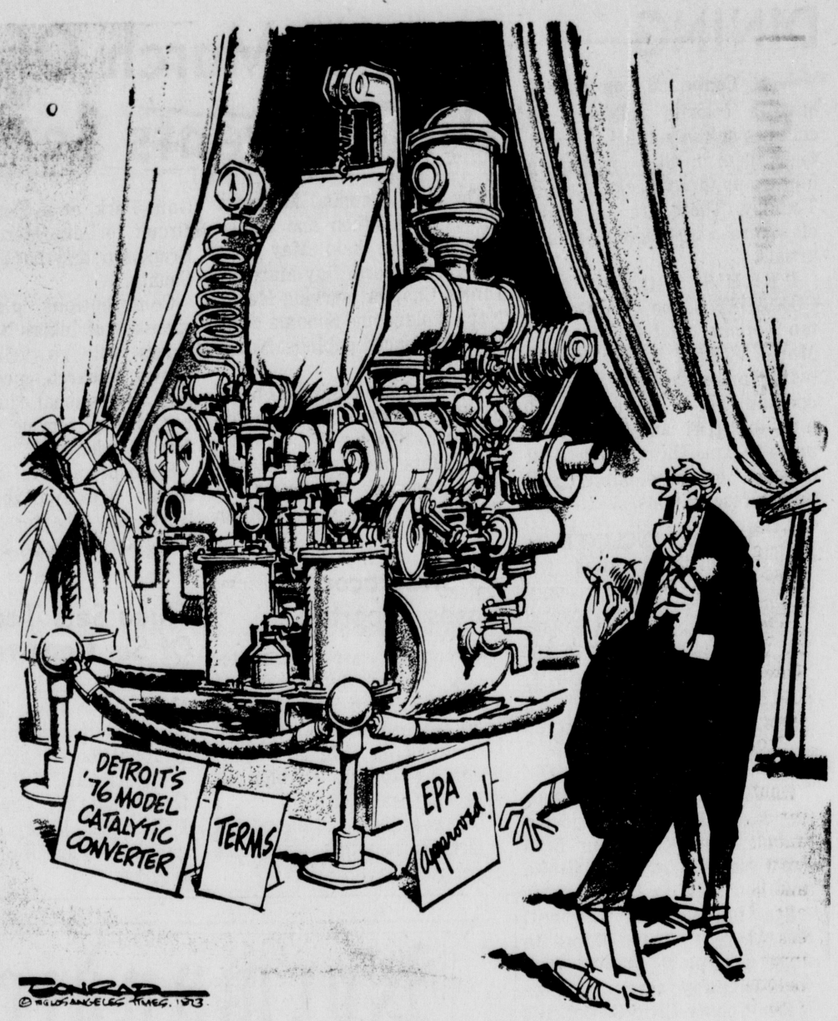
We have some misgivings over the election of Jack G. Nixon to the San Rafael City Council, since his interest in city affairs seems to have sprung up rather suddenly following the death of Councilman Harry A. Barbier. We hope our misgivings prove unfounded.

WE ARE SORRY that San Rafael voters (those of them who bothered to vote) defeated the proposed charter change which would have allowed the city to spend up to $15,000 of hotel-motel room tax receipts on promotion and advertising. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce had counted heavily on receiving additional city support from this source for its worthwhile activities. However, the chamber itself must bear a part of the responsibility for the measure's defeat: it failed to mount any campaign in its behalf.

We are a bit sorry, also, that San Anselmo's proposed half-million dollar open-space bond issue fell just short of the necessary two-thirds approval. In this case, concern for the environment did not triumph.

We expect that failure of the Novato flood control bond issue will mean that the district will turn to a less expensive — though also less adequate — control project.

Passions mount high during election campaigns. But when the voting is over, all of us generally find that those elected prove good choices — even if only a minority of the voters participated in choosing them.



"The car, of course, is extra."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

Sleepy Hollow School Visit Impressive

Open house at Sleepy Hollow Primary School was a revelation to me. Each classroom had exhibits by the pupils that were outstanding and I could see the teachers probably spent some of their own money for material.

I peeked into the principal's office and on the wall were class pictures of every child in the school.

The one classroom that impressed me was a class for pupils overgraded for kindergarten and not just ready for first grade. The library also was a revelation, the librarian reading to children each day and a real good selection of books.

Incontrovertible Facts About Death Penalty

Among issues raised in the "Letters' columns, two that are always guaranteed to generate passions are fluoridation (I'm agin' it) and legalized abortion (I'm for it). Running a close third is capital punishment, a subject perennially providing a field day for all sorts of social theories and purported statistics garnered from a whole spectrum of unlikely quarters, not excluding the self-serving pronunciamentos of convicted murderers and cutthroats.

For the consideration of any whose minds have not totally snapped shut on the subject, two often-overlooked but unchallengeable facts are proffered:

1. The record is replete with instances in which killers whose death sentences were commuted (or who were sentenced to "life") have been duly set free, only to exterminate additional innocent citizens. (The late, unlamented, Louise Peete comes to mind, for one.)

2. There has never been a case in which an executed felon has returned from the grave to kill again. . .

Forty-Plus Succeeding In Job-Finding Role

You have been of considerable help in the past in spreading word of the work of Forty Plus of Northern California through newspaper coverage, and the net result of this program has been rather dramatic. During the past three years this organization has placed 236 executives in positions in Bay Area corporations — 92 within the past twelve months.

Forty Plus membership consists of experienced executives, who are seeking new positions. The organization is a non-profit corporation operated by and for its members. More than 80 per cent of those who have enrolled in the local chapter during its first three years have obtained satisfactory employment through the intensive program. The average time required has been only 14 weeks. . .

Eating Place Refuses Service To 3-Year-Old

On April 9, during the noon hour, my wife and parents (visiting San Rafael from New York) were refused luncheon service at the Great Store in downtown San Rafael because they were in the company of my 3-year-old son.

I am writing to voice my concern over the success of San Rafael's downtown revitalization project if these be the type of businessmen actively being recruited for the downtown area. I am also writing to advertise the apparent policies of the Great Store so that others, who share my feelings, might make themselves heard (or not heard) at the cash register.

It is difficult to explain to a hungry, well-behaved 3-year-old why he was asked to leave a public restaurant.

Junk Cars Remain Despite Assessment

I am writing to you in regard to Sen. Randolph Collier's SB 1308, introduced and passed in 1972, regarding the removal of junked cars along county, city and state highways.

These junks are littering the beauty and environment of our countrysides. They are not only destroying the beauty, but are also breeding grounds for rodents and disease, are dangerous to our young children. The senator's bill stated that on Jan. 1, 1973, the proper authorities that are responsible for this program will start removing these junks from highways, yards of neighbors, the countrysides, trails and paths.

On a very short notice I and approximately 12 million registered car owners were assessed, taxed or levied $1 on each vehicle license year 1973. This money would go toward the removal of these eyesores, with no added expense to junked car owners for tow-away service.

Here it is the month of April, and on my travels especially around Marin County still see these derelicts, have seen the same ones for years. Maybe our political friends who are in charge of this program don't know what SB 1308 stands for, and should brush up on it, and start giving the taxpayers their money's worth or reimburse their money back. And let's not hear the same old political theme song, "We have no funds to do the job." I know one thing, the $2 I invested can bring me a couple of good drinks at the corner bar.

Visitor Pens Plea For Saving Of Hill

Mother Taylor and I have recently spent a very happy two weeks in Terra Linda. We left Pennsylvania before her hills had taken their first breath of spring and in a few hours were in a lushly blooming land full of strange and beautifully exotic trees and shrubs, and rare and fragrant plants and flowers . . .

Everywhere we went, we met courtesy, friendliness, and patience. I'd like to be able to thank the personnel in the Safeway market, the hardware store, post office, the lovely lady in the variety store, the gentleman in the drug store, and especially the very patient nurseryman who answered my many questions, helped me with pruning problems, and even gave me a slip of a much-wanted plant because I couldn't take the whole pot on the plane.

It was a most unique experience, on my way home from that same small shopping center, to have a driver, the first in a line of several cars, stop to allow a woman with a bag of groceries and a 2-year-old grand-niece to cross the road. And on another occasion, the same 2-year-old and I were given a ride to my temporary home, during one of your late spring rains, by a local teacher who lives not too far from there.

As for the hope:

My rights to express an opinion on any action taken by your local electors are extremely limited, since I do not live in San Rafael, Terra Linda, or even Marin County; but, as a small-scale conservationist (we own six acres in the country), and as a lover of beauty . . . I beg your indulgence to allow a plea for the continued natural beauty of the hill between Terra Linda and Lucas Valley.

Nowhere have I seen such an abundance and variety of wild flowers — lupines, false lupines, hyacinths, echevarias, buttercups, and so many varieties that I have not as yet identified, that were in bloom or about to bloom . . .

Then, too, there are the numerous springs on that same hill; I've wandered into and picked my way out of several of them on the Terra Linda side. Might not disturbing them cause many difficulties in the valleys below? . . .

Did Auto Makers Really Try To Meet Pollution Standards?

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government battle with the automakers over clean air gave the public a peek into a dark corner of the industry's executive suite.

The man who opened this usually barred corporate door was William D. Ruckelshaus, chief of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Chrysler Motors, the nation's third largest automaker, was no model of Caesar's wife when it came to making an all-out effort, as required by law, to meet the 1975 auto pollution standards, he said.

So convinced was he that the firm deliberately dragged its feet that he would have imposed sanctions on the automaker. The only thing that stopped him was that his single option would have had the effect of closing down Chrysler's assembly lines.

If Congress had given him some alternative short of this drastic step, Ruckelshaus said he probably would have used it.

UNDER LAW, an auto maker had to show it made "a good faith effort" to meet the 1975 auto pollution standards before the government would grant a requested one-year delay.

General Motors, Ford, American and Chrysler all testified that they did everything possible to perfect their pollution control devices before the deadline, but found that it was not possible.

Ruckelshaus granted the delay to each of the automakers, but he said the record of the hearings left "serious reservations" in his mind that Chrysler should get a reprieve under the "good faith" clause.

Chrysler denies Ruckelshaus' claims. But the EPA administrator cited these items as evidence to back up his position:

—Chrysler spent about a third as much per dollar volume on emission control as Ford and General Motors.

—Chrysler admitted it had no firm plans to test a fleet of cars using the catalytic converter, the pollution control device it said it planned to install on cars to meet the 1975 standard.

—A catalytic converter supplier claimed it lost a contract with Chrysler because the supplier told the EPA its catalytic converters could meet the 1975 standard.

CHRYSLER OFFICIALS also denied the supplier's charge, claiming its corporate decisions were not influenced by what its suppliers said. The company said it dropped the supplier because it found another firm which could manufacture the device cheaper.

But Ruckelshaus said, "If I were forced to choose between one or the other of the versions," the evidence indicated the supplier's argument "would seem more probable."

Since all testimony given before the EPA was under oath, Ruckelshaus said it would be reviewed to see whether the conflicting statements between Chrysler and its supplier involve perjury.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Lawmaker Wants Tax From Your Garage Sale

By RUS WALTON

Remember the garage sale? The one where you cleaned out the garage and got rid of Aunt Sadie's antimacassar?

Lots of folks hold garage sales. Just follow the cardboard signs. It's an American institution in suburbia.

Assemblyman Walter Powers, D-Sacramento, sees it as something else. He sees it as an opportunity to drag more dough from the people.

Powers says the state is losing thousands of dollars each year because no sales tax is levied on those garage sales. He can't stand the pain of seeing that revenue going out the door.

He wants to force folks to get a retail business permit for a garage sale, and wants them to pay a tax for the privilege of peddling Uncle Charlie's stuffed moosehead. He's introduced a bill to do just that.

Assemblyman Powers recently sent one of those printed questionnaires to the folks in his district. He said he wanted to know what was bugging the people.

A lot of the respondents replied that, for one thing, the Legislature keeps passing too many laws.

The folks said the legislators should spend more time repealing laws and should knock off passing all those new laws. One voter went so far as to suggest that the legislature adjourn for at least three years.

THERE'S ONE BILL in the hopper that bears watching! Especially if you care about the caliber of teachers and the moral environment of our public school classrooms. It's AB 298.

Assemblymen Howard Berman and Henry Waxman (both liberal Democrats and both from Los Angeles) want to amend the state law relating to the Commission on Teacher Preparation and Licensing. That law requires the commission to suspend or revoke the credentials of teachers guilty of immoral or unprofessional conduct.

The law was enacted to protect school children from those very few teachers who refuse to behave in a manner befitting the high calling of education.

The legislative Counsel's digest of their bill states:

"(AB 298) Provides that no conduct or acts shall be deemed immoral or unprofessional conduct or evident unfitness for service unless such conduct is related to the certificated employee's fitness to teach and classroom performance."

BERMAN AND WAXMAN also insist that the commission consider the "praiseworthiness of motives" behind unprofessional conduct (i.e. "situational" ethics). And they would mandate that the commission consider the impact of its disciplinary action on wayward teacher's constitutional rights.

Constitutional rights are precious and should be protected, at all costs. But, when did the right to teach — and the right to a teaching credential — become a constitutional right?

The right to teach our children depends on the individual's professional and moral qualifications, as judged by his peers and the parents of the school children.

Court decisions already make it more than difficult to rid the classroom of those few who fail to live up to the high standards of the profession. There is no reason to lower moral standards or codes of conduct to give the unfit tenure or access to the classroom.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Americans recognize the importance of serving on juries and do everything possible to avoid it.

When I said that due to impaired hearing I couldn't tell what was going on in the courtroom, the judge ruled that this made me a typical juror.

Requested preferred treatment as a newspaperman — and was sentenced to be the jury foreman.

My fellow jurors tried to break a hopeless deadlock by naming me as the guilty party.

What Happens On Tongue River Has Impact Also On Potomac

WASHINGTON — At the White House correspondents' annual dinner the other night I introduced one friend to another: an environmentalist who spends most of her time testifying on Capitol Hill to a black publicist whose specialties are black politics and minority causes.

"This lady can tell you everything you need to know about strip mining," I notified him.

"Strip mining?"

HIS EYES WIDENED as if I had proposed something immoral, or at least for consenting adults only. He did not say what he was thinking. But if my assumption is correct, he was reflecting in a friendly way that only some farfetched addlepate could imagine that anybody black and involved in urgent urban affairs would ever bother himself about strip mining.

People immersed in slum rebuilding and Head Start are understandably cool about the fate of Appalachian hollows or the grasslands of the Great Plains. Those fields of interest seem geographically and socially as far apart as Punxsutawney and Petropavlovsk.

Since the rise of the environmental movement, some black leaders have been resentful that concern about the physical world may have diverted money and attention away from the immediate problems of the city, and diffused the political influence of people who otherwise should be allies.

THIS FEAR is understandable, but mistaken. Certainly what Congress appropriates this spring for the future of Bedford-Stuyvesant or Watts takes precedence on the agenda of a black politician. But if he can see beyond this spring, he will realize that the poorest Americans are the ones who suffer most from all forms of pollution, who most need green places for relief from the city madness, who are hurt worst by rising meat prices.

Yes, meat prices. This particular connection between strip mining and urban problems was not obvious to me or likely to many in the Congress, either, until it was laid out by Carolyn Alderson, a ranch wife who volunteered to appear before joint subcommittees of the House Interior Committee. If anything can, her testimony against strip mining should help urban representatives to understand that the bell that tolls for the Bones Brothers Ranch, at Birney, Mont., on the Tongue River drainage of the Powder River basin, also tolls for downtown Detroit and Dayton.

Mrs. Alderson's children are the fifth generation of the same family to live on that same land. Only slightly indirectly, the Aldersons exist on grass — on cattle grazing, Montana's biggest industry. They are deeply frightened now because their land and millions of acres around it have been found to overlay shallow and thus easily strippable coal formations. They can hear the bulldozers and draglines coming.

AS MRS. ALDERSON explains, strip mining and cattle grazing are totally incompatible. She maintains, and backs it up with expert evidence from Noland Jacobsen, a veteran livestock specialist of Montana State University, that re-establishing native grasses on "disturbed" rangeland is impractical at best, in fact virtually impossible.

The prospect is, then, that when the strip-mine operators move in, the ranchers will be forced to move out, no matter how long they have lived there. Ground water, surface water and the land itself no longer will be fit to support them. And the result, Mrs. Alderson says, may be "a far more serious crisis — a food crisis — which would ironically aggravate rather than help solve the energy crisis."

The more stock that is fed in feedlots rather than on the range, the more machinery and energy is needed to feed them. On eastern Montana grass, a calf can be raised to some 500 pounds for about $60; on a feedlot, that process takes at least $150. The effect on prices in city supermarkets might make Earl Butz happy, but nobody else I can think of.

It is a long way from the Tongue River drainage area to the Potomac, but not so far that their interdependence cannot be seen and voted on. Any urban legislator unmoved by arguments that strip mining is destroying the wilderness, rivers and future of broad parts of America can put those facts aside, compelling as they should be. He can vote against strip mining out of his own self-interest — and that of his constituents.

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Some New Faces On Boards —But Will There Be New Words?

Elections are over and there will be some new faces on the myriad government bodies throughout Marin. Maybe from those new faces will spring some new words.

There is a gaggle of fashionable phrases that the men and women behind the name plates love to use — governmental slang is what it is.

Probably the most overworked these days is poor little "input." There is community input, organizational input, agency input. The term derives from the two words "put in," and is a child of the computer age. Technicians feed computers data, or input, and unless input is put in the machines become put out.

So far, no one has come up with a better term. Now and then a councilman will grope for one in mid-sentence, but input always emerges victorious.

JUST ONCE, instead of calling for community input, it would be nice if a councilman would say, "Hey, what is it you folks out there want, anyway?"

There are others. Councilmen and board members are always putting things "in terms of" and "speaking to that." The freshest current councilmanism is "let's see if it flies," which has roughly the same meaning as the old hack "let's run it up the flag pole and see if anyone salutes."

Some day some councilman or board member somewhere is going to successfully say, "I would like to speak to that in terms of input and let's see if it flies."

SPEAKING OF SLANG, the Associated Students of the College of Marin have laid it out to the dog population in plain language.

Posted on kiosks and bulletin boards throughout the campus are handbills that say: "Doggone it. Don't you know that by hanging around the college you can get ripped off for a fine or worse yet — busted? I mean, this higher learning stuff just ain't worth the trouble. Let's cool it for a while and stay away from the buildings. Signed, the Head Beagle."

Maybe some of the city councils with dog problems should take a look at the college's idea and see if it flies.

COUNTY COMMENT

Insidious Bureaucratic Growth Exemplified In Barrows' Plan

The encroachment of bureaucracy on the lives of the individual has been, for 50 years, the fundamental — the basic thing that I have cried out against, worked against, and written against.

It has been my lot to be involved in public affairs for most of those years and I have just naturally soaked up an awareness of this bureaucratic effort to control when it appears. This has been especially true during the years I have been writing this column.

Quite likely you read the letter to the editor last Friday, in which a gentleman took me on regarding the column of the week before, respecting a feeling of guilt most of us secretly feel over the way federal bureaucracy has treated the American Indians.

He objected to my phrase that we "all descended from a tide of Europeans" who drove the Indians from their home land. It would have been more accurate, of course, if I had said "most of us" or "many of us". Then perhaps my education would not be "sorely lacking."

ONE CAN SLIP under pressure of a deadline, or when one is angry. Witness: He said, "We are in the fix we are in today because people like Fusselman did not plan and could not see beyond the edge of their noses. I have had enough and feel that somebody has to speak out in favor of these vicious attacks on Mr. Von Gundell." Certainly he didn't intend to write it that way.

Come to think of it, I don't believe there was anyone around during those days who wanted to be like Fusselman. He might be interested, though, to know that I was one of those who voted for the nice subdivision he bought his home in and took part in the ceremony of turning the first spade of earth there.

Shortly after all the funny business of appointing John Barrows as the county administrator, I wrote that he (Barrows) would make his former boss, who allegedly proclaimed, "I am going to run this county and don't you forget it," look like an amateur.

I hope you are watching the play as of right now! Thank goodness there is a good reporter stationed up at the administration building. His name is Erik Ingram and does he tell it as it is. His "Reporter's Notebook" on Wednesday really tells it.

It's almost too much to hope for. On the same day (Wednesday) one of the strongest editorials of the year, Barrows consolidation of county departments. "Streamlining? No, Call It Pyramiding" goes the heading over a four-column spread. You had better read every word of it if you haven't yet! If you don't have a copy, try and get one from a neighbor. There was also a small news item in the same issue that the Marin Conservation League was against the attempt to consolidate the county departments. They denounced it — strong language. Wonder what poor le Baptiste will do now?

YOU TAXPAYERS should demand of the supervisors the resume of both Barrows and his assistant Campanella. I know the background of each of them. They simply do not have the experience to be running the county government to the extent they are doing right now, let alone increasing the take-over of more authority. Five supervisors are being paid to perform, not to posture and debate.

This has every appearance of being part of a step-by-step effort to change the form of county government without submitting it to the electorate.

Tornado Toll

DACCA (UPI) — The tornado which struck Bangladesh earlier this week left at least 700 persons dead and more than 10,000 injured, unofficial reports said today.

$137,000 Is Already In Reagan's Tax Plan Chest

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians have donated $137,000 so far to finance the initiative campaign to qualify Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax limitation plan for the ballot, it was reported yesterday.

They have also contirbuted postage stamps and four books of trading stamps along with offers to walk precincts and gather signatures of voters.

Each day's mail brings more contributions and offers of help, said Mike Woodson, a Reagan staff member assigned to supervise activities of the governor's office in connection with the initiative.

Woodson, who keeps in close contact with the committee organized to operate the initiative campaign, reported the contributions have far surpassed the proposed $100,000 budget supporters had tentatively set for the signature collecting effort.

The campaign must certify to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. the valid signatures of 520,000 voters by June 27 in order for the initiative to be qualified for a specail statewide election Reagan plans to call for Nov. 6.

Woodson reported the cash contributions received from 10,445 citizens were in addition to $75,000 pledged earlier by private contributors as "seed" money to get the campaign started. Reagan previously refused to identify those persons, presumably wealthy political supporters.

On April 1, "Californians for Lower Taxes" mailed out 120,000 letters seeking financial aid and promises to help circulate signature petitions. So far, Woodson said, there have been 19,162 responses.

Nearly 6,000 said they walk precincts, another 4,700 said they would enlist the help of others while 10,445 mailed in contributions. The biggest single donation was a $1,000 check, Woodson said. Most ranged between $5 and $10.

The tax limitation campaign, carefully calculated to coincide with the time Californians were figuring out their income returns, also elicited some unexpected contributions.

Several persons sent in postage stamps. One elderly woman explained she had no extra cash, so she contributed four books of trading stamps.

Woodson estimated that 5 per cent of the letters he receives oppose Reagan's plan.

Easter Egg Art

For early Christians, the egg became a symbol of man's rebirth, and it was eaten to break the long Lenten fast. But Ukrainian "pysanky" developed long before Easter eggs became popular. The tools for this ancient art of decorating eggs are only beeswax, dye, and a stylus, but it often takes many hours to design the outside of a single egg. The word "pysanky" means, literally, "to write." Many shapes and figures drawn on the egg have a meaning and each egg is traditionally designed to carry a message. Flowers, for example, symbolize happiness, while circles and dots represent eternity.

DO YOU KNOW — According to tradition, what animal brings Easter eggs?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — The spitball was banned in 1920.

Riles Sets Metric System Target Date

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California schools will convert to the metric system starting in 1976, state Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles said yesterday.

Declaring the present system of inches, pounds and quarts "is on its way out," Riles said he is "determined" to see new math and science texts use only metric measurements, beginning with the 1976-77 school year.

"The metric system will simplify arithmetic and daily life, if we give it a chance," Riles told a news conference. He said it was "inevitable" that the United States would switch to the metric system within a decade.

Riles also said he will urge teacher-training institutions to begin preparing prospective teachers in metric measurement as soon as possible.

The United States is the only major industrial nation in the world that uses the old English system of feet, tons and gallons. The metric system is based on the decimal system which is used for U.S. currency. It uses terms such as grams and meters.

Riles said President Nixon backs a plan for conversion to metric measurements within 10 years and predicted Congress soon will go along with the idea. 'It has ceased to be a controversial issue," he said.

The California schools chief said he soon will deliver to the Board of Education detailed plans for conversion of schools to metric measurements. The state board must approve the proposal.

He also said his Department of Education hopes to make television films on the metric system to teach parents how to use it before their children begin learning it in public schools.

Riles said he will caution teachers against side-by-side instruction of the current system and the metric system. He said it would be much easier for youngsters to learn just metric measurements without being bogged down with conversion tables.

"I am determined that California education will not lag behind the changeover to the metric system," he said.

"We have to act now to assure that our state's school's are well prepared to offer instruction in metric units, rather than being caught in the confusion as the country converts to the metric system."

"There is nothing sacred and there is not much logic in the present, customary system of measurements in the United States," Riles added.

"Historically, an inch is derived from the length of the end joint of an adult's thumb," he noted. "A foot is derived from the approximate length of the human foot ... and a mile is derived from the distance traveled by a Roman soldier in 1,000 two-paced strides."

Besides the United States, the only countries still using nonmetric systems are Barbados, Burma, Ghana, Jamaica, Liberia, Muscat and Oman, Naura, Sierra Leone, Southern Yemen and Tonga.

U.N. Drops Warning To Israel

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States today won agreement to delete a Security Council resolution warning Israel that stern measures would follow a repetition of its April 10 commando raid on Beirut, diplomatic sources reported.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali, in discussions with leaders of the British and French delegations which sponsored a strongly anti-Israel council resolution, also won agreement to have the 15-nation council condemn all acts of violence, and not just Israeli violence, the sources said.

The changes came in consultations that delayed a scheduled Council meeting more than 2 ½ hours. Previously, the Anglo-French text merely "deplored" all violence without mentioning Arab guerrilla activity, and condemned the Israeli raid which killed three leaders of the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

The changes were expected to result in the United States withholding its veto when the resolution goes to a vote this afternoon.

But Scali was expected to use the veto if Guinea, India, Indonesia and Yugoslavia insist on a vote on their amendment.

Automakers Expect Owners To Complain About Belt Law

DETROIT (UPI) — The nation's automakers expect to hear from a "considerable number" of angry owners when they begin installing a device on 1974 models that will force drivers and passengers to buckle up.

Despite opposition from the industry, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) Thursday refused to withdraw its requirement that 1974 cars be designed to make sure the car cannot move until a combination lap-shoulder belt is fastened.

The original proposal called for an "ignition interlock" system that would prevent the engine from being started until every front seat occupant was buckled up. That was amended so the engine can be started but the car cannot move until the belt is buckled.

Automotive engineers claim the complicated system has not been tested sufficiently and is unreliable. General Motors executives say there may be "some field failures" —meaning a motorist will follow all the instructions and still may not be able to drive the car.

Chrysler president John Riccardo was more specific, he said the failure rate may reach 3 per cent on new cars—360,000 cars in a 12 million car year. The failure rate probably will increase as the cars get older and the system deteriorates, he said.

"The one-belt system is a major step forward since we're making it easier for a guy to wear a belt," Riccardo said. "But it's going to be a tremendous irritant."

The automakers went to court for a delay of the interlock system, but were turned down in February. Then, GM, Chrysler, American Motors and Fiat formally petitioned NHTSA to withdraw the rule.

It appeared for a while that Detroit might get its way when the National Motor Vehicle Safety Advisory Council, an advisory group to NHTS, recommended the requirement be dropped because of its complexity and "unproven cost effectiveness."

GM asked that the present "buzzer-light" belt warning system be continued, but with the more convenient lapshoulder belt combination on an inertial reel which allows a person to move around until there is a sudden deceleration of the vehicle.

Ford did not join in the appeal of the interlock provision which it touted in 1971 as a possible alternative to the air bag.

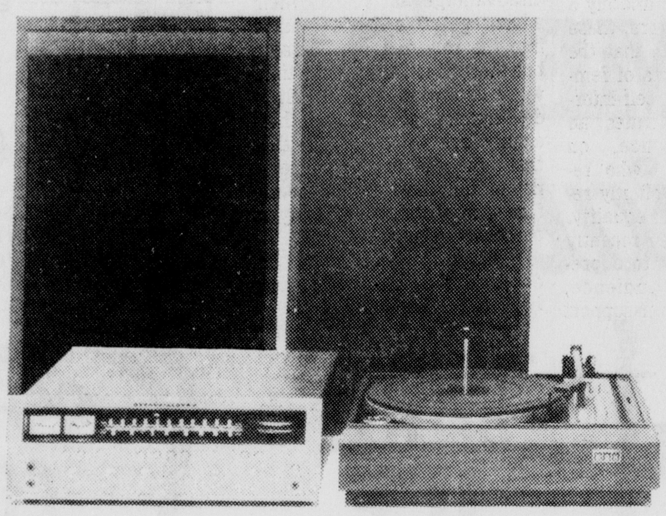
PACIFIC STEREO OFFERS A FRESH DECK OF SAVINGS

Whether or not it's a special occasion, we're continually dealing new combinations of components at the most advantageous prices we can offer. We've three new music systems here, one of which is specially designed for rock buffs, and a speaker offer which should prove very popular. Generally, these special items get snapped up fast, so it's to your benefit to come in early, today if at all possible. If you do, you can be pretty sure of getting a winning hand at Pacific Stereo.



If You Like it Loud and Clear- - -

Marantz rates the power of their 2245 AM/FM stereo receiver at 90 watts (RMS). That's impressive enough but our tests showed even more: 110 watts (RMS) with only .05% distortion from 20 to 20,000 Hz. The tuner section is similarly fine; background noise will be 60dB below the music with only a 10 microvolt signal, and tuning is aided by both center-channel and signal strength meters. The 2245 sells for $449.95, not including the walnut case.

BSR's 710 is about the best $150 automatic record player we know. It shares many features with their well-reviewed 810, such as the sequential-cam mechanism which gives the 710 very smooth operation in the automatic mode. The $144.45 price includes a base and a Shure M91E elliptical cartridge.

If you like music with all the force of a live rock concert, the Cerwin-Vega 211's should be just what you were looking for. Actually the 211's sound great on any kind of music; they're handsome two-way systems with a twelve-inch horn for bass notes, and they sell for $319 a pair.

BSR SHURE Cerwin-Vega

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty
To purchase these separately you would pay:
Marantz 2245 ..... $449.95
BSR 710 with base and cartridge 144.45

Four-Channel Receiver, Stereo Price

Harman-Kardon's 50+ four-channel receiver performs so well in stereo that we've built a whole system around it; not only can you save a lot of money now, $97.85 to be exact, but you can easily and economically convert to four-channel later. As a stereo receiver, the 50+ puts out 50 watts (RMS) over a wide bandwidth at low distortion; a good tuner section will give you noise-free FM stereo as well as very listenable AM reception. As a four-channel receiver, the 50+ will handle every quadraphonic source presently available, and it will also create four-channel effects from stereo material. Its $289.95 price is most reasonable for such versatility.

Dual's modestly priced 1215S record player comes amazingly close to the superb Dual 1229 in performance. It can track at pressures as low as .75 gram, and a pitch control allows up to 6% change in speed. With the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge, the 1215S sells for $125.

When you hear the strong, clean bass of the TransAudio 1010's, you'll be amazed that they cost only $119.90 a pair. They're two-way systems with a 10-inch acoustic suspension bass speaker, and are surely one of the best values around.

$70 More for Four-Channel

A First System with Staying Power

At $268, this Sherwood system is an excellent value and a fine choice for an apartment-sized living room. The $199.95 Sherwood 7100A AM/FM stereo receiver is rated at 44 watts (RMS) of power and has an excellent tuner section which will distinguish cleanly among the crowded FM signals in a metropolitan area. You'll find many useful features too, such as a loudness contour and a front panel tape dubbing jack. The walnut case is included.

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable record changer with a cueing lever to gently put the arm and the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge on your records for you. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's normal price is $60.90.

You probably know Harman-Kardon's very fine receivers and you should get to know their speakers, too. The model 20's included here are two-way eight-inch systems in walnut cabinets. You'll like both their sound and their low price of $79.90 a pair.

Shure's Newest and Best Cartridge

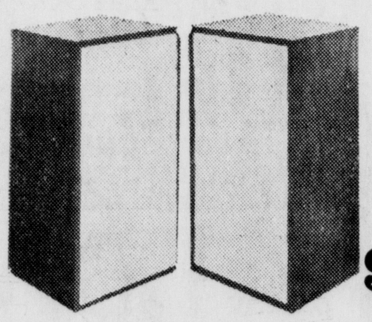
Shure's V-15 Type II Improved has long been considered one of the very best phono cartridges around. Now Shure has developed an even better one: the V-15 Type III, which was introduced at the recent Institute of High Fidelity Show in Burlingame. A new internal magnet structure and stylus assembly give the Type III better tracking ability and an even flatter frequency response than the Type II (and that was pretty flat). Audible evidence of these improvements is easy to hear, and you can do so at your nearest Pacific Stereo store.

Open Air Headphones for $5

The stereophones shown here have very light weight foam rubber earpieces which don't require a complete ear seal in order to provide deep bass. They sound great, and will handle very high volume levels without any distortion. $5 is a ridiculously low price to pay for phones of this quality and past experience indicates that they will go fast, so it might be a good idea to shop as soon as possible.

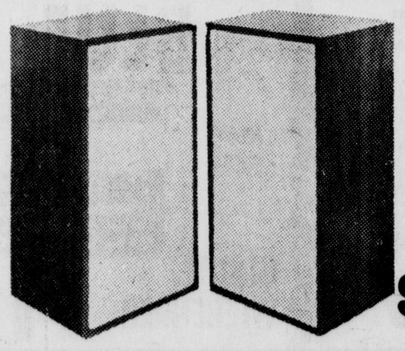
$4.95

A Week to Save on TransAudio Speakers



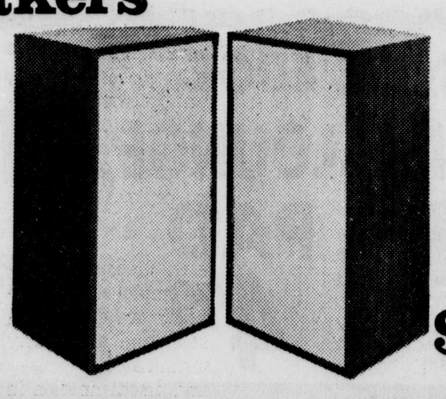
$27 each

TransAudio 1008's are two-way, eight-inch systems that regularly sell for a phenomenally low $39.95 each and sound as if they should cost a lot more. We have a limited supply, including some demos, at an even lower $27 each.



$38 each

The 1010's are also two-way systems, but with a ten-inch bass speaker that will go all the way down to the bass man's low E. Normally $59.95 each, they're reduced now to $38.



$56 each

The 1012's are TransAudio's best. These three-way, 12" systems will cleanly reproduce even the lowest notes on your records. The 1012 is a lot of speaker for the usual $79.95; this week they're just $56.

A LIBERAL TRADE-IN POLICY AND A LARGE SELECTION OF GUARANTEED USED GEAR:
Each store has the HALB Blue Book stating authorized trade-in values of just about any stereo component ever made.

A RAINCHECK AND A SHORT SUPPLY MERCHANDISE SEARCH:
We really want you to have advertised merchandise at the advertised price, and we'll do our best to see that you get it even if one particular store is out.

60-DAY EXCHANGE PRIVILEGES
A ONE-YEAR SPEAKER EXCHANGE

A WRITTEN, NO-HASSLE 5-YEAR WARRANTY:
It covers free parts for 5 years and free labor for 3 years. Absolutely the only exclusion is the needle on the record player.

PROBABLY THE BEST PRICES IN TOWN:
If you should be offered a better price on any current model we carry, we'll match it or refund the difference, as the case may be.

INTERIOR DESIGNER Mrs. William H. Perdue proudly displays the English brass bowl which she selected for her personal collection several years ago at the Antiques Show and Sale sponsored annually by Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley. This year's show is set for next Thursday through April 28 at the IDDESST Hall in Sausalito.

ANNUAL ANTIQUES SHOW

Interior Designer Lends Hand Again

By BETTY FROST

Once again Mrs. William H. Perdue of Mill Valley is volunteering her services as a consultant at the Antiques Show and Sale sponsored for 21 years by Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley.

The current show will be held from noon to 9 p.m. next Thursday and Friday and from noon to 7 p.m., April 28 at the IDESST Hall in Sausalito. Each day Mrs. Perdue, a member of the American Institute of Designers, will be available from 2 to 4 p.m., stationed near the entrance to the hall, to consult with people who want advice about acquiring an article.

"Will it fit into my house?" is the most popular question, according to Betty Perdue. "Then we talk about their homes and the placement of the antique. I note that people who like a certain styleusually stay with it. For example, the 'country styles', whether they are French Provincial, English, Italian or Spanish, usually combine well. But adding certain fussy Victorian pieces or formal French furnishings from the Louis XIV period would not be appropriate."

THE INTERIOR designer maintains, "Contemporary was my first love, and I like to combine selected old pieces with contemporary, because it helps soften a room."

Mrs. Perdue has been associated with the show for 15 years. Besides her consulting expertise, she contributed the design for Grandmother's cupboard, the colorful area where homemade jams, jellies and baked goods are displayed and sold.

"Since the hall is quite dark, we chose a white background for the cupboard, accenting it with bright primary colors," she said. This year she will again arrange flowers and baskets and interesting old kitchen utensils to keep the Cupboard cheery," even when it's beginning to be bare."

The strictest definition of "an antique is that it must predate 1830," the expert said, "however some now say that anything over 100 years old qualifies for inclusion."

With her husband, an experienced building contractor, Mrs. Perdue maintains an interior designing and decorating business. The couple works out of their home. Mrs. Perdue does the designs, her husband follows through with the practical details, and takes care of the business end of the operation. The couple shares a studio in their Mill Valley home.

THEIR HOME, a modest tract house, is an example of the couple's combined knowhow. By changing exterior treatment and interior arrangment, they have brought individuality and charm to the home. There is room, too, to display a fine collection of blue and white china. The china collection was begun by Mrs. Perude's grandmother and continued by her mother. Mrs. Perdue, too, has added items in Royal Doulton and Spode. When renovation was completed, the home was featured in a "before and after" story in House Beautiful magazine.

Betty Perdue is a native of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. She is a graduate of Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., with an art major, and of the University of Iowa, in Iowa City, where she received the bachelors degree in art. She was also graduated from the Parsons School of Interior Design in New York City. She is a member of AID.

Her design experience includes work with Lord and Taylor, Macy's, and McMullen's Interiors in New York. Since 1958 she has been in business for herself, advising residential and commercial clients.

For J.F. Shay Co., whose offices she decorated in Dublin, she designed a carpet in gold, beige and olive tweed, which the firm of Savnik in Oakland manufactured. She named the design "Mill Valley" and the Oakland firm continues to manufacture it.

After the benefit for the Mill Valley Episcopal Church, Mrs. Perdue will be busy creating a room for the Marin Designers Showcase in San Rafael May 11-12. Proceeds for this event assist the Volunteer Bureau of Marin.

STRUGGLE FOR EQUALITY

Another Liberation Front

Marin Women

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of four articles on the United States feminist movement and deals with a growing number of men who are finding that gains for women do not necessarily mean losses for men.)

By DIANA LOERCHER

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Liberation can seem a frightening prospect to many women. But their reaction pales beside the dread that the movement appears to strike in the hearts of many American men.

Superficially, their resistance is understandable. Rarely does an individual or group in a position of power relinquish it willingly, unless there is a clear-cut advantage in doing so. And this is precisely the problem from the feminist point of view: that men insufficiently educated about the movement interpret its consequences as losses rather than gains. They fail to realize the ways in which women's liberation is in fact a misnomer for its ultimate goal, human liberation.

Yet there is gradually becoming visible on the surface of the movement a groundswell of liberated men, few in number but growing. Involved in consciousness-raising groups of their own and belonging to such organizations as the National Organization for Women (NOW), which counts men as approximately 5 per cent of its members, these men basically believe that the two fundamental issues of feminism are justice and self-interest. The first constitutes an appeal to conscience, on grounds that anyone who rejects feminism is implicitly rejecting the principle of equality.

As Germaine Greer recently stated in an address to a predominantly male audience, "When I argue here for support for the Women's Liberation Movement, I am asking you really to consider whether or not you can countenance the nonliberation of any group in your community, and whether or not you are so afraid of the characteristics and personalities of one-half of the human race that you cannot allow them room to move or a voice to be hears."

GENE MARINE, in his book "A Male Guide to Women's Liberation" (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $6.95), tries to clarify the grounds for such complaints to a male readership that he assumes, probably wisely, has a negligible knowledge of the movement. Marine, a professional writer and the husband of a liberated woman, outlines the conditioning that begins at birth, and leads a woman to be treated as, and believe she is, the inferior half of the human race, fit primarily for marriage, motherhood and "sex object" status.

Being a man, he knows what kinds of arguments to wield. He advises men, for example, not to think of women's liberation just in terms of their wives but to consider the kind of life they genuinely want for their daughters.

He similarly analyzed the sex-stereotyped conditioning that locks men also into rigid roles and that works to their disadvantage as well as their advantage. "We are victimized into the role of the oppressor; but there it is. And by the time we're grown up it is difficult to do anything about it, so thoroughly are we convinced that that's the way it ought to be — no matter how much, sometimes, in secret, known only to ourselves, it hurts."

Perhaps the best way to understand the "male victimization" to which Marine refers is to listen to Warren Farrell's account of his own awakening. Farrell teaches urban politics and public administration at Rutgers University in New Jersey. He is the national coordinator of NOW's task force on the "masculine mystique." He devotes much of his time to organizing consciousness-raising groups for men and women, conducted separately and jointly, and has completed a book, to be published this fall, called "Beyond Masculinity."

WARREN FARRELL
Joins the movement

Married for seven years to his wife, Ursula, who holds a management position with IBM, Farrell feels that they both have profited immensely from the movement. "Our marriage is 15 times deeper now than it ever has been."

HE CONTENDS that the basic problem in male-female relationships, including marriage, is that "women are growing and men are stagnating." He further maintains that the conflicts feminism causes between men and women and in the minds of women themselves, who are torn between their feminist awareness and their fear of rejection by men, would be obviated if men were willing to participate in the same growth process.

"When I started dating women in college I found I was choosing intelligent women, which I suppose was one step above the norm at that time, and they were usually women who had a lot of interests. But as soon as I started dating them they would say, 'Can I type your papers?' and I would say, 'Sure, why not?' Then they would start taking an interest in my career.

"One of the things they liked about me was that I had a lot of interests, and before I knew it they were starting to come over into my sphere of interests. And about three or four months later I'd find that the two of us had grown apart, not really grown apart, but that I was judging her on her ability to know things about my areas of interest. So I was making a basic sort of mistake, taking my value system and putting it on hers.

"This happened two or three times during my early college years," he said. "Then finally the thing that solidified it was the woman I met who eventually became my wife. It took her three months to admit to me that she was valedictorian of her class. That I found out by mistake from her mother. All this started to add up, to make me realize that the women I was going out with were not making the most of themselves. I was losing interest in them because the very things that attracted me to them to begin with were the things I found lacking later on.

"So Urse and I went through the interchange about whether she should go to graduate school. She said she wanted to but she felt her basic duty was to make dinner and have children. Well, finally she applied and got a full fellowship to Harvard. That was one of the things that made me realize — here she was willing to toss all of that away for her stereotype of what she should be."

"I WANTED TO go to graduate school, too," Farrell continued, "and I became aware that when she was talking about going to graduate school she was less interested in getting married and in my going out and getting a job. That took some of the pressure off me and gave me the first link I can recall between what is rhetorically called the relation between men's liberation and women's liberation. . .

"When I went on for the Ph.D. I was still very leadership-and-goal-oriented, but that started changing. My first attempt at liberation was in 1968 when I was being trained to be an adviser to President Johnson in a national-security area. I was basically told that if I did a dissertation in a certain area and came to certain conclusions that I would become very well-known in the area. I began to feel a lot of pressure not to do the things I wanted to with my life but to do what someone was dictating to me. And when I hestiated I also began to see that I was able to hesitate and change my dissertation topic because my wife was financially independent.

"And secondly I was beginning to see what I now call the 'male bribes' that were being

Women Largest Group Now Filing Job Discrimination Complaints

By BARBARA HOSMER

The largest single group of job discrimination complaints filed with his office are coming from women, said Frank Quinn, director of the 13-state regional Equal Employment Opportunity Office located in San Francisco.

"The feminist movement is the most active group in the civil rights movement right now," he told the Marin Chapter of National Organization for Women at a meeting Wednesday night at Redwood High School.

Most of the charges in the San Francisco EEO district office, which covers Northern California, Oregon, Idaho and Northern Nevada, come from the Bay Area, and currently there are some 1,500 charges, he siad.

"In 80 per cent of the Northern California complaints we have investigated, we have found cause. Fifty per cent are sex discrimination charges, mostly from women," Quinn said.

The largest group of complaints filed under race discrimination are from black people, he added.

His federal agency has the machinery to combat discrimination in employment, but the EEO has a burgeoning backlog of filed charges and it may take two to four years before investigation can be done, he stated.

"BIGOTRY IN sex discrimination is still largely on the surface," he pointed out, and is easy to document. But, he said, "When we do an investigation (of an employer), we do a very thorough investigation. . .We are interested in what happened to the complaining individual, but beyond that, we are interested in the class to which he or she belongs."

An EEO investigator is interested in the case of a woman filing a complaint and also what happens to other women in connection with that employer, he explained.

"If we go in on racial discrimination and find sex discrimination, we take what we see. We take a profile of the company or public agency. It's easy to spot if there are no women in management training or on the police force, for example," Quinn said.

Thorough investigating takes time, and that's why EEO has backlogged charges, he said.

BUT, HE ADDED, "We are building up a body of law through the courts on exactly what constitutes discrimination. The Supreme Court in Griggs vs. Duke Power held that it is the effect, not the intent to discriminate by an employer, that counts. It is the effect of what you do that counts," he said.

The employer has to prove that any tests or requirements set up by a company or public agency are truly valid for the job open. The burden is on the employer to show that height, weight or weight-lifting, for example, is a bona fide occupational requirement for a particular job, Quinn explained.

He indicated that questions of job applicants about their reproductive lives (for women), marital status, number of children, or weight, might well be discriminatory, and added that application forms asking such things may be mailed to his office in San Francisco to be checked.

Such questions about a potential female employee's reproductive history are quite common, he said, and are nearly always discriminatory.

"If we find discrimination in a charge, it is a violation of Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and we attempt to conciliate. . .we work out agreements on paper, and we write strong agreements," he stated. "We do not sign an agreement with an employer if the complaining person doesn't. There are few successful conciliations because we are looking for the same strong result the courts have been giving."

If conciliation is impossible the case may go to court through EEO attorneys or to legal service EEO supports in which private attorneys take the cases to court.

The complaining person usually is awarded back pay for being denied a job or promotion and may have his or her position upgraded.

SINCE MARCH 1972, state and local governments are covered under the equal employment opportunity laws and such cases are beginning to be filed, said Quinn. The jurisdiction of EEO covers any private employer of 15 or more persons as well.

A person now may file a complaint in behalf of another employee or a class of people, Quinn said. "We need the name, date, but it doesn't have to be exact because discrimination may be ongoing, employer and nature of discrimination, but not detailed information," he explained.

ON THE AGENDA

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters To Hold Founding Party Tuesday

Nine Marin County chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will hold the 42nd anniversary of founding Tuesday at the Marin Country Club in Novato. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m. Mrs. Pat McNamara of Omicron Alpha chapter will be installed president.

Nineteen pledges will be receiving the ritual of jewels. They are Mmes. Larry Reinhardt, Gamma Omicron; Sherman Harris, Jerry Pagnusit, Allan Weiss and Marie Jenkins of Omicron Alpha; John Breuner, William Larson, William Landfried and Pamela Hegg of Upsilon Gamma; Howard Stites, Donald Wulf, Michael MacCarthy and Misses Beverly Woodhouse, Bessie Garner and Jamie McHugh of Delta Epsilon Chi; and Mmes. Bruce Kates, Nathan Noah, Augusto Aguilara and Barbara Wein of Xi Kappa Psi.

Officiating the degree will be Mrs. H.W. Meyerink, president of Northern California council and a member of Preceptor Delta Chi.

Mmes. William Fuller and Fred Horton are chairmen for the founder's day banquet. Assisting them are Mmes. George Kipgen, tabe decorations; Walter Valen, programs; Ronald Lord, publicity; Tom Peterson, flowers and scrapbook; Richard Schau and Chester Pec, reservations and place cards; Gary Stansfield, girl of the year; and James Schyberg, favors.

DURING EASTER week, the Community Services Section of the Outdoor Art Club has been visiting rest homes in Mill Valley, conducting games, offering a puppet show program, and giving hand-decorated Easter gifts to the patients.

Mrs. Girard Smith is section chairman; Mrs. J. M. Hahn, decorations, and Mrs. Robert Morgan and Mrs. Paul Currie, puppeteers.

Give Your Husband A Little Leeway In Battle Of The Bulge

DEAR HELEN:

I work my posterior off making low-calorie meals for my husband who has a weight problem. I never buy candy, cakes, or have anything fattening in the house —even though I'd love them for myself. His health is important to me.

One day when I had to go out unexpectedly, I passed my husband in his car — eating an ice cream cone! I think I was more shocked than if I'd seen him with a blonde.

When I questioned him later, he told me I was seeing things. I know I wasn't and it absolutely infuriates me. What would you do? — DECEIVED BY SMALL VICES

DEAR DECEIVED:

I'd let the bathroom scales tell me what to do. If they show a consistent weight loss for your husband, then let him have his little "ices."

If not, then he's become a secret eater, and you'd better let your doctor scare the fear of a heart attack into him. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

May I add an adult answer to "Forever Fem"? In putting down modern self-sufficient girls, she said, "Policewomen, yecch!"

It appears she is mistakenly equating "femininity" with incompetence, weakness and vulnerability. Does she really believe that women who are actively participating in a "man's world," who are capable of conversing intelligently with males, and (or) who may be "athletic," are not feminine?

I'd like to correct her policewoman "image." ("How unfeminine can you get?" she asks of a girl who wants to become a woman detective.) Has she ever met a female police officer? I have been told many times that I "do not look like a policewoman" by people —most of whom have never seen one but have formed an image of a huge, tough brute.

Surprisingly (to F.F. at least) I too "love make-up and looking pretty," and "take pride in being thin." I certainly do not try to "overpower" men, and I have not found it difficult to "find a way to a guy's heart."

Hope she decides to explore the world of the new woman further. If so, tell her to stop in at the police station and we'll visit. — (SERGEANT) CAROLEN B., ST. PAUL POLICE DEPARTMENT

Liberation From Another Direction

offered me: a lot of money, a very high position at a young age and a lot of prestige, and these things were in a sense bribing me not to do what I wanted to do with my life, which was something that I thought was socially positive. . .They would have been more of a temptation had my wife not been making a good income, because then everything would have been a reflection of how much I was bringing into the family."

Farrell, who is taking a year off next year to work primarily for the movement, cites as one of his greatest benefits "this tremendous freedom I have to question or to lose any job I have because I'm not totally responsible for the breadwinning. It has also given me the freedom not to specialize. Specialization is part of not being vulnerable —'Don't question him, he's the expert' — and it ties into one of the basic male problems, their inability to ask questions."

As important to Farrell as the sharing of breadwinning in marriage is the sharing of child care. Though he and his wife do not yet have children, he feels that his personality is "particularly conducive to involvement with children." Moreover, "it is not healthy for children to have one parent dominating. If a woman has basic, loving, maternal characteristics, a man should spend time developing them. I think that the division of labor with the man doing one thing and the woman the other leads to a division of interests. It forms a gap between the two persons that often leads to divorce."

CORROBORATING FARRELL'S belief in the humanizing effects of child care on a man is an article in "Ms." magazine by Jonathan Weighland, a divorced father awarded custody of his two small children.

"Each day with my children, I am discovering things I didn't know were there. I know that this parenthood business — as I used to refer to it when I was married, with a mixture of ignorance, mystery and contempt — is something very special and precious among persons, and much too important to be left either to fathers or mothers alone," he said.

Also shared, in Farrell's scheme of things, is the anathema of housework. Farrell stated that one of the biggest problems in men's consciousness-raising groups is "the absolute inability to discuss housework. It's considered trivial because women take care of it. . .Part of the fallacy of tossing off housework as trivia or as nothing is the underlying contempt for women that men have, the assumption that the things women do can be done very easily. It's not until men begin sharing those things that they have real appreciation of the thousands of little details that prevent them from getting any serious work done."

Other major points of male resistance Farrell enumerated were "underestimating the extent to which the woman wants to be liberated, escaping to all the times she did something typically 'feminine.'. . .Also what I guess could be called our emotional constipation is a major barrier. We keep emotions in our system and just can't get them out, nor can we deal with the emotions of other people very easily. We also feel threatened not so much by the change of role as by the loss of control. The inability to accept a woman in control is a cause of impotence, and it's tied in with contempt, the idea of being controlled by an inferior."

Perhaps one of the greatest benefits of feminism to men is that it liberates them from the burdens of the "masculine mystique," which like the "feminine mystique" subordinates their personal inclinations to cultural expectations.

FOR EXAMPLE, boys are brought up to be aggressive, competitive, strong and unemotional. This "machismo" ideal encourages an equation of money with masculinity, discourages any display of "weakness," whether it is crying or simply confiding and is a spawning ground for power struggles, violence and war. The consequence is not only the oppression of women by men but an equally serious oppression of men by each other.

Gloria Emerson, Vietnam correspondent for the New York Times, wrote in a recent article, "Once a woman has seen how the Army can nag men and crush them and never look on them with favor until they are wounded or dead, she can never be committed to the Women's Liberation Movement.

"I have been married. For 10 years I have worked with, and for, men in a profession that is largely composed of males. But I know that you can gain ground and hold it and fight back if you are willing to pay the price. I have never known a woman who was as helpless as a draftee, as humiliated and hassled as he is, or one who had so few choices. Men may be condescending to women, but they do not send us out to die for them. The real victims of men are other men."

Because the institutionalized polarity between the sexes inhibits men from showing "feminine" characteristics such as sensitivity and passivity, men, like women, are thwarted from developing their full potential as individuals, the liberationists argue. This is not to say that women should become like men are now and that men should become like women are now. That would be no more than a futile switching of roles leading to a new balance of power. The point is to abolish roles and power balances, to become complete male and female human beings rather than simply males and females.

In an essay Farrell cites the hypothesis of the sociologist Harold Lasswell that persons with low self-estimates tend to seek power. The implication is that those men who cling most tenaciously to the masculine mystique are the most unsure of themselves as men.

"It takes a secure man to want a liberated woman, and developing secure men means breaking down the emphasis on external goals, the achievement of which is linked to masculinity," wrote Farrell.

Or, as Marine concludes at the end of his book, "We must first overcome our fear: our fear of each other, our fear of the society, the culture and most of all our fear of the women themselves. If the idea of free women makes us feel 'unmanned,' it is the fear, not the women, that unmans us. Or as Myron Brenton (author of "The American Male") puts it, 'As long as men feel that the equality of women will emasculate them, it is exactly what will happen.'"

ON BEING BLACK

Super, Super, Super That Familiar Word

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

For awhile, to the point of nausea, everything and everyone was beautiful. Ugly-acting individuals and ugly situations, for lack of honest appraisal, were beautiful. The toilet tank was beautiful.

Mercifully, beautiful (misused, abused and consequently rendered meaningless) has dropped in verbal popularity, and a new cliche is with us. Everything and everyone now is super.

Our children never miss the Saturday morning superstar movies, the Lucy reruns and the now archaic Superman.

Companies still employ token blacks but are leery of the superblack types.

A TRIP to New Orleans may net you a powerful gris-gris and superstitions galore.

Black movie fare introduced us to Superfly, who, in his chosen profession, was superbad, i.e., outstandingly good.

Athletes are now running heats in supertime, and the kids are blowing bubbles with something called Superelasticbubbleplastic.

Our country continues to maintain its supersonic jets, and our young people continue to dig on supersonic rock sounds.

The stage proclaims Jesus Christ as superstar, and meditation groups demonstrate how we can become supersensitive to our inner beings and the world around us.

Whites are "allowed" to have soul while blacks have supersoul.

You can get superduper scoops at the ice-cream parlor, and some of us rely on horoscopes and the supernatural to guide our daily lives.

Since we Americans have a tendency to burn out anything we use, and since we have long fancied ourselves to be a superlative people (the biggest, the richest, the most attractive), what word will replace it when "super" is a cinder? Is there a superlative for super?

ART REVIEW

New Gallery Not Ordinary

By ADA GARFINKEL

Galleries come and galleries go. Occasionally one that opens seems to be a cut above the ordinary. This is the case at the Port Art Gallery in Mill Valley with a five-artist group show as its opening feature.

Two of the artists are photographers. Each has his individual approach and attitude.

David Cordoni, a gold-medal winner in the 1972 Seattle International Photography Exhibit, is concerned with intimate indoor scenes in which sunlight and shadow play a dominant role as a background for one or two people in wordless communion with each other.

Photographer Bernie Lustgarden shoots the mad, mad world around him, enriching the dead-end junk of his scenes with whimsy and poetical titles. A close-up of a pile of skate-wheels and oil cans for example, is dubbed "America on the Move," while "Gulliver Travels No More" shows the rear view of a dismantled Ford truck, its jagged, broken taillight a breeding ground for a crop of weeds.

More contrived is the scene of empty boxes as homage "To Malvina Reynolds," the composer, and a laboratory flask is a subject for the sardonic humor of "Minnie's Revenge."

Sculptor Jon O'Day's alabaster figures rest on wooden bases — truncated pyramids or cubes stained ebony or of natural walnut. All of the figures pivot on their bases.

O'Day's inspiration is drawn from the classics — "Mercury" and "Muse;" from life: "Torso" and "Man and Woman;" from the environment — "Orgasmic Subway," and lastly, from the letters of his own surname.

Multiple thin layers of paint create irridescent effects in "Innerscape," and "Color Veils" combines merging oval and circular forms such as one might see in bright sunlight or upon falling asleep.

The quintet of artists is rounded out by gallery director David Auerbach, whose linear drawings skillfully visualize whole complexities and insights in significant vignettes within a total montage effect.

With the whole world as his scope, the highly developed, mysterious Inca civilization becomes visible. So does the former movie empire in "Hollywood USA."

Hybrid forms — hands becoming snakes, legs becoming faces — and moral justice — "If my Eye offends Thee" — are other concerns for the Dartmouth graduate. So is the extinction of rare animal species such as the brown antler deer, elk, and mountain ram which he draws in their total gracefulness in "Pandora's Box."

But Auerbach's thin black line is most scathing and dramatic in "Strip Mining," in which he documents the ravages to the land in strong black and white details as a wedge-shaped section is lifted from the circle that is earth.

The exhibit will continue through May 15 and may be viewed Tuesday through Sunday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The gallery is located at 393 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

Evening Of African Music, Dance Set

"From Home to Harlem," an evening of African music, dance and drama, will be presented next Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Ives Hall, at Sonoma State College.

The college African music and dance ensemble will present drumming, singing, chanting and dancing to illustrate the culture of Africa.

Combining the poetry of Longston Hughes and Paul Lawrence Dumbar with mime, dancers will present "Montage of a Dream Deferred," depicting Harlem in the 1920's.

Directing the program will be Tunji Vidal, Ada Hall and Debra Collar. Reservations should be made through the office of instructional services and continuing education.

Deaths On Motorcycles, Bicycles Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fatal accidents involving motorcycles and bicycles have increased sharply in the past four years in California while traffic deaths in other vehicles have remained at the same level, it was reported yesterday.

Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski said fatal accidents involving motorcycles increased 51.3 per cent during the period and fatal bicycle accidents rose 95.5 per cent at the same time.

Pudinski noted the number of all fatal traffic accidents totaled 4,427 in 1969, one more than recorded in 1972.

But he said there were 394 fatal motorcycle accidents in 1969 compared to 596 in 1972 and 66 motorcycle fatalities in 1969 compared to 129 last year.

Pudinski urged both the motorist and cyclists to "remain alert at all times while continuing to follow the rules of the road." He said bright clothing should be worn by cyclists to make it easier for motorists to see them.

Registration Set For Camps

Sign-up day for Marin Young Men's Christian Association summer programs for boys and girls will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 28, YMCA officials announced.

Programs include day camps, residence camps, special trips, back-packing trips and mountain trips for various age youngsters.

The sign-up day will feature free T-shirts for registrants, refreshments, balloons, contests and games, according to Carl Jensen, program director.

Drop In Demand For Texas Crude

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The U.S. Bureau of Mines estimates the demand for Texas oil next month will be less than it was this month. But the State Railroad Commission said Thursday that oil pumps can run at full capacity for the 14th consecutive month.

The Bureau of Mines estimate of May market demand for Texas crude oil totaled 3,425,000 barrels daily, down 10,000 a day from the April estimate, said commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon.

Teachers To Present Scholarship Benefit

Members of the Marin Branch of the Music Teachers Association of California and their guests will perform at an annual scholarship benefit concert at 8:30 p.m. May 5 in the Fine Arts Building at College of Marin.

Performers will be Marcelle Mignault-Strong, mezzo-soprano, and pianist Annie DeCook, Arndt Hansen and Ronald McFarland.

Guests on the program will be Betty Mueser, cellist; William Clark, harpsichordist; Bruce Strong, Caity Hurt and Sarah Allen, flutists, and Patricia Russell, pianist.

The program will include Cantata by Telemann, Aria from Pastorale Cantata by Bach, Sonata Opus No. 10 by Beethoven, Third Scherzo in F Sharp Minor by Chopin and Divertimento for Two Pianos by Ronald McFarland.

FAMILY

"Cinderella" — Disney's delightful fairy tale in a magnificent production with plenty of music.

"Charley and the Angel" — A depression-era comedy about a man so preoccupied with his business he neglects his family until he learns his time on earth is limited.

"Dumbo" — Classic cartoon feature about the baby circus elephant with gigantic ears who overcomes all obstacles and becomes the hero of the circus.

"Living Free" — Dramatic but laugh-provoking adventure of lion cubs in this excellent sequel to "Born Free." A delight.

"Sounder" — A fascinating document of life in the deep south as well as an inspiring drama of familiar love and loyalty.

"Legend of Lobo" — Here a wolf tells his story, he is the hero and man the villain. There is adventure, suspense, humor and education about wild life.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Brother Sun and Sister Moon" — Lyrically beautiful photography and fine acting add dimension to this 13th Century story of the effects of war on a young man and his decision to renounce all worldly goods and live a life of poverty and service.

"Buck and the Preacher" — A post-Civil War tale of the problems of recently freed slaves who set out to make new homes in the West. Plantation owners try to frighten the blacks to returning to the South. Violence.

"The Getaway" — Fun and games crime escapade about a half million dollar bank robbery contains every shoot-out cliche since "Bonnie and Clyde." Director treats film as a satire.

"Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" — An outlaw takes over a Texas town in the 1880's and creates his own brand of law and order.

"Man of La Mancha" — Awaiting trial by the Inquisition, Cervantes puts on a play telling the tale of Don Quixote thereby inspiring his fellow cellmates in a Spanish dungeon.

"Separate Peace" — Drama based on John Knowles' novel about the critical senior year in the lives of two American prep school students in 1944.

"Sleuth" — British production of recent Broadway mystery hit presents rivals who play at a murderous game of wits. Casts dynamic performance creates excitement and suspense.

"Soylent Green" — New York City, 50 years hence, when 40 million people live there has many problems of scarcity of everything and rigid, corrupt governmental control. (San Francisco Chronicle)

BORDERLINE
(Most courses say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — A raw, raucous satire on subjects formerly held sacred or taboo. Plot is an excuse for all kinds of hilarious and offensive situations.

"Cries and Whispers" — Stunningly beautiful scenes and intricate lives of the characters aren't easy to forget in this psychological drama set in the last century. Two sisters return to their ancestral home to comfort a sister who is dying of cancer.

"Scorpio" — High quota of action and violent deaths in the tale of CIA agents and double agents being triple-crossed. (Boxoffice Magazine)

ADULTS ONLY

"Dirty Harry" — This San Francisco police thriller is an exercise in violence. Film tries to make a case against the pampering of criminals. Strong stomach needed.

"Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie" — Surrealist satire about a foreign ambassador and his Parisian friends trying to have a meal together but always interrupted.

"Klute" — Hard hitting psychological story about a policeman and a call girl.

"Prime Cut" — A Chicago syndicate big shot is sent to Kansas City to make a sadistic local operator of a prostitution ring toe the line. Excessive violence, nudity and cursing.

Special Analysis Workshop Is Set

An introduction to transactional analysis will be given by Duncan Cameron in a three-day workshop May 18, 19 and 20 at the Lewis Marshall Lloyd Educational Center in San Anselmo.

San Anselman Plans To Open Antique Shop In San Rafael

Donald M. Jones of San Anselmo, who has been dealing in antiques in Marin since 1962 when he first came to Sausalito from St. Louis, will open an antique shop at 821 B Street in San Rafael about the end of this month.

Jones is remodeling the building formerly occupied by The Loyal Order of the Moose, next to Assemblage Gallery, across the street from Filipello & Filipello Antiques, Marin's long-established and largest antique shop.

Jones, who has traveled to London, Amsterdam and other parts of Europe to develop contacts, said he will specialize in quality merchandise.

His interest in antiques started in St. Louis where he grew up on Antique Row, later called Gaslight Square. He worked as picker (one who buys from flea markets and sells to dealers), lectured at the Marin Art and Garden Center Lauren House antique shop, helped price items for the Sunnyhills Bargain Box, and worked at Town and Country Antiques in Sausalito for about three years.

Donald Jones Antiques is the fifth new establishment to locate within a block and a half of B Street in San Rafael since last August. The Assemblage Gallery opened in August at 819 B Street, followed by Dali Feenjon deli-restaurant at 901 B Street, and Mary Strickler's Quilts at 936 B Street. Grandma's House Antiques of San Francisco is preparing to open a branch at 831 B Street next to Donald Jones.

CHARLES E. HAMEL of Mill Valley has been elected senior vice president for National BankAmericard Inc., San Francisco-based administrative organization for the BankAmericard program in the United States.

He joined the corporation during its formation in July of 1970 as treasurer and became vice president in October of that year. Hamel was controller with Shuman, Agnew and Co. in San Francisco before joining National BankAmericard Inc.

Hamel

McNeil

J. DOUGLAS McNEIL of Novato was elected vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company's Chartered Life Underwriters Association this week. The announcement came from Pacific Coast field vice president, James M. Smith.

McNeil is an agent with the firm's San Rafael general agency at 4340 Redwood Highway in Northgate Industrial Park. A graduate of the United States Naval Academy, he joined Hancock in 1954.

GARDEN OF DELIGHTS Productions, a theatrical and stage designing group, has been formed in Sausalito to provide all technical services needed in stage performances —plays, dances and concerts.

McGee

Elison

It is located at 360 Gate 5 Road in Sausalito, Post Office Box 642. Principals are Robert Elison of Mill Valley, head coordinator; Martin McGee of San Rafael, equipment coordinator; Aaron McDonald of Sausalito, architectural designer and stage lighting expert; and Carol Von Buchau of Mill Valley, artist, photographer and musician who also handles public relations.

Garden of Delights Productions offers planning, designing and lighting of stage productions and graphics, posters, silkscreens, films and other equipment for all types of performances. It also gives instruction in photography, film making, theater and stage lighting, silk screen, organic gardening, tap and cabaret dancing.

"We also rent space for theater groups who want a place for rehearsals," said Mrs. Von Buchau.

D & R ADVERTISING Specialties, a new firm that puts advertising on items like pens and calendars, opened last week in San Rafael.

Owner of the firm is Richard Schaffer Jr. of 859 Hacienda Way, who formerly managed the Seven-Eleven store in Santa Venetia for a year and a half. He has lived in Marin for 16 years.

D & R Advertising Specialties prints names on pens and pencils, calendars, and balloons; and makes magnetic signs, business cards, low-cost business forms of all kinds, and labels and decals.

THE GREAT STORE in San Rafael, next to Rafael Theater, has just acquired a beer and wine license for its restaurant, the Inside Outside Cafe, located to the rear of the store. It serves domestic and imported beers, wines and champagnes.

KAREN DAHLIN, broker of Red Carpet Realtors at 701 Third Street in San Rafael, announced that Owen W. (Spud) Moore of Tiburon has joined the firm as an associate. Moore has experience as a mortgage loan broker and as an appraiser. He will be salesman and financial counselor to clients of Red Carpet Realtors.

McDONALD'S Restaurants in Marin donated 7,000 hamburgers for the benefit of the Marin Catholic High School Scholarship Fund.

Seven thousand tickets, each entitling the holder to a McDonald hamburger and fries, were issued for a luncheon and fashion show held at Dominican College on March 31, with proceeds going to the Marin Catholic Scholarship Fund.

SAUSALITO ARTISTS and Merchants Association is sponsoring a champagne cocktail open house Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. to celebrate the official grand opening of Pets of Sausalito at 1913 Bridgeway, near the Seven-Eleven shopping center.

Judith Abramson and Biba Davey of Sausalito opened the pet shop six months ago in space formerly occupied by The Family Store. Pets of Sausalito features salt water fish, iguanas, lizards, turtles, chinchillas, birds, hamsters and other pets. Dog grooming is done by appointment. Those who attend the open house Sunday afternoon will have a chance for door prizes.

PETER GERBER of Larkspur has been named a vice president of Grubb & Ellis Securities Co., Oakland. He will be responsible for marketing the company's current and forthcoming resort condominiums. Additionally, he will be working with the Grubb & Ellis Development Company on resort projects at Lake Tahoe, Hawaii and Mexico.

Gerber previously worked for Grubb & Ellis' financial services division.

FORMER JUDGE Samuel W. Gardiner, who retired from the Marin Superior Court bench last December, is busy as ever in the private practice of law. He is with the San Rafael law firm of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks in the Albert Building, 1010 B Street.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU — Roderick D. McPeak mans the new Marin branch of the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco. McPeak is manager of the new office in the Albert Building in San Rafael.

Better Business Bureau Opens Office In Marin

Marin County now has its own branch of the Better Business Bureau in the Albert Building, 1010 B Street, San Rafael.

Roderick D. McPeak of San Rafael opened the San Rafael office this week in room 310.

D. W. Schwartz, general manager of the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco announced that the branch was opened in San Rafael to serve Marin County residents on a more personal basis.

"We will provide full inquiry and reliability report services, complaint handling facilities, and consumer education materials at the San Rafael office," said Schwartz. The Marin branch will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

McPeak, the Marin manager, attended Alameda parochial schools, took courses at San Francisco City College, and volunteered for the Army, serving for three years including one year in Germany. Since then, he did general office and bookkeeping work and dispatching for a large truck-leasing firm in San Francisco.

Since joining the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco last September, McPeak was manager of the membership and sales department until his assignment to the Marin office.

Familian Plans Another Move Into Northwest

VAN NUYS (BW) — Familian Corp., through its subsidiary, Familian Northwest Inc. of Portland, Ore., has agreed to acquire Pioneer Supply Co. of Seattle to create one of the leading full-line plumbing and industrial pipe distributing companies in the Northwest.

Announcement of the acquisition of Pioneer by Familian Northwest was made today by Bernard J. Shapiro, president of Familian Corp.

Jerry Stern, president of Familian Northwest, and Sanford Gladstein, president of Pioneer, announced jointly that they expected the merger of the two firms to be finalized by May 1.

Stern will be president of the newly formed subsidiary firm, to be known as Familian-Pioneer, and Gladstein will serve as vice president and general manager.

The move into Washington is the second for Familian, which opened a branch in Kennewick last year. The consolidation of the two companies increases Familian Northwest's Oregon and Washington facilities to five and raises the total number of Familian Corp.'s outlets to 17.

Familian Corp., the parent firm, is engaged in the manufacture, fabrication and distribution of plumbing and related products for residential, commercial and industrial building industries through its various subsidiaries.

Familian is the West Coast's largest distributor of plumbing products, including pipe, valves, fittings and fixtures. It is also the country's largest manufacturer of gas and electric fireplaces and makes kitchen range ventilating hoods and food waste disposers.

Vice President Of Litton Named

BEVERLY HILLS (BW) — Crosby M. Kelly has been named a senior vice president of Litton Industries Inc., effective May 1, according to Charles B. Thornton, chairman and chief executive officer.

Kelly, who resigned as a vice president of the corporation in 1965, rejoins Litton after eight years in his own management consulting firm.

Acting Chief

SUNNYVALE (BW) — J. Bryan Sullivan Jr. has been appointed acting president of American Videonetics Corp., following the resignation of D. J. Murphy as president and director.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Purex Long-Range Potential Is Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 200 shares of Purex Corp. (NYSE) at 19⅝. It has never gone back up to my cost price despite making good profits. I blame this on the company's efforts to conglomerize and ultraconservative management. — W.L.

A. Although Purex has reported higher profits in each of the past five quarters the earnings trend has been erratic and improvement in the December quarter was only minimal. Nonetheless for the year to end June 30 a gain of about 15 per cent to $1.55 a share is anticipated. Management has been aggressive in marketing the company's grocery and consumer products, which account for about 10 per cent of sales. Recently the introduction of new products has been stepped up and unprofitable agricultural operations scaled down.

Company efforts to expand and diversify make sense, helping to counteract the cyclical segments of operations. Shares should be held for their above-average long-term prospects.

A. Gladly. On a discount bond the average annual capital gain is first calculated by subtracting purchase price from the face value and dividing the result by the number of years to maturity. This figure is then added to the coupon rate to get annual net income which is then divided by the purchase price. A similar calculation is made, dividing the same net income by the face value minus the annual appreciation. The two resulting yields are added and divided by two to get an approximate yield to maturity.

In premium bonds the annual loss is subtracted from the coupon rate to arrive at net income. Further along in the calculation the net income is divided by the bond's face value plus (as opposed to being subtracted for a discount bond) the annual average loss. The remaining processes are the same as above. The longer maturity a bond has the less accurate is this method. Nevertheless you can get an idea of yields using this procedure.

Florida Businesswoman Conquers Big Handicap

TAMPA, Fla. — One of the most active and successful businesswomen in Florida has walked on crutches all her life. She was hit by polio when she was a year old.

The weakened muscles in her legs and hands never gained strength, but Mrs. Natalie Gels didn't slow down.

She worked her way through Wayne State University as a switchboard operator, and later as a statistician. Then she did graduate work at the University of Michigan.

After college, she learned that people were discriminated against because of handicaps. That's why she started a special employment agency, partly to help them. It is a big success.

Mrs. Gels is a former Woman of the Year, chosen by the American Business Women's Assn. She has worked with the Tampa Advertising Club, the Credit Managers of Tampa and many other organizations.

At the same time, she has led a successful home life. She has two grown children and three grandchildren.

She cooks at home for herself and her husband, who also suffers from polio. But she doesn't do her own housework.

"I'm too busy for that," she says, "playing bridge and studying psychology in my spare time." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

STP Record

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (BW) — Sales of STP Corporation climbed to an all-time first quarter high. Per share earnings for the 1973 first quarter were 40 per cent above the first quarter of last year. Sales were 7 per cent above the 1972 first quarter, Anthony Granatelli, chairman and chief executive, said.

Neatness is good roofing, passersby might surmise, as stacks of tile form interesting patterns atop the First Presbyterian Church under construction opposite the library in San Rafael. The stacks enable the clambering roofers to lay the material in a quick and efficient way. The church will replace a century-old stone building razed because of the threat of earthquake damage.

Madera Del Presidio Hearing Set

By PAT PERRY

The bitterly contested Madera del Presidio development — halted by a taxpayers' suit in January — will be the center of attention in Corte Madera again Tuesday, when the town planning commission holds a public hearing on the project's environmental impact report at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

The 532-unit townhouse and apartment project by Harter and Odenthal Development Company of Orinda, has brought opposing Corte Madera residents to court, to petitions, to organized protests, and to mock funeral processions and lying in front of bulldozers, since it began last year.

The development was halted in January when Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson said he will sweep away the town's approval of the project. The citizens' suit, filed by Larry P. Weingarth and Marilyn Hallin, and backed by dozens of residents, rested on the lack of a proper environmental impact report.

The report before the commission on Tuesday was prepared by town planning consultants Sedway and Cooke, and pros and cons of the mammoth project have been aired for the last year.

The developers intend to build 128 townhouses selling for $38,000 each by autumn this year, state the consultants. Next year it is expected that 90 townhouses selling for $45,000 and 75 apartments at $23,000 each will be constructed by autumn. In 1975 another 90 townhouses at $50,000 each will be built, with 75 more $23,000 apartments. The final construction will be in 1976, with 74 $55,000 townhouses.

The most obvious adverse impact of Madera del Presidio, acknowledges the report, will be elementary schools — or, rather, the lack of elementary schools.

The development lies entirely within the Mill Valley School District, which has no school within walking distance. The Reed School District has space available in its Granada School in the Marin Estates subdivision, which is within walking distance, but Madera del Presidio children wouldn't be entitled to attend it, nor the Larkspur School District's schools.

In addition, high school age children would be in Redwood High School's attendance area, and that school is already operating at capacity.

The report suggests redistricting as the only way to solve the school problem.

Other adverse impacts listed in the report include the need to widen Paradise Drive between El Camino and San Clemente drives, the requirements for two more policemen and two more firemen, and a new sewage treatment contract or facilities.

Noise from traffic on Highway 101 could bother residents of Madera del Presidio, and the report suggests double pane glass on windows facing the freeway, heaving door flashing, and noise-reducing barriers or baffles along the freeway.

The report notes that many of the development's original proposals have already been altered to meet local objections and minimize environmental impact. Public trails have been included in the plans, and recreation areas improved. The existing creek in the site's meadow area will be preserved, and so will established and significant vegetation.

Smog Board Urges Congress To Resist Nixon On Air Standards

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials yesterday urged Congress to resist the Nixon administration's plan to weaken the Clean Air Act of 1970.

The resolution adopted unanimously by Air Pollution Control District directors was proposed by the board's newest member, Napa County Supervisor John Tuteur. It appealed to Congress to ensure "the strictest possible regulation" of air pollution.

The 1970 act set the standards which must be used throughout the nation.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency last week granted the auto industry a one-year delay in meeting emission limits set by the act. President Nixon said on Tuesday that some compromises on environmental standards are needed to keep the costs of energy at reasonable levels.

Tuteur, citing reports the Nixon administration soon will ask Congress to weaken the 1970 act, brushed aside claims by U.S. auto manufacturers that they need at least an extra year to meet the 1975 standards set by the act.

Newark City Councilman Robert T. Plowright quipped that "someone forgot to notify Mazda and Honda that the technology is not available." Both Japanese manufacturers expect to meet the 1975 standards by 1975.

Tuteur likened the need for tougher smog controls on autos to the nation's decision to land a manned space flight on the moon. "When the people decide to get something done, it can be done," he said.

Board chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County Supervisor, objected that federal air pollution experts originally proposed the stringent limits on autos be effective in 1980. Politicians in Congress cut it to 1975, he said.

The district's deputy air pollution control officer, Milton Feldstein, pointed out that even if the limits had been imposed by 1975 the Bay Area could not meet the federal oxidant standard until 1985. One of the alternatives to tougher smog controls is rationing, he noted.

St. Clair also complained that the Nixon administration's decision to let auto manufacturers off the hook for one year was "punishing" the rest of industry by forcing it to carry an unfair portion of the burden of controlling pollution.

A representative of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. objected from the audience the board's resolution was "motherhood and apple pie." It amounted to urging a law against the motor vehicle, he said. He declined to give his name to newsmen, saying he spoke for himself and not for the utility.

Tuteur closed the matter by commenting "the auto has ruined more than the air."

Conservationist Asks Smog Violation Probe

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials were charged yesterday with delaying prosecution of polluters so long that the one-year statute of limitations has run out on numerous cases.

Jean Siri of the West Contra Costa Conservation League told Air Pollution Control District directors that they should investigate the staff's handling of the cases.

Speaking at a meeting of district directors, she was critical especially of the district's former temporary attorney, Robert Anderson of Oakland. He worked part time from June through September while the district was between permanent attorneys.

Anderson was paid $50 an hour, and got a total of $13,287.

Mrs. Siri said that up to half of some 40 violation notices issued over the past 18 months against Humble Oil and Refining Co. alone had lapsed because they were not filed in court for prosecution.

"We believe the duty to the public has been abused by Mr. Anderson or the district," she declared.

District directors asked the staff to answer her charges at the board's May 2 meeting.

The district's new attorney, David Self, told the Independent-Journal he has worked to catch up on a backlog of cases he inherited when he started work in November.

Homes For Japanese Students Sought In Marin For A Month

Thirty Marin families with big homes and big hearts are being sought to provide housing for as many Japanese students this summer.

For one month, from mid-June to mid-July, the students will learn first-hand about life in America. They'll live with Marin families and study conversational English and American history.

It's part of a program supported by Interstudy, a Swedish-based nonprofit corporation started 10 years ago to place European students in American homes.

Last year, according to Michael E. Kaufman, a teacher at Mill Valley Middle School and area representative of Interstudy, the program was expanded to include Asian students as well.

It's not exactly an exchange program, Kaufman said, because it doesn't involve sending American students to Europe or Asia, but the basic idea is the same: "To let them (the students) experience the American way of life and develop competency in English."

Homes for the students and one Japanese teacher have to be found by the first of June, preferably in Southern Marin, Kaufman said.

The students won't stay in Marin the entire month. There'll be side trips to Yosemite and Southern California as well as local sightseeing.

Each student has at least two years of study in English, with the average being three or four years. Most will be 18 or 19 years old, although ages vary from 17 to 23, Kaufman said.

Families interested in housing one of the students should write to Kaufman at P.O. Box 198, Belvedere 94920, or telephone him. He lives at 256 Bay View Avenue, Belvedere.

Tapestry Show

The remaining Gobelin pieces we ordered from France have just arrived to complete the most extensive showing of tapestries ever held in this area.

Included in the show are woven wool, quilted and embroidered examples, both large and small, and tapestry woven hand bags, bell pulls and other small items. Acquisition of one of these tapestries now would be a wise investment for the future.

THIS BEAUTY ISN'T SKIN DEEP

The man who built this home was fussy — you can tell by the handsome exterior and landscaping. (Herman Hein), he was fussy about interior details too, for example, the 4 bdrms., 2½ baths and family room are beautifully decorated and "white glove" clean. There's a separate large studio or rumpus room, beautiful picture windows thruout. Quality carpeting, lovely paneling and colonial style kitchen with natural birch cabinets. Available for inspection. SAILING SAILING

Marina Gardens is THE place for the active working couple or young family in Marin. Just a block from the San Rafael Marina, you can walk right from your front door to your sloop or fishing boat. After work you can swim in one of the two pools & it's just a short bike ride to a weekend picnic on Mt. Tamalpais. The modern just decorated apartments have 2 big bedrooms, all electric kitchens, 4+ closets (plus unusually big storage for your sails & skis) & private balconies to enjoy those bay breezes. Plus easy shopping & the commute bus at your front door. Sunny sails on the bay happy hikes on Mt. Tam, elegant dinners in Tiburon, intimate evenings in Sausalito. All yours for $210-$225 per month. Hurry! Renting this weekend for immediate occupancy. Rental office open all weekend, 8 am - 6 pm. Phone for information. 456-0123. Marina Gardens Apartments, 129 & 137 Canal St., San Rafael.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

CITY OF FAIRFAX, STATE OF CALIFORNIA

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Fairfax will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, California, on or before 10:00 a.m. on the 4th day of May, 1973 for the furnishing of all labor, materials, and services required for the 1973 STREET RESURFACING PROJECT.

Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications, and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of Ben C. Albritton, City Engineer, 35 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, where they may be examined and copies thereof be obtained upon deposit of $10.00 per set, which deposit will not be refunded. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the City Engineer, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, currency or bid bond, equal to ten per cent of the aggregate amount of the bids, which amount shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract, if awarded him, and will file the contract bonds required within fifteen days after notice that his bid has been accepted.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any irregularity in any bid received.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is on file at the office of the City Clerk and incorporated by reference herein. It shall be mandatory that all persons employed in the execution of the contract be paid not less than said specific wages and rates, and that existing labor agreements, relative to overtime, holidays, and other special provision, be recognized.

Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

NOTICE OF ESCHEAT
SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF SACRAMENTO, NO. 232414

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a petition has been filed in the above-entitled court, which proceeding is designated as State of California, plaintiff, v. Ivy Baker Priest, Treasurer of the State of California; Houston I. Flournoy, Controller of the State of California; Doe One through Doe One Hundred, defendants, and numbered 232414 in the records thereof, to escheat certain sums of money and items of personal property. Said sums and items are derived from the estates of deceased persons whose estates were probated in the State of California, said sums and items being distributed to named persons and thereafter deposited in the treasury of the county in which probate had been had because of the failure of the distributees to claim the amounts so distributed. Thereafter, and at the time of the next county settlement following the expiration of one year from the date of deposit in the county treasury, all of the sums of money and items of property so distributed and deposited were delivered to the State Treasurer. All of said sums of money and items of property have been on deposit in the State Treasury for more than five years prior to the commencement of the above-mentioned proceeding.

Among the sums of money to be escheated in the above-mentioned proceeding are the sums designated below which were forwarded to the State Treasury from the Treasurer of the County of Marin and which are derived from estates probated in Marin County.

The names of the decedents whose estates were probated, the names of the known heirs or distributees to whom the amounts to be escheated were distributed, the approximate date of receipt by the State Treasurer, and the gross amounts received in each estate are as follows, to-wit:

Name of Decedent and Heir and Distributees	Date Received	Amount
Falconi, Michael aka Falconi, Mikele A. Falconi, Mike Falcone, Mikele Angelo For: Joe Falconi	7/13/60	$ 1,774.71

NOTICE IS ALSO GIVEN that the above-entitled court has issued an order directing all persons interested in the sum of money and items of property to be escheated to appear before the court and show cause, if any they have, in Department 3 on the 4th day of June, 1973, at 9:00 a.m. in the courtroom of said court, in the Courthouse in the City of Sacramento, County of Sacramento, State of California, why said sums of money should not be decree of said court vest in and escheat to the State of California.

For further particulars on the above-entitled matter, reference is made to the petition and order on file in said proceeding.

'Waltons' Top Emmy Nominations

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Waltons" led the Emmy nominees announced Thursday, with 12 nominations, followed by "The Julie Andrews Hour," "The Mary Tyler moore Show," "M-A-S-H" and "The Red Pony."

"The Waltons" collected 12 nominations. The weekly series, a sleeper that began low in the ratings but picked up followers after being highly praised by critics, tells tales of a mountain family during the Depression.

Among its nominees was Richard Thomas, who plays John Boy, for best actor in a leading role, and Michael Learned, who plays his mother, for best actress in a series leading role.

Ten nominations went to the Julie Andrews Show, which has been canceled.

The "Mary Tyler Moore Show" won 9 nominations, and "M-A-S-H" and "The Red Pony" 8.

The nominations were announced by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. The winners will be revealed in a telecast ceremony May 20.

"All in the Family," the No. 1 ranked show in the ratings, drew seven nominations, as did "The Carol Burnett Show."

Carroll O'Connor, Archie Bunker of "All in the Family," was nominated for best actor in a comedy series.

Liza Minnelli, who last month won the best actress Oscar for her performance in the movie "Cabaret," drew an Emmy nomination for starring in the most outstanding musical-variety show, her special "Liza with a Z."

Nominated for most outstanding single show of the year were "Long Day's Journey into Night," "The Red Pony," "That Certain Summer," "A War of Children" and "The Marcus Nelson Murders."

Sculpture Will Be On Exhibit

END OF LINE FOR RUNAWAY AUTO

San Rafael policeman Richard Michaelsen calculates damage caused by runaway sports car that rolled down Arguello Circle in San Rafael at about 7:40 p.m. yesterday. Police said the unoccupied car jumped a curb, rolled down an embankment and crashed through a retaining wall before banging into the side of a house at 46 Arguello Circle. Car owner, David B. Lapidus, 53, of 109 Gordon Avenue, San Anselmo, told officers he parked the car facng downhill and was struck from behind by the rolling auto when he walked in front of it toward the sidewalk. He managed to spin out of its way then suffered cuts on face and hands when he tried to stop it.

Lakers' Sharman Vows No Letdown Vs. Warriors

Combined AP & UPI

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Bill Sharman isn't forgetting the last time the Los Angeles Lakers won their first two games in the National Basketball Association playoffs. In fact, he remembers it like it was yesterday.

"We can't let down now," the coach for the defending champion Lakers said. "We'll have to play hard in Oakland."

Despite a 2-0 start in their opening series against the Chicago Bulls, the Lakers needed seven games and a lastminute finish Sunday night to advance to the semifinals against Golden State.

Now the Lakers find themselves in the same position against the Warriors following their 104-94 victory here Thursday night. The series now moves to Oakland for games No. 3 and 4 Saturday and Monday nights.

Jerry West sank Golden State 101-99 with a jumper with eight seconds to go Tuesday night and he finished them off with a 36-point performance in the second game, while Wilt Chamberlain gave the Lakers superiority on the boards with 30 rebounds.

"Our defense won the game," said West, who complained he never felt more tired than in the opener against Golden State when he scored 17 points.

"I felt so much looser tonight. When I woke up the other day, my hands felt heavy. This time, my hands felt light."

Like Sharman, West wasn't about to write off the Warriors in the Western Coference finals.

"Being two games up isn't that much of an advantage at this level of competition," he said. "At this point, you have to play well in every game."

"If we go up there and let them win two games like we did against Chicago," chipped in Jim McMillian, who had 21 points Thursday night, "it's going to be very tough."

If necessary, the best-ofseven series will return here Wednesday night. Meanwhile, the Eastern Conference finals between the Boston Celtics and the New York Knicks, tied at 1- 1, will continue in Boston tonight.

In game No 2 of the Laker-Warrior series, Chamberlain outrebounded Nate Thurmond, whose strategy was to attempt to lure the Laker giant away from the basket with his outside shooting, 30-14. The Lakers wound up winning the rebounding battle 55-47.

"I think they (the Warriors) got tired the last few minutes," said Chamberlain. "They weren't taking good shots toward the end but I think our defense had something to do with that.

"We want him (Thurmond) to shoot outside. We'd rather see that than (Rick) Barry or (Jeff) Mullins shooting outside. Anyway, it's not my job to guard Nate when he goes outside.

Golden State, the team that eliminated the Milwaukee Bucks, was led by Barry with 29 points—before he fouled out with 2:04 to go—and Mahdi Abdul-Rahman, the former Walt Hazzard, who came off the bench to score 20 points.

Barry made an obscene gesture after fouling out and after the game was quick to point out that the Lakers won the game at the free throw line —24 to 13—while each club made 40 field goals.

"Sure, we committed fouls, but not to the extent they were called," he said. "We're going home and we know we can win two there but we realize with a break or two we should have been 2-0 now."

"I was knocked down and have a four-inch scratch to show for it, yet I get the foul," he declared.

"I'm not going to change our defense," said Golden State Coach Al Attles. "We intend to play with the same aggressiveness we've been playing with. Quite frankly, I didn't see any extraordinary roughness on our part out there."

Rough, Uphill Climb Ahead For Warriors

To say the Warriors are going to have a rough time reaching the National Basketball Association finals would be putting it a trifle too mildly. I suggest you not bet the house mortgage on it. I wouldn't even bet my lunch money on it.

Coach Al Attles would have been very content with a split of the first two Western Conference championship games played in L.A. as that would have meant the Golden Staters need win the three playoff games scheduled in Oakland and not worry about winning any more of the L.A. games. Now the Warriors must win at least one of the away games in the best-of-seven series.

That is why Attles was so angry when Golden State let that first game slip through its fingers. When the Lakers tied the game and then won it on Jerry West's jump shot, television viewers could see clearly Attles' disgust as Angry Al kicked a towel nearly over the bench after he had called that last timeout.

It was Rick Barry's turn to show his disgust in last night's game. With that age old gesture displayed by the use of just one finger, he let the referees know his feelings about the call of the sixth foul which sent him to the bench for the night. The camera work was perfect, although unplanned. And no, referees Don Murphy and Ed Rush, you are not No. 1 in Barry's eyes.

True, the officiating didn't help the Warriors, but putting too much emphasis on the poor officiating takes away from the jobs that Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West did.

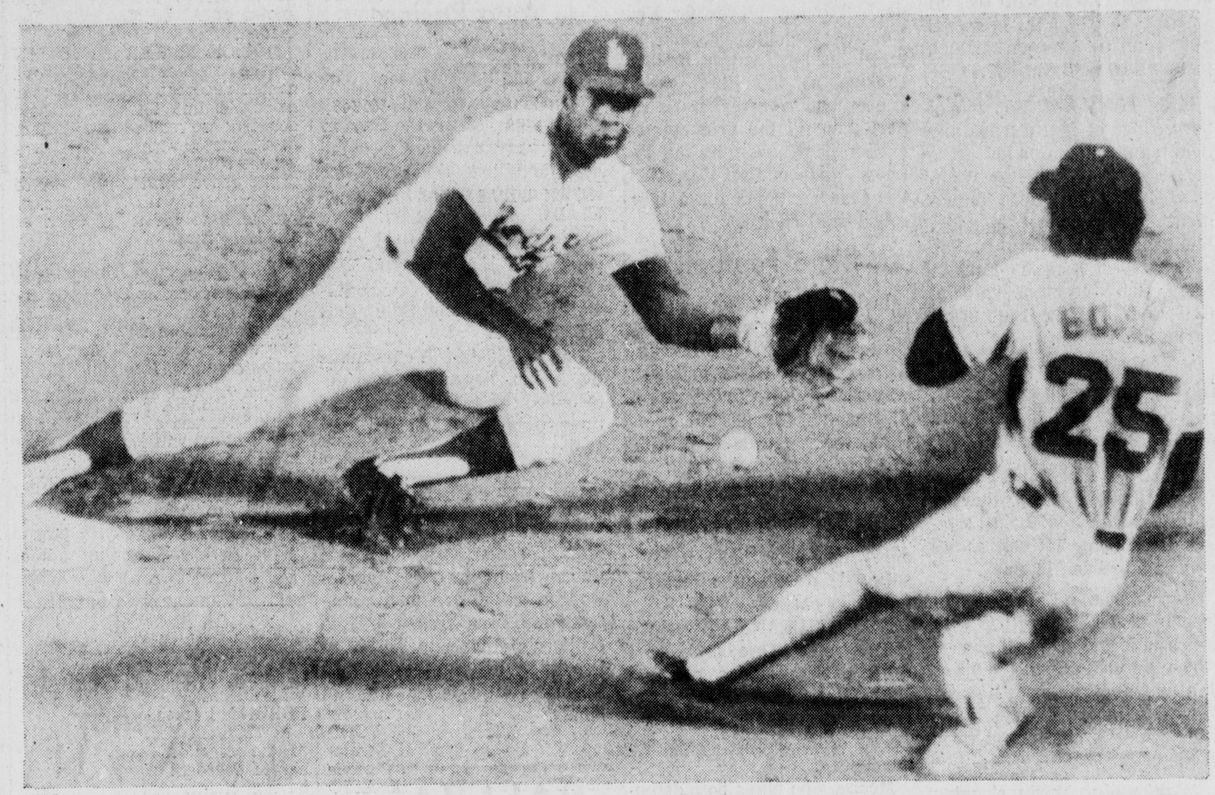
After watching those first two games on television I get the feeling that the Lakers' strategy is to just stay close to the opponent for the first three quarters, knwoing that they'll win out in the last few minutes. It's as if they say,

Maybe it's the experience. Maybe it's the steadying influence of coach Bill Sharman. But it seems the Lakers are poised, calm, and relaxed when the game gets down to those final, crucial minutes. This is the way they beat the Chicago Bulls in the conference semi-finals and it's the way they beat the Warriors twice so far in the conference finals.

It's possible things will turn around when the teams play in Oakland tomorrow and Monday nights. Two wins for the Warriors will give them the psychological edge going into L.A. But if they lose tomorrow, don't expect to see Boston Celtics in Oakland.

AN HONORABLE GAME is golf. The honorable Yasushi Oshima, mayor of Osaka, Japan, and wife Naoko will be playing a round of golf tomorrow at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael as guests of Kizo Mineo, senior vice president of the Mitsui Co. in S.F. and a member of Peacock Gap. Mayor Oshima will be grand marshall of the Cherry Blossom Festival parade Sunday in San Francisco, sister city of Osaka.

HAPPINESS IS six straight strikes in bowling. Unhappiness is six straight splits. Last night in the 845 Scratch League at Nave Lanes, Ellis (Cy) Seibert, retired sheriff's deputy and investigator, started off his third game with six splits and broke the string with a nasty old strike in the seventh frame. A couple of splits later Cy finished the game with a score of 116 and then said, "Let's see. Three strikes in the first game, five in the second, and eight in the third. That's 16."



A STEAL — San Francisco Giants' Bobby Bonds (25) arrived under the throw to Los Angeles Dodgers' Lee Lacy who was covering second base on a Bonds' steal attempt last night in Los Angeles. Bonds stole the base along with much of the game's thunder by belting a home run, driving in three runs and scoring two himself as the Giants defeated the Dodgers, 8-6.

'Old' Bonds Sets Giants' Example

S.F. Star Crashes Home Run, Leads Victory Over Dodgers

Combined AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES — Outfielder Bobby Bonds says he and Willie McCovey, as two of the oldest men on the San Francisco Giants, have to set an example for the younger players on the club.

The 27-year-old right fielder did just that Thursday night when he smashed a two-run home run, his fourth of the year, and a single to carry the Giants to their fourth straight victory, an 8-6 win over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Willie Davis drove in five runs with his second and third homers of the season but they weren't enough as the Dodgers dropped their second straight game.

"We have a lot of young players who never quit, Bonds said. "I've never seen a Giants team so inspired. We want to take it (the Pennant) this year and we're going after it. I think we have the fastest outfield in baseball.

"McCovey and I have to be the leaders to help the club," Bonds said.

Bonds' homer allowed him to catch up in that department with McCovey, who went hitless against the Dodgers Thursday.

The win boosted the Giants into a full game lead over Cincinnati in the National League west.

"We're trying to take each game as we go," Giants manager Charlie Fox said.

Bonds' homer came in the seventh inning with Dave Rader on base with a single and it gave the Giants a 7-4 lead.

But Davis came back in the eighth with his second homer of the night with Bill Buckner on base to narrow the score to 7-6 and drive winner Jim Willoughby from the mound. The victory evened Willoughby's record at 1-1.

The Giants opened the scoring in the second when Ed Goodson singled and Garry Maddox tripled and scored when Steve Garvey fumbled the ball.

Tito Fuentes singled in Bonds from second after a walk and stolen base to make it 3-0 in the third but the Dodgers bounced back to take a brief 4-3 lead in the inning on five consecutive hits.

Singles by Lee Lacy and Bill Russell and a double by Buckner drove in one run and set the stage for Davis' first homer, a three-run blast.

The Giants added two runs in the fourth when Maddox singled, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch. Gary Matthews then singled, advanced to third on Rader's single and scored when Willoughby forced Rader.

Bonds singled in pinch runner Gary Thomasson in the ninth for the Giants final fun.

Randy Moffitt, who pitched the last two innings for the Giants, was credited with his second save of the year.

It required a superb relief job by Moffitt to preserve the win for Willoughby. After Davis' homer, Elias Sosa relieved.

"He couldn't find his glasses," explained Fox. He couldn't find the plate, either, walking two batters and Moffitt of Mill Valley entered with the tying run at second base.

'Hot' Colbert Is Rejecting A Golf Label

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — At 32, Jim Colbert of Kansas City, Kan., has been on the pro golf tour for seven years and has won only three tournaments but he doesn't take a backseat to the big names such as Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

He shot a 34-32--66, six under-par, to move into a one-stroke lead in the first round of the 72-hole $200,000 Tournament of Champions Thursday.

"I don't consider myself a dark horse," he said. "People just don't talk as much about me as some of the other golfers."

Colbert gave a lot of credit for his subpar round to a new driver with a graphite shaft. He said he hit the ball lower from the tee and was more accurate. He was in the rough only twice at the par 36-36--72 La Costa Country Club course.

A stroke back at 35-32--67 was Homero Blancas of Houston, who was the last of the 31 entrants to qualify for this elite event. He won the Monsanto Open at Pensacola, Fla., last Sunday.

"I'm a streak player and I'm on a hot streak," he said. "This course is kind of awesome with its narrow fairways and deep rough but it grows on you."

Tied for third and still in good position for a shot at the top money of $40,000 Sunday were Lee Trevino and Jim Jamieson, a rotund first-timer from Moline, Ill. Trevino, who qualified by winning six tournaments during the past 12 months, shot 31-37 and Jamieson who won just one—the Western Open—carded 35-33.

Trevino who would become a golfing millionaire if he won this one, started with a string of three birdies, was five under at the turn and seven under after 12 holes. Then he slipped with three bogeys on the last six holes.

The merry Mexican said he has been bothered by a pulled muscle in his left shoulder. He did it when he went fishing in Mexico before the Masters Tournament, he said.

"Then I went home and hit 2,000 practice balls during the week," he said. "I didn't want people to think I was just a 75-shooter like I was at Augusta."

He wore an extra undershirt for warmth and is getting rubdowns with an ointment, he said.

Grier Jones, the collegian from Wichita, Kan., landed alone in fifth place with 34-35--69.

Palmer and Nicklaus who have each won this tournament three times, shot 70 and were in a tie for sixth with four other

Mitty Nine Tops Marin Catholic

SOQUEL — Unlike the Walter Mitty of James Thurber's famous tale, Mitty High School of San Jose is capable of translating its daydreams into achievements, as it did yesterday by defeating Marin Catholic in the Soquel Boosters Baseball Tournament in this Santa Cruz County town, 5-2.

Marin Catholic helped the Monarchs by committing three errors behind pitcher Joe Ducey to allow four of the five runs to be unearned.

Mitty, the West Catholic Athletic League leader, boosted its overall record to 16-4. Marin Catholic is 7-12.

Mike Nivens of the Wildcats hit two singles, each a factor in the 'Cats' scoring. In the third inning, Russ Knudsen walked, took third on a hit by Nivens, stayed there as Rich Lopez was hit by a pitch, and trotted home as Layne Cozza drew a bases-loaded walk.

In the fifth, Rich Speidel singled, Nivens advanced him with a single and Lopez drove him home with another base hit.

Marin Catholic will be idle today but will meet Morello High tomorrow at 10 a.m. for seventh place in the eight-team tournament.

AT SPYGLASS HILL

Nine Local Golfers In 4-Ball Tourneys

Nine golfers from Marin and Southern Sonoma are scheduled to compete in the Northern California Golf Association four-ball tournaments at Spyglass Hill on the Monterey Peninsula late this month and early next month.

Competition in Division A, for teams with a combined handicap under 24, will be held April 26-28, while Division B, for handicaps 24 and above, will be held May 3-5.

Nine-handicapper Robert Lyons of Marin Country Club will team with Stanley Ellexson (11 handicap) of Franklin Canyon Golf Club and will tee off at 9:48 a.m. Thursday in Division A. At 9:21 a.m. Friday, James Carroll (8) and Charlie Comstock (10) of Rohnert Park Golf Club will begin play.

In Division B, Jim Wieder (11) and Kelly Gearety (16) of Marin C.C. will tee off at 8:45 a.m. on Thursday, May 3; Robert Kyle (10) and Robert Dreyfus (14) of San Geronimo National will tee off at 8:54 a.m. May 4; and Terry Jarcik (6) and Elwood Frink (18) of Marin C.C. will begin play at 9:03 a.m.

The NCGA also announced it had sent out entry applications for its Public Links Championship, scheduled August 4-5 at Spyglass. Entries are due no later than 5 p.m. Monday, June 18, at P. O. Box 1157, Pebble Beach 93953.

LI'L LEAGUE OPENER SET TOMORROW

Only one Marin County Little League opens play this weekend, but it's a whopper!

The Novato National and American Little Leagues begin play tomorrow at 9 a.m. with marching bands and team presentations. Some 558 players on 36 teams will be introduced at Rancho School.

After the introductions, four games will begin simultaneously around 10 a.m. and play will continue until dark. All 36 teams will play.

Seven leagues have begun play in Marin this month. Next week's opening festivities include: Mill Valley American and National leagues, Twin Cities, San Rafael American and National leagues, Sausalito, Strawberry, Tiburon-Peninsula, Fairfax-Sleepy Hollow, Gallinas Valley, San Anselmo, and Hamilton-Loma Verde.

A's Taunted By Royals' Words, Bats

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The world champion Oakland A's are home today for a meeting with California following a 16-8 Thursday night shelling in Kansas City at the hands of the Royals.

A's manager Dick Williams may have second thoughts before making remarks again about the Kansas City Royals.

Williams, after his A's broke the Royals' four-game winning streak with a 7-6 victory Wednesday night, said, "We busted their bubble."

Kansas City stormed back Thursday night with a 19-hit attack to clobber the A's 16-8.

"Hey, Williams, you busted our bubble, huh!"

Amos Otis had his biggest game of the season, driving in four runs with a homer, triple and two singles and scored three times. He started the scoring with a two-run triple in the first when the Royals knocked Blue Moon Odom, 0-3, out with a four-run outburst.

The A's never caught up even though Gene Tenace hit his fourth home run of the campaign in the second to make the score 4-2.

Otis, after Kansas City broke loose for four more in the second, slammed his third homer in the third inning with a man on base as the Royals took an 11-3 lead.

Williams, angered by the bombing, said, "I told you they had a good hitting club. I think we'll meet again. We'll show up the next time we play."

Williams insisted the world champions will continue to go with only eight pitchers even though he was caught shorthanded Thursday night.

By AL GIDDINGS

Fish, Hunt Licenses Need Your Signature

Sportsmen are advised to make sure they put their signatures on their hunting and fishing licenses.

The Fish and Game Commission, meeting in Los Angeles April 6, adopted a regulation designed to prevent licenses being "shared" by more than one hunter or fisherman.

In addition to bearing the signature of the individual sportsman, licenses and validation stamps must show the date of purchase, year of birth and physical description.

CALIFORNIA'S THIRD spring turkey hunting season, which is designed to give hunters an extra chance to bag a wily tom, will open tomorrow in 14 counties and a portion of one other.

The season, which ran for nine days last year and the year before, has been extended for an additional week this year.

Generally, the Department of Fish and Game said, prospects for hunter success are good for those who have mastered the art of calling a gobbler.

An increase in take is expected because of the good hatch last year in most areas and because one new county and portions of three others have been added to the open area.

BAG LIMIT IS one bearded turkey — with a beard visible through the breast feathers — per person. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise and until noon.

Toms may be taken only with shotgun or bow and arrow, and the fish and game advises scattergunners to use minimum loads of 2, 4 or 6 shot at distances of not more than 40 yards, preferably 30 yards or less. Dogs may not be used during the spring hunt.

According to the fish and game, the toms will be spread out over their spring strutting territory and may not be found in their usual fall or winter grounds.

In virtually every case, Department of Fish and Game officials said, the spring turkey hunter will have to call the tom to him if he expects to bag one. Calls range from a wing bone to a cedar box fitted with a well chalked lid. Even rubbing a hardwood peg against a piece of slate is supposed to produce results.

OPEN FOR THE abbreviated season, which runs through Sunday, May 6, are all of the counties of Colusa, Fresno, Glenn, Kern, Lassen, Monterey, Nevada, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Shasta, Tehama, Trinity, Tulare and Yuba, and that part of Mendocino County lying within Mendocino National Forest.

Open for the first time this year is Fresno County. The balance of Glenn, Tulare and Kern counties, portions of which were open last year, also have been added to the open area.

Hunters are advised that, except for public lands in the open areas, all hunting will be on private land for which permission from the landowner is required.

HUNTER SURVEY results indicate that about 1,900 birds were taken in the spring and fall hunts last year. An estimated 2,400 hunters turned out last spring, and more than 4,000 last fall.

The California Fish and Game Commission has set a hearing on a special antelope hunt in Modoc, Lassen and eastern Shasta and Siskiyou counties. The hunt was proposed by the Department of Fish and Game.

The commission scheduled the hearing for 8 p.m. May 15 in the Church Fellowship Hall in Alturas, Modoc County.

Three-hundred and eighty-five permits would be issued for the Aug. 25-Sept. 3 hunt. The department reported 380 hunters took 300 buck antelopes in a special hunt in the area last year.

A MINIMUM of 4,357 animals, the highest number in 20 years, were counted in this year's census.

Commissioner Joseph Russ III of Ferndale, Humboldt County, will preside at the hearing.

Munyon, McCamish Lead Suburban Win

Jess Munyon hit a three-run home run in the fifth inning and Ron McCamish went two for three with one run batted in as the Suburban Auto Pistons of San Rafael drubbed Artichoke Joe's last night, 6-0, in a San Francisco "A" league softball game.

Suburban will host defending state champion Wilson-Russell Ford of Vallejo in a doubleheader tomorrow night at Albert Field, beginning at 7:15 p.m.

LINKS NOTES

Marin Golf Action In Full Bloom

Local courses, laden with greenery and covered with golfers basking in the wind and sunshine, are active this week, according to the club pros.

The Mill Valley Golf Course hosts its Directors' Cup tournament qualifying Sunday. Some 50 to 60 golfers will tee off starting at 6:30 a.m. in medal play in an 18-hole round. Match play will be held April 29.

MRS. TONY BAILEY, wife of the College of Marin track and field team coach, won low gross honors in the North Bay Women's Golf Association tournament contested last Monday, Wednesday and Friday. She shot a 246 at Kennedy Park in Napa, San Geronimo National Golf Club and the Blue Rock Springs in Vallejo.

Mrs. William May prevailed in the championship flight, posting a 257-42—215 in a field of 68 gal golfers.

MEADOW CLUB near Fairfax will hold its kickoff tourney Saturday with a 9:30 a.m. shotgun start. Some 144 golfers are expected to shoot 18 holes.

Marin Country Club in Novato gets in the act April 28 with its Founders' Day tourney. About 132 golfers will tee off at 9 a.m., shotgun-style. Each foursome in the 18-hole event will include a charter member of the club.

Additionally, Marin Country Club was to have held another free clinic today. Some 30 youngsters were expected to participate. Tuesday's clinic drew 21 juniors, ages 6-17. They were treated to an hour clinic covering game basics.

Perry Pitches No-Hitter

Clobber, Inc. may be ready to change its name to Whitewash, Inc. today following a no-hitter last night by its pitcher, Ronn Perry.

Perry struck out 11 batters from California Land and Title during his gem as Clobber won the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball league game at Albert Field, 11-0.

In the only other game, George and Charles Carpentry scored seven runs in the seventh inning to tie the SMB Fliers, but the Fliers won in the eighth, 11-10.

Patriots, Bills Swing Big Swap

Combined AP & UPI

FOXBORO, Mass. — The New England Patriots obtained running back Wayne Patrick and linebackers Edgar Chandler and Jeff Lyman yesterday in a six-player trade with the Buffalo Bills.

The Patriots surrendered linebacker Jim Cheyunski, guard Mike Montler and defensive end Halvor Hagen in the deal. The key player for New England was Patrick, who enjoyed his best season in 1971, ranking as the Bills' No. 2 runner and receiver. He is expected to fill the void created earlier in the year by the Patriots' trade of Carl Garrett to the Chicago Bears for a first-round draft choice.

LONDON, Ont. — Don Paquette, who played with four Canadian Football League teams in the 1950's and 60's, was sentenced to four years in prison on charges of manslaughter in the death of a 44-year old salesman last fall.

Paquette, a former lineman, pleaded guilty to the charge in the death of Kenneth Mero, who died Sept. 1 of head injureis suffered in a severe beating four days earlier.

NEW ORLEANS — Derland Moore, New Orleans' No. 1 draft choice, signed his 1973 National Football League Contract with the Saints yesterday. Terms of the contract were not announced.

Moore, who plays both defensive end and tackle, was selected to both the Big Eight Conference and All-America teams.

Tennis

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. yesterday advanced to the quarter-finals of the Masters Tennis Tournament with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Anne Kiyamura.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Brian Gottfried yesterday posted a 6-1, 5-7, 7-6 triumph over Sausalito's Bob Lutz and advanced to the semi-finals of the World Championship Tennis tournament.

Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The Eagles and the McLarens, cars that have monopolized the front row starting berths the last two years, were expected to dominate activities when practice for the million dollar Indianapolis "500" opens April 28.

A perusal of the field of 82 entered in the Memorial Day classic shows that 29 Eagles and 15 British-built McLarens are entered.

Only the fastest 33 cars make the lineup, however, to be determined in two weekends of time trials May 12-13 and May 19-20.

Baseball

ANAHEIM — Right-hander Mike Strahler, who was obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the five-for-two winter swap, was traded by the California Angels to Toledo of the International League yesterday for catcher Charlie Sands.

Pickett Captures 22-mile Bike Race

Tom Pickett of Redwood High School yesterday won Class A in the 22-mile bicycle road race from Nicasio to Point Reyes and back by a narrow margin over Tom Knutsen of San Marin (both riders timed in 1:01:31) and Tom Gartner of Tamalpais (1:01:34).

Everett Gordon of Tamalpais won Class B in 1:03:05 and Mike Vendetti of San Rafael took Class C in 1:08:06 in the race, sponsored by the Marin Cyclists. It was the last in a four-stage series, and the overall standings showed Pickett first, Knutsen second and Gartner third in Class A.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Tigers' 'Home' At Fenway Park

Combined AP & UPI

Fenway Park is the home of the Boston Red Sox — and a home away from home for the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers feel very comfortable there, says Bill Freehan.

"In this ballpark, you just know you'll get your share of hits," the Tiger catcher said after his team got more than its share with 16 in an 11-7 victory over the Red Sox Thursday.

The triumph gave the Tigers a sweep of their four-game series, a rarity in Fenway where the Red Sox usually are extremely tough. The lusty hitting gave the Tigers 56 hits for the series and raised their team batting average from .165 to .239.

In other American League games, the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 10-7, the New York Yankees topped the Baltimore Orioles 61 and the Kansas City Royals defeated the Oakland A's 16-8.

In the National League, the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing 7-0; the Montreal Expos topped the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 and the Pittsburgh-St. Louis game was postponed by rain.

Ken Singleton belted a three-run homer in the sixth inning as Montreal erupted for five runs to defeat the Phillies. The score was tied 1-1 when John Boccabella led off the sixth with a single and later scored on a double by rookie infielder Pepe Frias. Mike Jorgensen's double drove in Frias as Montreal went ahead 3-1.

Mike Torrez who worked six innings, won his first game of the year in four decisions. Tom Walker mopped up for his first save of the season after Philadelphia got single runs in the sixth and seventh innings and rallied for three runs off Walker in the eighth.

Predicted Log Race Scheduled April 28

It is a boating prognosticator's delight.

A predicted log race, a test of a skipper's navigation abilities, will be held Saturday, April 28, at the Loch Lomond Yacht Club. This event, third in a series of seven races, is sponsored by the Independent-Journal and will start at 8:30 a.m. at the San Rafael Channel.

The skipper who comes closest in matching his predicted times (log) with his actual times will be the winner. Prizes will be awarded to all participating skippers in the event, sanctioned by Predicted Log Racing Association of Northern California.

Some 30 to 40 power boats, featuring about 100 participants, will compete. John Money of the San Joaquin Yacht Club, who skippered the Yenom On to victory last year, will be back to defend his title. (If you're wondering about that name of Money's boat, read it backwards.)

In the San Rafael Yacht Club race March 24, Phil Chivell of Loch Lomond Y.C. was the overall winner on the boat, Denus. Jay Heinen of the host yacht club was the D Class winner on Mary Ruth. In the Berkeley race April 14, two Loch Lomond Yacht Club members stood out. Stan Moore was the overall winner, while Bob Montgomery was the A Class champion on Mary Agnes.

Deadline for entry forms and accompanying $4 fees is Tuesday at 5 p.m. Further information can be obtained by contacting PLRA Commodore Norman S. Buell at 125 St. Albans Road, Kensington, 94808.

Mini Gingham Checks In The New Sero Purist® Button-Down.

The New Purist button-down collar is longer and a bit fuller, but not obviously so. To wit — this longer collar doesn't dominate the shirt or the man who wears it. Nothing is obvious except the quality tailored into the shirt.

The mini check gingham is a superb blend of 65% polyester and 35% cotton that keeps its composure on the most humid days. And the colors are as gentlemanly as its checks.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Give Your Opponent A Chance —A Chance To Make A Mistake

Very often the main point of a hand is a struggle by declarer to reach the dummy, while the defenders struggle just as hard to prevent this. Occasionally, however, the defenders should give up their struggle. "Live and let live" is a good motto for bridge players.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

RUFFS CLUB

South played a low club from the dummy at the frist trick and ruffed the next club. He then drew three rounds of trumps and led the queen of diamonds.

West played the deuce of diamonds, showing that he held three cards in the suit. (West would have played a higher diamond if he held two or four diamonds.) East knew, therefore, that South also held exactly three diamonds.

East could refuse to take the queen of diamonds and likewise the next diamond. He could save his ace to kill dummy's king of diamonds, and South would never be able to win a trick in the dummy.

EAST'S REASONING

East might have adopted this plan, but he could see that South wanted to reach dummy in order to take a spade finesse. East could also see that any spade finesse would fail.

For this reason, East took the second diamond with his ace. He then returned a club, making South ruff.

THIRD DIAMOND

South unsuspectingly led his third diamond to dummy and finessed with the queen of spades, losing to the singleton king. South still had to lose another spade, and was therefore down one.

If East had prevented South from reaching the dummy, South would have been obliged to lead the ace of spades from his own hand. The singleton king would have dropped, and South would have made his contract. Incidentally, South should have led the ace of spades first as the play actually went, but that is another story.

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

It is unusual to make a forcing bid with only 19 points in high cards, but the hand will probably produce a game even if partner has a worthless hand.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREG

That's my line! Yes, people called them this, but can you guess their real names?

1. DER FUHRER was born this day in 1889. His father was an Austrian, his mother a Bavarian, and their family name is said to have been Schicklgruber. A failure as an artist, draftsman, and businessman, he entered politics after World War I and succeeded in becoming the "supreme leader" of Nazi Germany, plunging Europe into World War II. His name was (A) Adolf Hitler, (B) Joseph Goebbels, (C) Rudolf Hess.

2. THE PHILOSOPHER, a Roman emperor, lived in the years 121 to 180 — a writer, thinker, ruler, politician, and military commander. There is a bronze equestrian statue of him in Rome, set there by Michelangelo. But towering over his skill in the strategy of warfare is the work he composed in Greek, called the "Meditations." His name was (A) Julius Caesar, (B) Marcus Aurelius, (C) Nero.

3. THE MASTER COMEDIAN is the way this man was honored by Hollywood in 1952 with a special Oscar, bearing that title. Slim, dark-eyed, wearing glasses and a puzzled look, he was successful in both silent and sound films, making such classics as "The Freshman" and "Feet First." His name was (A) Eddie Cantor, (B) Charlie Chase, (C) Harold Lloyd.

4. THE GREAT HAMP is what he was called on a record album he put out with trumpet star Charlie Teagarden. Born in Louisville, Ky., he started as a drummer, then took up piano and vibraharp. It was the latter which got him teamed with Benny Goodman in a famous quartet — the first vibraharpist to play real jazz on this instrument. Sixty today, his name is (A) Gene Krupa, (B) Herb Hancock, (C) Lionel Hampton.

A Grim Scenario For Quake '06 Intensity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A repetition of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake would take more than 10,000 lives, close bridges, airports and freeways —and probably collapse dams, causing thousands of more deaths, according to a federal study released yesterday.

In a grim 220-page scenario of the earthquake that many have predicted, the experts said that under "credible assumptions" a half dozen major dams could collapse in the San Francisco Bay Area, each causing deaths in the thousands.

The study, released one day after the 67th anniversary of the 1906 San Francisco quake, was drawn up by the Office of Emergency Preparedness last year. It is the basis for an earthquake emergency plan now being prepared by the state of California.

The federal disaster experts estimated damage that would be caused by a quake with a Richter magnitude of 8.3 — equal to the 1906 earthquake — occurring either on the San Andreas fault, where that one occurred, or the Hayward fault in the East Bay.

The study also estimated damage from quakes of Richter 7 and Richter 6 on either of the faults. Generally, the damage from the smaller quakes was expected to be much less, although a hundred deaths could be expected from a Richter 6 quake occurring at 4:30 p.m. in San Francisco.

If the big quake took place at 2:30 a.m. when few people are in the high-rise office buildings or on the streets, the death toll was estimated at 2,850 in a 1906-type quake.

A similar quake at 2 p.m. would cause 9,460 deaths, 2,100 of them in schools. At 4:30 p.m. when many people are on the streets, the quake would take 10,360 lives, including 200 deaths caused by freeway collapse and motorist panic.

The federal study listed 226 dams in the San Francisco Bay Area. As many as six of them could collapse, it said, but "for planning purposes," complete collapse of only two dams in the East Bay —the San Pablo Dam and the Upper San Leandro Dam —is anticipated. These dams would probably fail even in a smaller quake of Richter 7 magnitude, according to the study.

If those two dams collapsed at night, the death toll from flooding would probably be 60,000. "Streets, freeways, and rapid transit systems will be closed as will be schools, factories and airports," the study said.

The repetition of 1906, however, would not result in a repeat of the fire which destroyed most of San Francisco that time.

Every large city in the area can be expected to have at least one major uncontrolled fire, and there will be water shortages and access problems. But "it is not reasonable to expect a conflagration in terms of 1906," the disaster experts said.

However, if a fire breaks out in a high-rise building whose elevators and water had been disrupted by a quake "life loss in the upper stories could be in terms of hundreds of persons."

Radio and television stations would be out of service for at least 24 hours, half the telephone service in the area would be out, the telephone system "for all practical purposes will be useless" and newspapers could not be printed in the area for at least a week.

While the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and the Golden Gate and other spans are not likely to fall into the bay, landslides and freeway collapse at their approaches will probably make them unusable, the study said.

A section of Bayshore Freeway south of Candlestick Park south of San Francisco will almost surely wash away in such an earthquake, cutting off the main highway to the south, according to the study.

One-fourth of all the freeways would be impassible, including Interstate 80 in the East Bay.

The BART tube under the bay, although built to withstand quakes, "will be considered out of service for an indefinite period of time," the researchers said.

Even a quake of Richter magnitude 6 would block the BART tunnel through the Berkeley Hills, the study said. Thus, the whole transit system would be shut down in a quake of 8.3 or 7 magnitude, and the East Bay portions would be inoperative after a Richter 6 quake.

San Francisco International Airport would be closed down "in terms of weeks," and the Oakland airport for a week by a major quake.

The study said most areas would suffer power losses for 24 hours. Water supplies would be greatly reduced due to aqueduct damage, and natural gas lines and sewers would also be disrupted.

Rabbits Frolic Set Tomorrow

The 57th annual "frolic of The Rabbits" easter egg hunt will be held at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at the golf driving range at the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds, Petaluma.

The program by the Petaluma Recreation Department will be limited to preschool and kindergarten-aged youngsters. Prizes will be awarded in the homemade Easter Bonnet parade as well as to children finding special eggs.

Marin Young People To Aid Latin Doctors

Twenty-four Marin young people, most of them high school students, are completing a seven-month training course preparing them to become volunteer paramedics this summer in the Amigos de las Americas program.

The young people, after training in such skills as giving innoculations, will conduct immunization clinics and serve as doctors' assistants in remote villages in five Latin American counties.

They also are studying Spanish, Latin American culture, first aid, sanitation and various diseases during their training period. The Amigos pay their own way to Latin America and help raise additional money for medicines and supplies, according to Nancy Bourbour, chairman of the Marin Chapter of Amigos de las Americas.

No Stop In Pot Arrests Planned

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Chief Bruce Baker has instructed Berkeley police to continue making marijuana arrests despite an order from voters to make the weed their lowest priority.

Baker said Thursday that he will ask the City Council next week for authority to continue to enforce the marijuana laws.

"I cannot leave this in limbo," he said. "I must give guidance to my officers."

An 'Open Campus' To Be Studied

The Tamalpais High School District board will consider a students' proposal for an "open campus" policy at Redwood High School at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Redwood faculty lounge.

Redwood students want to be permitted to leave the campus during their free period, during break or lunchtime and have suggested that a trial open campus period be approved until May 25.

In a report to be presented to the Tam trustees, students Lauren Post and Carla Baird claim all public high schools in Marin (with the exception of Novato and San Marin) permit students to leave at any time.

The two students note that of all Marin police departments, only Larkspur and Mill Valley object to open campus policies.

Also on Monday's agenda is a discussion about the district's continuation education program at Mewah Mountain school and a policy on reviewing contracts.

Young Cotati Councilmen Move To Bounce Manager

Push Ordinance To Allow Dismissal On 3-2 Vote

By BONNIE BARD

Youthful members of the Cotati City Council last night teamed up to oust the city manager next month in a move oldtimers called "the radical take-over of the town."

The council meeting began with a shouting match behind closed doors in a personnel session to consider firing City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen.

Councilman Herbert T. Winter said he and Councilman Frank J. Dolinsek strongly supported Salfen, but the three young people out-maneuvered them by introducing an ordinance to reduce the required margin for dismissal from 4-1 to 3-2.

"What this does is give them full control," Winter said. "All the oldtimers will just go down the drain now. This is the last step in the radical take-over of Cotati."

Winter said no major accusations were brought against Salfen in the closed session. "It was just a lot of small items and some of the things weren't even his fault," Winter said.

The three Sonoma State College graduates ousted three council incumbents last year to become the council majority and have been threatening to fire Salfen for months, saying he is working against plans they have to improve the community.

"They just drove Salfen right into the ground", Winter said. It will be a month before the ordinance takes effect and the firing can be done by the 3-2 vote. Winter said the personnel ordinance also gives the city manager three months before he must give up the post.

"We've got to do something about this, " Winter said. All the old timers, he said, are going to get together in the next few days and will try to come up with something." He said a recall movement against the three young people may result.

The councilmen and their young constituents blasted Salfen for his handling of the city tree ordinance. The planning commission last week gave Forhim Corp. permission to remove sapling cottonwood trees, but the city later received complaints that mature trees had also been destroyed.

Mayor Geoffrey Dunham said that when complaints were called in to city hall, Salfen had promptly warned representatives of Forhim Corp. to give them time to complete the tree removals before an official appeal could be filed.

Appeals were filed last night by Lee Gray and Robert Davis of the parks and recreation commission. The council asked City Atty. Jay Cantor to determine if Forhim Corp. had indeed violated the ordinance and could be fined.

Gasoline Shortage Is Felt

By MARY LEYDECKER

Marin's independent service stations already are feeling the pinch of a nationwide gasoline shortage as they face the busy summer season with reduced supplies.

So far, however, the major company stations seem unaffected as their parent firms take care of them first.

Peter C. Van Alyea, owner of Marin-based Redwood Oil Co., said he is selling one of his three stations because he cannot get enough gasoline to operate all of them. He has sold his operation in Petaluma, he said today, but will retain stations in Fairfax and San Rafael.

Van Alyea, a true independent in the complicated service station field, buys his gasoline directly from one of the Bay Area's six refineries. His allotment has been cut 30 per cent from last month's supply, he said, although he said he thought some of the cut was due to a temporary problem at that refinery.

In any event, he said, he chose to sell one station in order to keep enough gas to supply the other two.

Young said the dealer's allotment has been cut with the shortage passed on to his customers.

"I've been alloted less gas this month than last," Young said, adding that the real problem is that "I should start doing more business this time of year."

Rather than run out of gasoline mid-month, Young said he will cut operating hours at his station. "You don't want to

NEAT TRICK IS CLUE TO BOILED EGG

Easter egg time is often broken egg time, so C. E. Brannon of Novato has an egg safety tip for housewives, egg painters and dyers.

The way to separate the raw eggs from the boiled eggs is to try to spin them, he said.

"The raw egg won't spin. A boiled egg will spin readily and the harder it is boiled the harder it spins," he said.

Prison Closing May Be Delayed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A toughened outlook by the Adult Authority toward parole and crime in general could result in delay of the planned closing of San Quentin Prison in 1975, a spokesman for the state Department of Corrections said today.

Philip D. Guthrie, department information officer, said the stance has resulted in fewer inmates being paroled and more parolees being sent back to prison.

Under a policy endorsed last year and enunciated last month, the Adult Authority is "looking at each case more conservatively and giving higher priority to public safety," Guthrie said. "They're taking less risks than they were a couple of years ago."

Guthrie said the overall state prison population has risen since last summer by 1,200 to a total population of about 20,500, with another increase of 2,000 expected by July of 1974.

While current plans still call for the closing of San Quentin in fiscal 1974-75, Guthrie said, that may have to be reevaluated in light of the projected prison population increase. Moreover, the department may have to consider reopening closed portions of such facilities as Soledad, Susanville and Vacaville, he said.

At San Quentin, information officer Lee DeBord said today the facility's population has gone up to 2,114 from a low of 1,426 last September. This is due to transfers of "problem" inmates from other facilities and creation last fall of a parole violator unit which now houses up to 200 men.

Guthrie said the get-tough program was the product of a response to a "general public concern about crime," coupled to a smaller extent with a slight increase in "violent crimes committed by parolees."

Male parolees committed 358 violent crimes last year, compared to 236 in 1971, according to department statistics, despite a drop of 1,400 in the number of male felons on parole.

Gov. Ronald Reagan had announced the planned closure of San Quentin last January, at the same time proposing construction of two new maximum security facilities of 400 prisoners each.

Supervisors Begin General Plan Work

By JEFF GREER

Marin County supervisors yesterday tentatively adopted the three goals of the proposed countywide general plan and approved a draft of the required environmental impact report on the plan.

Only about 60 persons attended the public hearing — first of four scheduled by the supervisors. Little opposition to the plan surfaced, surprising some supervisors and onlookers.

"Perhaps they're saving their ammunition" for the later hearings on housing, open space and implementation portions of the countywide plan, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini speculated. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said he was "disappointed" at the small audience and lack of public reaction.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell noted that the plan, more than two years in the making, was approved March 19 by the county planning commission after eight hearings. Scores of hearings previously were held by the City-County Planning Council of Marin and the county planning staff, to hammer out points of the plan.

Yesterday's session was limited to two topics — the general goals, and the environmental impact report.

There was no public reaction to the environment report and it was quickly approved, subject to later revision if the plan itself is changed.

The report, in essence, says that the countywide plan as proposed will harm the environment less than either a composite of all existing master plans in Marin, or the complete absence of any development restrictions — the so-called free market concept.

The plan's three goals, as tentatively adopted, seek to:

"1. Discourage rapid or disruptive population growth but encourage social and economic diversity, across the county and within the communities."

Part of the goal is a proposal to limit population growth to about 300,000 persons in Marin by the year 1990.

"2. Achieve greater economic balance for Marin by increasing the number of jobs for residents, and by adding to the supply of housing for some of the people who now commute into Marin but who would like to live here."

This goal includes concepts of at least maintaining the existing ratio of low and moderate-income housing until 1990, and increasing the number of in-county jobs to perhaps 90,000 by then.

"3. Keep the quality of natural environment high, and achieve high quality in what is built, through a balanced sys-

Traffic Big Renaissance Bother

By FRANK FARRARA

The major adverse environmental impact of the proposed Renaissance Center at a site north of Novato will be the traffic generated by the annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire and other special events.

Renaissance Center Inc. consultants described the traffic impact, up to 5,560 cars a day, as significant in an environmental impact report accepted yesterday by the Marin County Environmental Protection Committee.

The traffic problem, which haunted the center in its unsuccessful attempt to locate in Lucas Valley, is again a major hurdle toward obtaining a use permit.

The California Highway Patrol and the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors have opposed the center's plan to accommodate northbound fair traffic on Highway 101.

With left turns for northbound traffic too hazardous, the Center proposed closing median openings in the area and routing northbound highway 101 traffic to Petaluma and then south on Highway 101 to the fair site.

The State Division of Highways said, by letter, it won't make such median closings "on a unilateral basis." The committee interpreted this as meaning the division won't close the medians if there is opposition.

The California Highway Patrol said routing northbound fair traffic to Petaluma Boulevard South and then back onto southbound Highway 101 would cause backups, slow traffic and generate rear-end accidents.

Consultants Royston, Hanamoto, Beck and Abbey of San Francisco said in their environmental impact report that the Renaissance Center, described as an educational and recreational operation, would have no significant adverse effect on air or water or noise.

Mitchell Admits Discussions Of Bugging, Says He Refused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell acknowledged for the first time today that he sat in on meetings last year where bugging and "more detailed intelligence" against the Democrats were discussed.

Interviewed at the federal courthouse just before he began testifying before a grand jury investigating the Watergate case and other alleged political espionage, Mitchell did not indicate when the meetings took place or who else was there.

Mitchell insisted anew that he had no prior knowledge of the June 17 break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building. Yet he said that he thought a report that he had rejected such plans when they were suggested on three occasions was correct.

Mitchell, long regarded as one of President Nixon's closest confidantes and political strategists, served as attorney general until early in March, 1972, when he resigned to head Nixon's re-election campaign. He quit that post two weeks after the Watergate incident.

Mitchell told a grand jury last year that he had no advance knowledge of the Watergate conspiracy, and has told reporters "at least a hundred times" that he knew nothing about it.

Food Prices In Record Rise Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food prices rose at a record pace for the third straight month in March and the cost of living shot up by 0.9 per cent, the greatest increase in 22 years, the government announced today.

President Nixon's top economist, Herbert Stein, said the report "contains the first encouraging signs on prices we have seen in the past two months."

Stein explained that most of the March increase was due to higher food prices, which should moderate some in April because of the ceiling placed on meat prices March 28.

"The moderate size of the nonfood increase, together with the strong evidence that the rise of food prices is abating, support the promise of more satisfactory prices in the months ahead."

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., predicted that "the worst news is still to come" for consumers and urged Nixon to give "urgent consideration" to an across-the-board freeze of prices, wages, interest rates and profits.

And George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, declared the price rise was "proof positive ... of the complete failure of the economic policies of the Nixon administration."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, charged the huge jump in living costs was due to irresponsibility of the administration and Republicans in Congress.

Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, explained his optimism by noting most of the March increase was attributed to rising food prices. The latter should moderate in April because of the ceiling imposed on meat prices on March 28, he said.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that in the first three months of President Nixon's relaxed Phase III controls, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 8.8 per cent, the largest since early 1951 —the height of the Korean War.

The BLS said prices of food in supermarkets, after seasonal adjustment, went up at a record pace of 3.1 per cent — marking the third consecutive month for a record high. Record increases of 2.4 per cent in February and 2.3 per cent in January also were higher than the previous record of 1.9 per cent in June, 1965.

Meat prices contributed significantly to the higher food costs, rising 5.4 per cent in March before seasonal adjustment and 4.8 per cent after adjustment. Meat prices in March were 19.6 per cent above a year earlier. The figures were tallied before President Nixon clamped a retail price ceiling on meat and consumers carried out a one-week boycott.

Because of a sharp rise in fish and poultry prices, the overall index for meat, poultry and fish set a new record with a

Poison Suspected By Dead Senator

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The personal secretary of former U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long has told authorities the senator thought he was poisoned the night he died, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said today.

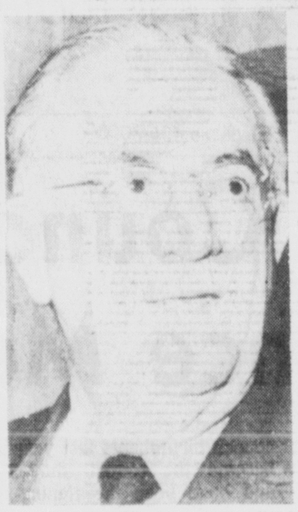
At the time of Long's death, it was assumed he had died of natural causes. He died Nov. 6, 1972, at his estate at Clarksville, Mo., at the age of 64. No autopsy was performed.

"Miss Helen Dunlop, secretary and long-time companion to Long, has told authorities that minutes before his death, Long told her he thought he had received a fatal dose of poison in a box of candy," the newspaper said.

The story said investigators were puzzled why Miss Dunlop waited nearly four months to tell of the suspected poisoning.

The Globe said Miss Dunlop refused to comment Thursday on the case. However, she did say she had volunteered to take a lie detector test relating to the events surrounding Long's death.

J.O. Mudd, Pike County coroner for some 25 years, signed the death certificate stating the cause of death was a stroke or "a cerebral vascular accident." Mudd, who is not a physician, said the death "had all the appearances of a stroke."



SEN. EDWARD LONG
Thought candy poisoned

Mudd said if Miss Dunlop had told him of the senator's suspicions at the time, he would have insisted an autopsy be performed, the newspaper said.

The Globe said Miss Dunlop contacted a law enforcement official and an inquiry into the death began April 10 with the Missouri Highway Patrol assigning a member of its investigative unit to the case.

"The bizarre new twist in the Long case has caused investigators to take another look at the break-in at the Long home two days after his death," the Globe-Democrat said. The break-in was thought to be a burglary, although only a few goblets were missing and a great amount of more valuable property was untouched.

"Authorities now are considering the possibility that the break-in was to recover the box of candy so it could not be submitted to laboratory tests," the story said. "The candy was not found by authorities at Long's estate."

Three Years For Kerner On Bribery

CHICAGO (UPI) — "My real punishment, deserved or not, has already been inflicted," U.S. Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner said Thursday shortly before being sentenced to three years in prison and fined $50,000 for taking bribes.

Kerner, the only sitting federal judge ever criminally convicted, made an impassioned 15-minute statement before U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor pronounced the sentence.

Kerner said the verdict, reached two months ago by a federal jury, "deeply and irreparably tainted the good reputation that I cherished. Years of imprisonment can never compare to the severity of that punishment."

The former Illinois governor was found guilty Feb. 19 of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud and income tax evasion on charges of accepting racetrack stock at bargain prices from Illinois racing heiress Marjorie Lindeimer Everett between 1961 and 1968.

Former Illinois State Revenue Director Theordore J. Isaacs, who was tried and convicted with Kerner, drew the same sentence from Taylor Thursday.

"I am neither apologetic nor defensive of my conduct," the 64-year-old Kerner said. "I was never tainted and my integrity never bought."

The former governor, who said he "most humbly" disagreed with the verdict, has refused so far to resign his $42,500 a year post as an appeals court judge. Unless he resigns, he can be removed only by U.S. Senate impeachment proceedings.

Prosecutor James O. Thompson did not recommend a specific jail term for Kerner or Isaacs, but made it clear he felt incarceration was necessary to provide a deterrent against public officials becoming involved in illegal activities.

Before sentencing, Taylor turned down a defense motion for a new trial, but threw out five of the 19 counts on which Kerner and Isaacs had been convicted in the jury trial. The judge said there was insufficient evidence that one of four bribery counts and four of eight mail fraud counts were part of the overall scheme.

A Cambodian Port City Falls To Reds

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Americans warplanes struck suspected Communist positions within five miles of Phnom Penh late yesterday and the government announced the fall of the port city of Kep, 110 miles south of the capital.

Field reports also said Communists, after more heavy fighting, closed Highway 4 and thus severed Phnom Penh's main link with the sea again.

The reports said the fighting flared around Sre Ambel, 58 miles south of Phnom Penh, and forced a supply convoy going to the capital from the port of Kompong Som to turn back.

Highway 4 was closed for nearly three weeks by fighting but was reopened one week ago by Cambodian forces aided by heavy American air strikes. There were no immediate details or casualty reports on the action around Sre Ambel.

The latest American bombing raids, some of the closest so far to Pnom Penh, came on the 44th consecutive day of U.S. air raids. In other raids, sources said, B52 bombers carried out strikes Thursday near Damank Ampil, 15 miles south of the Cambodian capital, where government units were engaged in heavy fighting.

The action came on the 80th day of a Communist offensive in the only Indochina country without a formal cease-fire.

Fighting In Delta Area Said Heavy

SAIGON (UPI) — Heavy fighting flared in the Mekong Delta near the Cambodian border today with Saigon reporting 35 battlefield deaths in clashes less than 100 miles from the capital.

In other developments, Peking broadcast a denunciation of the suspension of U.S. minesweeping operations in North Vietnamese port waters and Hanoi accused the United States of conducting two reconnaissance flights Thursday over the Hanoi and Haiphong port areas.

The Saigon command said a total of 30 Communists and five government troops were killed and 59 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded in two battles yesterday and today between Hong Ngu, a river town 85 miles west of Saigon, and the Cambodian border.

Peking's New China News Agency (NCNA), monitored in Hong Kong, broadcast a statement issued Thursday by North Vietnam's foreign ministry condemning the U.S. mineclearing suspension as a "blatant violation" of the Jan. 28 Vietnam cease-fire.

Although NCNA carried the North Vietnamese statement, it issued no official Chinese reaction to the U.S. move.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA), in a broadcast monitored in Saigon, said a North Vietnamese foreign ministry spokesman made the U.S. reconnaissance flight charge today and labeled it a "gross violation" of the Vietnam peace agreement.

Crusade Claims No Candidate Backing

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — At times, the Christian Crusade of evangelist Billy James Hargis has expressed preference for a political candidate, his attorneys said. But the Crusade, they said, never has endorsed one.

The statement came Thursday in a petition filed with the Supreme Court asking it to review an appeals court decision that lifted the group's tax-exempt status. That decision, the petition said, "casts a great fear upon every church whose pastor conceives his sacred mission to encompass teaching the relevance and validity of the truths of the gospel in relation to contemporary society."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Holy Week Rites

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Thousands of tourists and religious pilgrims flocked into Rome today to see Pope Paul VI lead a torchlit Good Friday procession from the Colosseum to the Palatine Hill as part of Holy Week celebrations.

The Easter festivities began yesterday when the 75-year-old Pontiff celebrated a "Last Supper" mass at St. John's Basilica and washed the feet of 12 young seminarians to symbolize Christ's gesture to the apostles.

Tomorrow an Easter Eve Mass celebrated by the Pope in St. Peter's Basilica will end the 40-day mourning period of Lent and proclaims Christ's resurrection from the dead.

Siege Lifted

BEIRUT (UPI) — Syrian army tanks and military units have lifted a three-day siege of the central Syrian town of Homs where gun battles erupted over the weekend between Moslem demonstrators and police, travelers reaching Beirut said today.

At least 15 persons were killed and more than 200 others wounded in rioting Sunday and Monday when security forces prevented citizens from participating in celebration marches marking the prophet Mohammed's birthday, the travelers said.

Visitor Impressed

PEKING (UPI) — President Louis Echeverria of Mexico visited a Chinese communal farm today and said he was impressed by its cleanliness, the care its children receive and its self-sufficiency.

Echeverria was invited to the Red Star Chinese-Korean Friendship Commune outside Peking during the second day of his state visit to China, one of the stops on his worldwide tour to promote closer international ties with his country.

Later, he joined Chinese Premeier Chou En-lai for the second round of talks the two leaders have held since Echeverria's arrival.

Hits Gas Cutbacks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Independent gasoline stations are being cut off from shrinking supplies while the major suppliers protect their own stations, an independent operator complained yesterday.

"The majors are gradually cutting us off from supplies of domestic gasoline. They are doing so in order to take care of their owned and franchised stations. That leaves us largely dependent on foreign oil," said James Robertson, president of Cheshire Oil Co., Keene, N.H., and president of the Independent Oilmen's Association of New England.

Flood Crest Due

MORGAN CITY, La. (UPI) — The greatest threat of massive flooding in Morgan City will come tomorrow with the arrival of a flood crest from upstream. But several residents are not waiting to find out if a protective levee, bolstered yesterday by National Guard troops, will hold.

"A lot of people have already sent their families out," said real estate agent C.J. Cutrone. "I sent mine out yesterday."

Guardsmen, local citizens and Corps of Engineers workers packed mud and plywood on the dikes yesterday increasing their height by four feet. Officials said they should hold the swell of overflow water expected.

Riot In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — Paratroopers battled women early today in a Roman Catholic area of Belfast after a 13-year-old boy was slain in crossfire between troops and gunmen.

Women surrounded the paratroops after word of the death of Anthony McDowell spread through the neighborhood. They pushed, cursed and spat at troops, who struck back with rifle butts.

Militant Killed

BILBAO, Spain (UPI) — Official sources said today policemen trapped, then shot and killed a onetime Benedictine monk who became the leader of the most militant Basque underground movement for independence.

They said Eustaquio Mendizabal, 28, chief of the military wing of the "Basque Homeland and Liberty" (ETA) movement, died yesterday when he tried to shoot his way out of the police trap.

Highway Funds Held Not For Transit Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless the Senate can work its will in a post-Easter conference, the sanctity of the 17-year-old highway trust fund has been preserved for another two years.

Proponents of using some of the closely guarded highway funds for mass transit projects in auto-choked cities came closer than ever before in a showdown vote on the issue in the House Thursday. But the House rejected 215-190 an amendment that would have allowed cities to use $700 million of the fund for mass transit projects.

To be ironed out are the wide differences in a Senate bill allowing cities to finance mass transit projects from their $850 million share of the $8 billion-a-year trust fund and the $7 billion-a-year House bill which sets aside $700 million for cities to use exclusively for highways.

The 190 votes for the mass transit amendment by Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., were 22 more than mass transit proponents mustered last fall when a similar House proposal was defeated.

Since Congress failed to agree on a highway bill before adjourning last fall, the bills passed this spring authorize funds for the current fiscal year, 1974 and 1975 with another bill to be worked out in 1975.

In other action on the bill Thursday, the House:

—Defeated an amendment to allow funds set aside for cities of 400,000 or more population to be distributed directly to the cities without passing through state agencies.

—Approved an amendment knocking out a section setting aside the funds for those 32 cities.

—Defeated an amendment requiring separate congressional appropriations for the mass transit funds in the bill instead of leaving it to the discretion of the Transportation secretary.

—Defeated an amendment to delete from the bill a section providing for 10,000 miles of "priority primary routes" which has been branded a "junior interstate system."

—Defeated by a 74-30 standing vote an amendment to delete from the bill a moratorium on the enforced removal of directional billboards from beside federal highways.

—Defeated an effort to allow the $3 billion funding for the Urban Mass Transportation Act to be used to subsidize mass transit operations.

Halt In Sale Of Options Ordered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Corporations Department Thursday ordered Universal Commodity Option Corp. to halt the sale of options at its San Francisco and Sacramento offices.

Corporations Commissioner Brian R. Van Camp said he issued the special desist and refrain order after investigators allegedly found Universal salesmen offering the options in violation of a previous commission order.

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was born April 20, 1894.

On this day in history:

In 1903, American industrialist Andrew Carnegie gave $1.5 million for construction of The Hague Peace Palace in the Netherlands.

In 1926, a picturegram of a bank check transmitted from London to New York by RCA was honored and cashed.

In 1968, a South African Airways jetliner crashed in South West Africa, killing 122.

In 1972, Apollo 16 astronauts John Young and Charles Duke landed on the moon for the third U.S. exploration of the lunar surface.

A thought for the day: American novelist Thomas Wolfe said, "There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

San Rafael Air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Marin City Easter Party Is Tomorrow

A children's Easter party, complete with an egg hunt, games and refreshments will be held beginning at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

The event, open to all children, is co-sponsored by the Marin City Community Services District and Marin City Boys Club. Boys Club director Manford Chandler will have charge of the festivities.

those convicted in the case; and Jeb Stuart Magruder, Mitchell's deputy in the Nixon campaign organization, are reported to have told investigators that Mitchell not only knew about the Watergate plans but also approved them.

Asked by CBS whether he could confirm or deny a report today in The New York Times that he had participated in meetings at which bugging was discussed, Mitchell replied:

"I haven't read The Times article carefully, but what I did read is correct. But I want to add the plans were not just to bug somebody. They were for more detailed intelligence. We were not there just to talk just about bugging."

Asked then about his repeated denials over the past 10 months that he had any knowledge of the Watergate affair, Mitchell said his earlier statements "are still operative."

"Does that mean you did not have prior knowledge of the Watergate bugging operation?" Mitchell was asked.

He nodded yes.

In addition to Mitchell, White House counsel John W. Dean III was expected to testify today before the grand jury.

In another interview on his way to the courthouse, Mitchell told ABC that the Committee for the Re-Election of the President already had "an intelligence gathering operation" when he joined it as campaign manager and that it continued "with my approval."

Mitchell said the operation was designed to learn "every bit of information that it could about the opposing candidates," but that "it wasn't necessarily surveillance" and did not include wiretapping.

"It was a gathering of information from informants and investigators," he said. "Wiretapping is illegal, as you know, and we certainly were not authorizing any illegal activities."

Asked if he shared his wife's fears that the administration was trying to make him "a scapegoat" in the affair, Mitchell replied: "We'll have to wait and find out, won't we."

The New York Times reported today that Mitchell, who quit as Nixon's campaign manager two weeks after the June 17 spy raid at the Democratic headquarters, has told friends he rejected on three occasions proposals to bug Democrats during the campaign.

This was a big departure from Mitchell's previous statements that he had no knowledge at all of the Watergate bugging.

The reports fueled speculations that Mitchell and other high-level officials in the Nixon campaign soon would be indicted.

Three reporters who sneaked into the prosecutor's suite found Mitchell affable and smiling. Asked if he would stand by statements of his wife, Martha, protesting his innocence, Mitchell replied: "Yes, I have to — I'm married to her. You know I still have to live with her."

Mitchell testified before the grand jury last summer during its initial Watergate investigation that resulted in the indictments of five men arrested at the Watergate and two former campaign aides. All have been convicted or pleaded guilty.

6.9 per cent increase in March, the highest since June, 1965. Fruit and vegetable prices went up 2.6 per cent, the highest since last June.

The overall 0.9 per cent increase in consumer prices in March, the highest since a 1.2 per cent rise in February, 1951, pushed the consumer price index to 129.8. This was 4.7 per cent above a year ago —nearly twice the administration's 2.5 per cent price guideline. This meant that goods and services which cost $10 in the 1967 base period cost $12.98 in March — nearly a 30 per cent increase in six years.

The inflation in prices in March more than offset the rise in average weekly earnings of rank and file workers, reducing the purchasing power of their earnings by 0.3 per cent.

The cost of living figures were released a day after the Commerce Department reported that preliminary figures showed prices rising at a 6 per cent annual rate during the first three months of the year, accounting for a major portion of the 14.3 per cent total economic growth recorded over the same period.

The administration's top economist, Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, indicated that if the growth rate doesn't start cooling off soon, the economy could be headed for a tailspin.

The January-March inflation rate was twice the administration's own 3 per cent forecast for price increases in 1973.

Coupled with the new price report, the figures could provoke fresh calls for tighter economic controls from opponents of President Nixon's economic game plan.

Quarantine On Mussels Will Start May 1

California's annual quarantine on mussels will begin May 1 and continue through Oct. 31, Marin County Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht announced today.

During the warm months, all California mussels may be poisonous to humans and pets, because the shellfish feed on tiny marine plants that are poisonous. Cooking cannot destroy the toxin, Dr. Albrecht warned. The mussels may be used only for fishbait during the quarantine.

Dr. Albrecht also cautioned shellfish lovers to discard all dark meat from clams during the summer, and thoroughly to clean and cook the remaining meat before eating it, because the dark parts of clams may concentrate the same toxin as the mussels.

Yo-Yo Contest Set Tomorrow In San Rafael

Youngsters 16 years old and younger may demonstrate their skills with yo-yos in two contests being sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department tomorrow, both starting at 1 p.m.

Boys and girls will be asked to perform 10 basic yo-yo tricks, including "the spinner," "rocking the baby" and "man on the flying trapeze."

Winners will receive trophies and prizes, according to Andrew J. Snyder, director of parks and recreation, and may compete in a Northern California competition next month. The winner of that contest will receive a $500 college shcolarship.

Injured Youth Is Satisfactory

A Mill Valley youth was reported in satisfactory condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with injuries suffered Wednesday in an auto accident on Mount Tamalpais.

The California Highway Patrol said Knapp was hurt in a two-car accident at 6 p.m. Wednesday on Bolinas Ridge Park Road one-half mile north of Ridgecrest Boulevard.

Knapp was southbound, officers said, when his car and another driven by Nancy J. Denmark, 26, of Box 498, Bolinas, collided head-on. Officers said her car was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the mishap.

Rabbi Hoffman To Give Talk Tonight

Rabbi Morton Hoffman, formerly of Marin County, will talk about his experiences as a teacher at the Leo Baeck School in Jerusalem at 8:15 p.m. today at Rodef Sholom Temple in San Rafael.

A resident of Marin for 13 years, Hoffman has been a teacher in Jerusalem since 1970.

Financial Windfall Decreases

The financial windfall of $540,000 expected from senate bill 90 has become a mere breeze of $200,000, the Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, heard last night.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan told the board the district will not be in as good a financial condition as first expected. He said that while the district will receive increased state support over last year, the local tax rate might be reduced from the current $3.33 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.87.

He said the reduction in local tax revenue may leave the district in a difficult financial position. "The whole picture of state support is very confusing," Magowan said. He told the board he would prepare an updated financial report when more information is available from the state.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

TRIP — Approved plans by sixth grade students at La Tercera School to go to Disneyland May 3-5. Students raised funds to finance the trip.

TEACHERS — Accepted the resignation of Neill Whitman, who will leave the teaching profession, and granted a one year leave of absence to Kathleen Carriger so she may adopt a baby.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to hear opinions from teachers on the level of services for students and recommendations for improvements next year.

FAIR

chaeological sites on the property and the center has agreed that no earthwork will be done until completion of a full archaeological survey is completed, the firm reported.

San Antonio Creek is subject to periodic flooding, so permanent buildings would be placed outside the flood plain and only activity such as bicycle and pedestrian paths would be near the creek, the firm said.

During fair activity, dust may be created at the parking area, a large open meadow near Highway 101, but it will be sprinkled and reseeded after each fair.

The firm also reported that all sewage waste will be self-contained in ponds and no chemical wastes or other discharges added to creek waters.

"Conservationists do not feel the proposed project will be a major threat to current wildlife," the firm reported.

The firm also reported that:

"The center's permanent parking area and substantially all improvements will not be visible from Highway 101... Only during fair activities will temporary parking be permitted in the front meadow.

"The year-round permanent population of the Renaissance Center will be no more than 250-300 people... It is expected that up to 15,000 people will attend the fair on each of its weekends.

"The bulk of the lands owned by the center will continue to be devoted to agricultural and-or open space purposes throughout most of the year."

tem of transportation, open space and land use."

The goal proposes preserving some 41 per cent of the land in the urbanized eastern corridor as open space.

Spokesmen for the Tomales Bay Association, Marin Conservation League and Environmental Action Committee for West Marin urged adoption of the countywide plan, as did University of California law professor Caleb Foote, an Inverness Ridge resident.

He compared the fringes of Point Reyes National Seashore to the neighborhood of the Acadia National Park in Maine, which he said had been left unplanned to degenerate into a "terrible, ugly blight of development... motels and hamburger stands" where property owners' taxes have tripled in recent years to provide the necessary public services.

Foote said he feared the supervisors' decision to limit interim zoning of West Marin to only six months would leave the area wide open to spoiling.

"We require environmental impact reports now" before development can occur, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney replied. "You also have Proposition 20 (the coastal conservation commission)" board chairman Arnold M. Baptiste added. "You also have A-60" zoning, Arrigoni chimed in, and Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere topped the responses with, "you have no water, sewers or roads" to facilitate development. "What more do you want?" for protection, until the countywide plan is adopted, Roumiguiere asked.

Pamela Loyd of Mill Valley said that Marin cities and the county "must give up a small part of their individual rights" to make the countywide plan work.

Roy R. Rhodes of San Rafael opposed the annual cost of implementing the plan, estimated at $335 per capita in the plan itself.

"That's too damned expensive for me. Do we get a vote on this?" he demanded.

His criticism was joined by Harold K. Thompson of San Anselmo who said he had previously spoken against the plan's cost and reiterated "we can't afford it."

Baptiste, acting somewhat as apologist for the plan during the hearing, stressed that "we have an economic study" in progress on the plan. He said it will be discussed during the board's final hearing on the plan, now set for May 26.

Supervisor Michael Wornum asked the critics to specify whether they object to transportation, open space or housing segments of the plan.

"If you say the plan is too costly, period, it doesn't give us much guidance," he explained. He got no reply.

Wornum said he would vote for the goals, but questioned whether the search for more Marin jobs really is necessary. "It seems to me we've done rather well as commuters," he added.

Roumiguiere said, "There are few who quarrel with the goals — what they really say, is 'we want to keep Marin a lovely place for a wide variety of goals'. I think there's a lot of disagreement whether "we need the (countywide plan) to accomplish these goals."

Next hearing on the countywide plan, at 8 a.m. next Thursday, will deal with the environmental quality portions of the plan, according to Von Gundell.

A hearing at 7 p.m. May 10 will cover the commercial development and transportation phases of the plan and the final session at 9 a.m. May 26 will deal with the economic feasibility and means of implementing the 17-year plan.

OBITUARIES

INA S. HOLTZ

Ina S. Holtz of Corte Madera, a resident of Marin County for 27 years, died yesterday in a local hospital from complications suffered after choking on a piece of meat.

According to the Marin County Coroner's office, Mrs. Holtz, 56, was dining at a local restaurant Sunday when the piece of meat lodged in her throat. She went into a coma from which she never recovered.

Mrs. Holtz, a native of San Francisco, lived at 121 Redwood Avenue with her husband, Clarence R. Holtz, an employee of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

She was a member of the Redwood Presbyterian Church in Larkspur.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Diane Grijalva of San Jose and Linda Holtz of Corte Madera and one grandchild.

have to close down altogether at some point," he said.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Standard Oil Co. of California in San Francisco said, "so far, we are filling all orders" for Standard and Chevron stations. "That's not to say we won't have to go to quotas later," he added, noting that "we all know there's a gasoline shortage."

Standard discontinued supplying independents about a year ago, the spokesman said, and "we're not soliciting any new business," he added.

"We just have to call up and tell them how much (gasoline) we want," manager of an ARCO station in San Rafael said today.

An employee at a local Richfield station said there are no quotas for his supply of gasoline either.

This move leaves independents dependent on foreign oil, according to James Robertson, president of Cheshire Oil Co. of New Hampshire and president of the Independent Oilmen's Association of New England.

The problem, according to Robertson, is that major stations still must set retail prices at less than independents can buy gasoline wholesale from foreign markets.

Two senators, Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., have introduced bills which would require oil companies to allocate gasoline to independent customers on the same basis as their own stations.

"I just don't believe that all the oil companies in the country can come up with a shortage at the same time — there's something fishy," a local independent dealer said today.

Accident Victim Off Critical List

Diane Lee Schulz, 17-year-old Novato girl injured in an auto accident April 7 near Stafford Dam, has been removed from the critical list at Marin General Hospital, a spokesman said today.

Miss Schulz, who suffered head injuries and cuts, was described in "serious" condition today.

She was a passenger in a car driven by another 17-year-old Novato resident, Linda L. Paladini, who died in the crash.

The California Highway Patrol said their car rolled over at least twice after Miss Paladini attempted to pass a car on a curve on Novato Boulevard.

JOHN SEVERSON

Private funeral for John E. Severson, father of Dorothy Potter of San Anselmo, will be held Saturday in a local mortuary.

Severson died Wednesday in a local convalescent hospital after a series of illnesses. He was 81.

A native of Sweden, he came to the United States as a boy with his parents, settling in Evanston, Ill., where he spent most of his life. He was a janitor for the school district there, retiring in 1957. He moved to Marin County five months ago.

Severson was a member of the American Legion in Evanston.

Surviving are his wife, Anna M. Severson; another daughter, Mrs. Marion E. Mattern of Tustin, Orange County, a brother, Samuel Shuneson of Oak Park, Ill.; a sister, Alma Wedikind of Nielsville, Wis., and five grandchildren.

WILLIAM HEWIT

Funeral for William Andrew Hewit III, former Post Office employee in San Rafael, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Hewit died yesterday in a Petaluma hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 51.

Before his retirement 10 years ago, he worked about 16 years as a letter carrier in Marin. He was born in San Francisco, and was a veteran of Navy service in World War II.

His home was at 25 Alta Drive, Petaluma.

He is survived by a daughter, Kathleen Hewit and three sons, William A. IV, Steven and Kirt Hewit, all of Santa Rosa; two sisters, Barbara Cory and Vivian McCoy of Santa Rosa; a brother, Robert L. Hewit of Rohnert Park, and three grandchildren.

Private inurnment will follow the funeral.

MERLE HAYNES

A native of California, he was the west coast representative for an eastern firm specializing in the sale of parts for refrigeration machinery.

He was a graduate of the University of Oregon, where he received a degree in engineering.

SKYSCRAPERS ABOVE A WINDSWEPT BAY

Only one sailboat braves the whitecaps on San Francisco Bay; scores of others huddle behind the breakwater of the marina adjoining Fort Mason in San Francisco. Highrise buildings on Russian Hill loom knife-sharp in the sunny and clear but chilly air, as seen yesterday from Point Cavallo at Fort Baker near the Marin County end of the Golden Gate Bridge. Federal forecasters said the windy but fair weather will continue through tomorrow, with highs in the low 70s and lows in the 50s.

Nine Names Under Study For Nixon's Plan Post

Marin County Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere today announced the names of nine citizens under consideration for appointment to the county planning commission seat vacated by the resignation of San Rafael Councilman-elect Jack G. Nixon.

Roumiguiere will fill the vacancy since each supervisor appoints one planning commissioner and Nixon represented Roumiguiere's District 1, an area stretching from Marinwood to Peacock Gap and portions of San Rafael.

Under consideration for appointment to the seat, Roumiguiere said, are:

Calvin B. Colt, a member of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary board; Donald A. Duerr, a member of the Marinwood Community Services District board; Richard L. Less, a member of the former Terra Linda Community Services District board; Joseph J. Garbarino, a San Rafael planning commissioner; Jerry Russom, former president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association and architect of Lawrence E. Mulryan's successful San Rafael City Council election campaign.

Marie Sessi, amember of the Las Gallinas Valley Task Force and an unsuccessful candidate for election to the San Rafael Board of Education; Robert C. Jones, chairman of the Las Gallinas Valley Task Force; Larry Hoyt, former president of the San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association, and Alex McMillan, a member of the Marin County Grand Jury.

Roumiguiere said the list of possible appointees is open-ended and tentative, and declared he will announce his selection within a week.

Nixon's term on the county planning commission, to which he was appointed in 1969, expired yesterday. He announced his resignation from the group Tuesday in the wake of his election to the San Rafael City Council.

$39,000 Robbery Of Armored Car

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — Two men held up an armored car driver at a mental hospital Thursday and escaped with more than $39,000 in currency and coins.

Police said Edwin Girroir, 42, of Haverhill, was confronted by the bandits in a corridor of the Danvers State Hospital's administration building, where he was delivering two sacks of money for an employe check-cashing service.

Coastal Control Group Adopts Criteria For Judging Permits

The North Central Regional Coastal Conservation Commission last night adopted a set of criteria to evaluate applications for development permits.

The commission, which has jurisdiction over a 1,000-yard-wide stretch of ocean coast along Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco, had been shelving applications pending adoption of the criteria.

Their adoption will mean voting on a backlog of some 35 permits at the commission's next meeting on May 3 in Santa Rosa.

The commission's executive director, Michael L. Fischer, took the criteria from Proposition 20, which created the commission last November. They will judge applications on the bases of whether they have any substantial ecological effect, constitute an irreversible use of the coast, are in a hazardous area, open the door to future additional development, and restrict public enjoyment of the coast.

Also on the next agenda will be a hearing on whether to exempt Bodega Harbor from commission rules. Developers of the 1,600-home project claim they did enough work before passage of Proposition 20 that they should be exempt.

The Santa Rosa meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the county supervisors chambers. A tour of the Bodega Harbor development will be held first at 4 p.m., after which the commission will have dinner in Santa Rosa.

In other business, Fischer reported he has hired three planners. David Dubbink, a doctoral candidate in environmental planning at the University of California at Los Angeles was hired as senior planner at $17,300 a year.

Gary Holloway, senior planner for the City of Novato, was hired as associate planner at $14,916, and Robert Brown, assistant planner for San Luis Obispo County, was hired as assistant planner for $11,160.

Off-Duty Arrests Ordered Halted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Policemen who are off duty were told Thursday not to arrest traffic violators or persons involved in misdemeanors.

The order by Safety Director Bernard Chupka followed a furor over the accidental shooting death of a 19-year-old motorist who was being frisked by an off-duty officer last month.

Chupka said the order will "clear up much of the confusion that now exists on the part of the policemen and the community."

Petaluma Trio Hurt In Accident

Three Petaluma youths were injured yesterday, none seriously, when their auto, westbound on Petaluma-Point Reyes Road one-half mile west of the Marin-Sonoma Line, skidded out of control.

The California Highway Patrol said the car was operated by Roberta G. Brothers, 19, of 424 Union Street, Apt. A, who suffered head cuts in the 2 p.m. accident. She was treated at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma.

Officers said the car began skidding on a curve near the Volp Ranch, slid along the road for 150 feet, sheared off a mailbox on the left shoulder, then slid back onto the highway for another 90 feet.

Debra Lanning, 17, of 305 Garfield Drive, was treated for a broken right arm and head cut at Hillcrest, then transferred to Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco where she was reported in satisfactory condition today.

A second passenger, Thomas Brott, 20, of 2572 Bodega Avenue, was treated for head cuts, and John Lear, 22, of the same address, was reported injured, but was not treated at Hillcrest.

Students Jailed By Russ Police

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet police arrested "six or seven" American student tourists demonstrating outside the Soviet visa office today protesting Soviet emigration policies for Jews, American embassy officials said.

The embassy said Soviet police confirmed that the Americans had been arrested.

Embassy officials had no further information immediately but said they assumed the students had entered the country as tourists. There are 38 Americans studying at various Soviet universities, mostly Moscow State University. They are all graduate students and scholars, and embassy officials considered it unlikely that they would become involved in a demonstration.

Foreigners and Russians who were present said the youths chanted "Liberty, Liberty" and sang Jewish songs in Hebrew before police arrived. They said the youths made no attempt to resist and were carried away in squad cars.

Shortly before the incident, a young man speaking with an American accent telephoned United Press International and said he was one of a group of 10 American students who planned to occupy the visa office, OVIRM. He said they wanted to protest Soviet emigration policy toward Jews.

"We are going to stay there until they throw us out," he said. "They will have to forcibly remove us."

He declined to give his name or say where he was from.

But witnesses said a group of American youths, variously reported to number seven and 10, entered the building, stayed inside about three minutes and then came out.

They sat in front of the door on the street about 15 minutes, singing Hebrew songs and chanting "Liberty! Liberty!" the witnesses said.

They said police then arrived and took them away.

A busload of Moscow militiamen (city police) sat across the street from the visa office after the incident.

The demonstration came only a few days after U.S. officials said the Soviet Union has informed them that it has suspended a controversial, so-called education tax on emigrants.

The tax affected mainly Jewish emigrants. Jewish sources in Moscow generally have taken the position that suspension of the tax does not solve the problem completely.

Shoreline Board Sets A Bond Vote

Asst. Supt. Kenneth L. Barnes said the new classrooms would house pupils now in portable classrooms at the old Tomales High School site, and place all pupils on the school site east of Shoreline Highway.

Voters last year twice defeated $1.2 million bond proposals to provide not only new classrooms at Tomales Elementary but also improvements at Bodega Bay School and a $300,000 building fund.

Barnes said the board probably will set a special meeting on details of a bond proposal.

Trustees last night also hired Charles Billings, a school psychologist with the Marin County Schools Office, as director of pupil personnel services at $14,815 a year, working a four-and-a-half day week.

Prison Duo Pleads To Knife Count

Two San Quentin inmates pleaded innocent today in Marin Superior court to felony counts of possessing prison-made knives.

Judge David Menary Jr. set a jury trial for the week of June 4. Estimated length of the trial is three days.

The two inmates, chained hand and foot and around the necks for the court appearance, were arrested Jan. 13 in the prison's lower yard after up to four inmates attacked convict Daniel Harris, stabbing him in the left arm and back. Harris recovered.

Goins is serving six months to life for robberies in San Francisco and San Mateo last year. Cavanaugh has been in prison since 1970 on a sentence of six months to 15 years for grand theft and burglary in Los Angeles.

The two were indicted with three other inmates March 21. The five indictments by the Marin County Grand Jury were the first in approximately 15 months.

Wallace Becomes Grandfather Again

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace became a grandfather for the second time Thursday when his oldest daughter, Bobbi Jo, gave birth to a boy. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 4 ounces and was named Jason Thomas Parsons.

"I am very elated and I am especially happy to hear both mother and baby are doing fine," said Wallace from his office in Montgomery.

Tight New Rules Told On Welfare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has proposed sweeping changes in welfare regulations designed to halt payments to ineligible persons, overpayments and other inefficiencies.

After they were announced Thursday the proposed rules were immediately criticized by a spokesman for the National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO), who said they would create hardship for the poor.

Robert D. Carleson, special assistant to the secretary of health, education and welfare for welfare matters, announced the proposed changes.

"These regulations were requested by the states and are designed to give the states additional tools to eliminate errors in the welfare system and in effect clean it up," he said.

Carleson said the proposals include provisions to:

—Give states 45 days instead of the current 30 to make decisions on applications. Catherine Jermany of the Welfare Rights Organization's legal committee, said this would "cause extreme hardships" for the poor. She said landlords, utilities and other would be less likely to provide service to a person who would not know for 45 days whether he would receive welfare money.

—Require welfare applicants to submit written, signed applications for aid.

—Permit states to verify eligibility through employers, neighbors and other third parties without obtaining the recipient's consent. Regulations which now say that an aged, blind or disabled applicant shall be the only source of information about himself would be revoked.

—Set up a system of local hearings to reduce the backlog of pending hearings at the state level. Carleson said this backlog has meant that ineligible recipients continue to receive welfare for long periods until hearing examiners get to their cases.

The public was given 30 days to comment on the proposed rules, after which the government could put them into effect.

Pilgrims Following The Path Of Jesus

JERUSALEM (UPI) — More than 25,000 Christian pilgrims trudged along the Street of Sorrow, carrying wooden crosses along the traditional Good Friday route followed by Jesus from where He was sentenced to death to Mt. Calvary where He was crucified.

The pilgrims walked through the narrow winding alleyways of ancient Jerusalem. On adjacent rooftops, Israeli troops guarded against possible Arab terrorist attacks.

The Christians, many of whom traveled here from abroad, paused at each of 14 Stations of the Cross on Via Dolorosa (Street of Sorrow) and sang hymns.

Police checked the passports of the pilgrims at the Omariya Grade School near St. Stephen's Gate, built over the traditional site of the Roman court where Jesus was condemned to death.

"We're watching for anything and everything, including guerrilla activity," one officer said.

From St. Stephen's Gate, the pilgrims wound their way to Mt. Calvary and the tomb of Jesus, both stations inside the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Christianity's holiest shrine.

The solemn Good Friday ceremony will give way to the joyous Easter Sunday high mass in the church celebrating Jesus' resurrection. The mass will be celebrated by the Latin patriarch to the Holy Land, Msgr. Joseph J. Beltritti.

The Christian pilgrims crossed paths with observant Jews on their way to Judaism's holiest shrine, the Wailing Wall —the sole remnant of the Temple of David. The Jews were en route to Sabbath and Passover services.

The pilgrims filed quietly through the pillared entrance of the church for brief prayers at the Stone of the Unction, where Jesus was anointed before burial, according to tradition.

Death Sentences Passed In Connecticut Senate

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Connecticut Senate today passed a bill which would allow the death penalty for six crimes. One of those would be the case of a nonaddict drug pusher whose client dies from the drug.

The measure now goes to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill for his signature. He has called for a return to capital punishment, and so is expected to sign the bill. If Meskill signs it, the measure would become effective Oct. 1.

Last week, the state House passed the bill on a vote of 89-49.

In the Senate, the vote was 19-17. The deciding vote was cast by Senate Majority Leader Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, who remained silent in his seat while the clerk called his name twice, then voted for the measure after the other 35 senators had cast their ballots.

The law would permit the death penalty for: nonaddicted hard drug pushers whose sales result in death; the slaying of law enforcement officials while on duty; murder for hire or gain; murder by a person serving a life term; murder by a previously convicted murderer; and kidnapping resulting in death.

It provides that, after a person has been convicted of murder, a posttrial hearing must be held by a three-judge panel to determine if the defendant should receive life imprisonment or death.

Density Cut In Hilarita Plan Eyed

The proposed 112-unit moderate-income housing project at Hilarita, under attack in the courts, may be reduced in size in the hope the suit will be withdrawn, it was reported today.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association for Housing, said the final decision is up to the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, a nonprofit group planning the federally financed development.

Under consideration, Mackey said, is trimming one of the nine planned structures housing 10 units from the project, scheduled for construction on the site of the old World War II barracks in Tiburon.

Not only would the reduction save about $200,000, Mackey said, but it is hoped the drop in project density would encourage six neighbors challenging the development to drop their suit.

A decision on the suit is pending in a state appellate court.

Mackey said the building tentatiyely proposed for elimination would be the most expensive in terms of buttress and foundation work.It would be situated at the highest point of the hillside development.

Low bid for the project, from the Williams and Burrows Construction Co., totaled $2.6 million, plus undetermined charges, Mackey said.

Deaths Are Linked To Radiation

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A nuclear physicist has linked an increase in cancer-related deaths in Ohio River cities to radiation from a nuclear power station on the river in Beaver County, Pa.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, director of radiological physics at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, said Thursday cancer deaths increased 24 per cent in Cincinnati from 1958 to 1968—while the national average increase was 8 per cent and the Ohio increase 6 per cent.

"You are drinking effluent from Shipping Port Nuclear Power Station," Sternglass told Cincinnati Mayor Theodore Berry.

He attributed the increase here, a 37 per cent increase in East Liverpool, Ohio, another Ohio River town, and 31 per cent increase in Pittsburgh to air-born gaseous materials and contaminated milk. Sternglass said most cows which furnish milk to Pittsburgh graze in areas near Shipping Port where the reactor is located.

Mayor Berry, noting the jump in fatal cancer cases from 186 deaths per 100,000 people to 229.9, called for an immediate statewide investigation.

Funds Approved For Boyd House

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night approved budget expenditures of $55,316 for renovation and relocation of Boyd House and hiring of a parks ranger.

The proposals are part of a $441,671 budget for 1973-74 which the commission approved last week pending further study of park ranger and Boyd House renovation proposals.

The commission approved a $5,316 expense for hiring a park ranger for a six-month period, according to Andrew J. Snyder, parks and recreation director. The ranger is needed, he said, to patrol parks as well as the city's open space areas which have become campgrounds for hunters, transients and motorcyclists.

Relocation and renovation of the Boyd House may cost as much as $50,000, according to Snyder. Current proposals concern renovating the house and relocating it near the tennis court area of Boyd Park, he said, although the commission last night called for a detailed study before any work begins.

Relocation of the house would allow for realignment of Mission Avenue near the park and provision of off-street parking according to Snyder.

The proposals will now be considered by the city council, he added.

Food Products Recalled Because Of Mushrooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Friday announced that thousands of food products, ranging from frozen pizzas to instant airline dinners, are being recalled as part of the botulism scare in mushrooms.

All of the products involved contain mushrooms made by Fran Mushroom Co., Inc., Ravenna, N.Y., whose entire mushroom production —estimated at 500,000 pounds —is being recalled because of possible botulin contamination. Earlier recalls have included canned mushrooms distributed to military commissaries across the country.

Today's announced recalls include:

—About 72,528 Cap'n John tuna noodle casseroles made by the National Fish Division of Atlantic and Pacific Stores and distributed to AP outlets across the country.

—An estimated 3,300 mushroom, olive and pimiento pizzas made by Macabee Foods Inc., Hackensack, N.J.

—An estimated 1,200 boneless breast of chicken dinners with mushroom gravy sold to United Airlines for first class service. And 300 cases of other chicken dinners, all made by Manischewitz Food Products, Corp., Vineland, N.J.

—About 5,331 frozen pizzas of various types made by Festive Foods, Inc., Mount Vernon, N.Y., and 21,900 packages of bagels made by the same company.

The FDA said it could not estimate how many of the products still remain on store shelves, or how many might have been consumed. In the case of the Manischewitz products, the agency said those labeled "for Passover use" were not involved.

The botulin bacteria can cause serious illness and even death. It usually results from undercooking during the preparation process. The FDA said no illnesses had been reported so far from mushrooms involved in the current recall.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

9:31 a.m., Alto — Fire in trash container at the Cove apartments on Barbary Way. Cause unknown; minor damage to container.

Plan For Open Space Is Backed

San Marin Improvement Association directors have endorsed the Mount Burdell Open Space Committee's plan to preserve open space on the upper slopes of the mountain, according to recording secretary Gloria Burnett.

The plan would prohibit homes above the 600 foot level or in areas that are viewable from the Novato Valley.

Directors voted to back the plan Wednesday night after a presentation by Joyce Aplen of the committee.

John W. Walker of 5 Coronado Court was appointed to the board to succeed John T. Wyant.

Delay Being Asked On Marin City Plan

Directors of the Marin City Community Services District last night agreed to ask county supervisors to postpone approving a revised master plan for the community until the proposal has been presented to the district.

George B. Baxter, district consultant-manager, said the supervisors are scheduled to consider adopting the plan May 8. The county planning department has been reviewing and making changes in the master plan which has been in the works for several years.

He said the district board asked for the continuance because it has not yet had the opportunity to look over the revised proposal.

Marin City CSD Board Also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Otis Gaines, district recreation director. Gaines had been suspended from his duties for 30 days, then reinstated. He submitted his resignation April 5.

LEASE — Signed a lease with the Sausalito School District to rent the Manzanita School for $1 a year. The school district has agreed to make necessary repairs to the building which will be used by community groups.

CONVENTION — Decided to open district facilities to the Northern California First Jurisdiction of the Churches of God and Christ which will hold its annual convention at the Village Baptist Church in Marin City May 24-26.

BUDGET — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Thursday to consider a preliminary budget for 1973-74.

General Plan Panel Will Meet Thursday

San Rafael's Citizen Advisory Committee on the General Plan will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in city hall to air committee reports and discuss the status of the city's new general plan.

Among topics of discussion will be San Rafael's growth, economic balance and housing mix, according to Tina Ferris, committee publicist.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Strawberry's Kublai Khan Offers Some Of Marin's Top Chinese Fare

After Marco Polo returned from the realm of Kublai Khan in the 13th Century, his account of the East became the prevailing authority on the subject in the western world for almost 600 years.

Among other things, what he had to say on eastern foods caused many changes and improvements in European menus. But this influence became obscured as to its origin until the Chinese themselves migrated to the west and brought along their own customs of cooking and eating.

Not until then was it understood that Chinese families did not divide their meals into courses, but served all foods at the same time. For some people it was not entirely satisfactory. While they set to work on one dish, the rest got cold. Eventually they got used to disposing of multiple dishes simultaneously and today there are many fans of Chinese cooking, with its lean meats, combined with crisp vegetables and delicate sauces.

The Chinese, like the French, hold to traditional and ancestral recipes, but have made some compromises to the West and in fact are usually good at western cooking.

One of the Marin County Chinese restaurants that still retains the best of the old and has taken on some of the new is the Kublai Khan at Strawberry Town and Country Village.

I recall that when Stanley Toy first opened here he dug out many authentic recipes of old Peking and to a great extent these still influence cooking at Kublai Khan. I always enjoy his meals. Chinese family dinners are from $3.25 per person, depending upon how much variety or novelty you're after.

STANLEY TOY
Combines East, West

But you can order four complete Chinese dinners to take out for as low as $5.95 for the lot.

Kublai Khan's menu is by no means restricted to Chinese dishes. Indeed one of the biggest culinary attractions is the complete steak dinner (filet mignon or New York) for two at $6.95. In these days of high meat prices this is phenomenal.

MAURICE AMZALLAG of Maurice et Charles' Bistrot in San Rafael must have been quite confused on returning from a trip to Minnesota to find himself billed in last week's restaurant column as "Robert Charles' painter" — a slip of the fingers in the typesetting department in trying to spell out "partner."

Actually Maurice happens to be a talented painter (artist, that is) but I doubt that he has ever undertaken to render a portrait of his associate in business.

Another error omitted reference to the bistrot's new summer schedule, which now calls for it to be open Wednesdays through Sundays, and closed on Mondays and Tuesdays. Many calls for reservations on Sundays, when it was previously closed, caused the change.

AGAIN THIS YEAR, North Bay restaurateurs appear to be expecting a good turnout for Easter, so this Sunday is likely to see some well filled tables. It's not quite as big a day for the restaurants as Mother's Day, but big enough to justify advance reservations.

Many restaurants will be open and this might be a good time to visit one that's new to you or where you haven't been for a long period.

How about the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur which will be serving both brunch and dinner? John Weiland definitely suggests booking space ahead for either period.

RESTAURANT LE CHATEAU at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road in San Rafael will serve a special Easter brunch from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (regular lunch also available) and dinners will be from 3 p.m. Regular dinner menu will be in force.

LE TONNEAU in Corte Madera will start its Easter dinners at 4 p.m. Regular menu will be served, in addition to which you will also find leg of lamb listed.

ALVARADO INN at Ignacio will have a full day on Easter Sunday — from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

OUT AT BLACK POINT INN, young Greg Galway of Novato is the new chef, replacing Wally Price, who moved up to Anchor Bay to be with Eric Benson. Greg has worked with Wally at several restaurants and knows his style of cooking and recipes. For a test, order the bouillabaise. But don't expect to find him there on a Monday, his day off. Tom Daley himself puts on the chef's hat then. He wears it well, too.

Brunch will be served here on Easter from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. — eggs benedict, steak and eggs and other combinations. Dinners will be from 4 p.m., with the regular men served, plus leg of lamb.

DEER PARK VILLA in Fairfax will probably be using all of its recently expanded facilities for brunches from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinners from 3:30 to 9:30 p.m.

IN THE SAME COMMUNITY, Rubini's will be open at 4 p.m. and serve a special Easter menu prepared by Gordon Jones.

The restaurant continues its policy of $1 off on a complete dinner for those seated in the dining room by 6:30 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday evenings.

EL GRECO on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile will serve Easter dinners from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Regular Spanish menu will be in force.

If you are interested in bullfighting, this restaurant will have a colorful collection of collages on the subject — about 45 of them in all — on display for two or three weeks starting Tuesday. There are the works of several outstanding Spanish artists.

DINING

HERE'S ONE TO CONSIDER— the San Geronimo National Golf Club in west Marin. Special Easter brunch (with Ramos fizz or champagne cocktail) will be served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and then dinner up to 10 p.m. There's quite a bit of space out here but I'd still advise reservations.

IF YOU'RE INCLINED to travel additional miles, try some of the Sonoma County restaurants. There are several possibilities in the Valley of the Moon, including London Lodge at Glen Ellen and Golden Bear Lodge, Kenwood. Farther north at Windsor, Kleist's Heidelberg would be a good place.

EASTER SUNDAY will be the last day at 909 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael for Stan and Ursula Valan of the Grotto and their staff.

Starting Monday they will close here to move things to their new place at 3751 Redwood Highway, across from the Marin County Civic Center. It's a beautiful, new building, with large dining room, cocktail lounge and parking lot in the rear. There's good access to and from the highway. There will be much new equipment and novel decor. Stan and Ursula have been picking up a lot of maritime gear these last few months. Their reopening should be on May 10.

Meanwhile for these last few days on Lincoln Avenue, fresh salmon is in and Ursula prepares it beautifully.

OLD VIENNA RESTAURANT, closed since the first of this month at 508 Third Street, San Rafael, will reopen at 909 Lincoln about May 15. Karl and Edith Klauda will set about remodeling it to conform to their own ideas of what a Viennese restaurant should be. Many changes will be made and the menu will be expanded.

A Chinese restaurant is scheduled to go into 508 Third.

LEG OF LAMB is a traditional French item for Easter dinner, so naturally Le Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia will be among those Marin restaurants serving it. Regular menu will also be in force, with dinners from 4 p.m.

Regular Sunday brunch will also be served here on Easter from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Hearing Losses Courses Slated

A six-week hearing improvement course to assist persons over 16 years old with mild or moderate hearing loses will begin April 30 at Marin General Hospital, sponsored by the Marin Hearing and Speech Center and the College of Marin.

Classes will be held Mondays from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m.

People with normal hearing who work with those with hearing handicaps may also attend, according to the sponsors.

Anyone interested in attending may call the Marin Hearing and Speech Center or the College of Marin adult education division.

Closed Session

The Dixie School District board will meet in closed session at 8 p.m. Monday to conduct its annual review of the performance of Supt. Clifford W. Campbell, the superintendent announced yesterday.

Special March Of Dimes Events Set

The second annual March of Dimes walk-a-thon and bike-a-thon will be held May 6 to benefit the North Bay March of Dimes Chapter, serving Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties, announced publicist Nancy King Hayden.

The day-long event, will begin at Fort Baker near Sausalito from 8 to 10 a.m.

Entrants may take a 20-mile walk across Golden Gate Bridge and through Golden Gate Park, or a 40-mile biking circuit to Lake Merced in San Francisco and back to Marin County.

Contributions pledged by sponsors of hikers and bicycle riders will go to March of Dimes research, medical services, professional education and community service programs, Mrs. Hayden said.

75 Streptococcus Cases Reported

Seventy-six cases of streptococcus infection and 28 cases of gonorrhea were among communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

One case each of mumps and infectious hepatitis also were reported.

Thieu Sets Tour Of Six Countries

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu will visit six countries this summer, a government source said Thursday.

The countries are Australia New Zealand, Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia and Singapore. No specific dates have been set.

Marinite Will Design Fair For Third Time

Marin designer Robert J. Mahoney has been named for the third consecutive year as designer for the 1973 Marin County Fair, Marcelle B. McCoy, fair manager, announced yesterday.

The fair is scheduled this year from Aug. 30 through Sept. 3 on the fairgrounds at the Marin Civic Center.

Mahoney, display director for Gump's in San Francisco, lives in Fairfax.

The fare again will include outdoor displays as well as displays in the Exhibition Hall of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, Mrs. McCoy said.

Space Jobs Cut

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Forty-five civil service employes' jobs will be eliminated by June 1, the Space Agency said Thursday.

A 'Postal People' Day Scheduled On April 30

Souvenir envelopes, guided tours and collectors' items will highlight "postal people day" at the San Rafael main Post Office April 30, according to Postmaster Hugh Cassidy.

The open house, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will honor Postal Service employees and introduce a new issue of stamps depicting postal occupations to the public. The issue consists of 10 designs of 8-cent stamps.

Guided tours, starting on the half-hour throughout the five hours, will allow the public to get a first hand look at how their mail is processed.

All customers at any San Rafael branch office, including Greenbrae, Kentfield, Mission, Terra Linda and Civic Center, will be given souvenir envelopes to mark the occasion, Cassidy said.

The "postal people" stamp issue will be on sale on a regular basis, and cacheted envelopes with all 10 of the new series stamps will be hand postmarked locally for "first day" issuance to interested collectors.

Warrant Is Issued In Heroin Case

A Marin Municipal Court judge has issued a bench warrant for a 21-year-old San Franciscan who failed to appear for arraignment on a misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence of heroin after he learned he would not be prosecuted on a felony charge of possessing the narcotic.

Judge Peter Allen Smith issued the warrant for Benjamin Joseph Valenzuela Wednesday, three days after Valenzuela was told in Marin Superior Court that he would not be tried for drug possession.

Valenzuela and James Peter Fry, 22, also of San Francisco, were arrested Dec. 17, by a California Highway patrolman who stopped Valenzuela's car near the Spencer Avenue offramp from Highway 101 on Waldo Grade.

Fry was arraigned Monday.

The Voters Have Spoken (Minority, That Is)

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
10 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

The voters have spoken — about a third of them, that is.

Countywide, only 32.47 per cent of Marin's voters went to the polls Tuesday to decide who should run their schools. The turnout was better — but still not a majority, where additional issues were at stake.

ON THE WHOLE, we find little to complain about in the decisions made for the electorate by this minority, although it did not follow the Independent-Journal's recommendations in a majority of cases. Five of 11 candidates endorsed by the I-J won election; on only seven of 14 ballot measures did the result go as we recommended (two of the seven others being bond issues which mustered substantial majorities but fell short of the necessary two-thirds).

We would be alarmed rather than pleased, however, if all the candidates we endorsed were elected and the voters agreed with us on all the issues. We merely attempt to judge the candidates and evaluate the issues on the basis of the best information obtainable and offer our recommendations as guidance to those who want them.

AS IN LAST year's elections, the environmental issue proved a big vote-getter Tuesday. Candidates who were able to label themselves "environmentalists" were uniformly successful.

In the contest in which this had the greatest effect on the vote it may have also the greatest after-effect. Dr. L. Martin Griffin Jr., whose credentials as environmentalist are beyond question, won a whopping victory in Division 4 of Marin Municipal Water District. His vote on the district board can be expected to mean a "no growth" policy will be pursued by the water district which serves most of Marin's population.

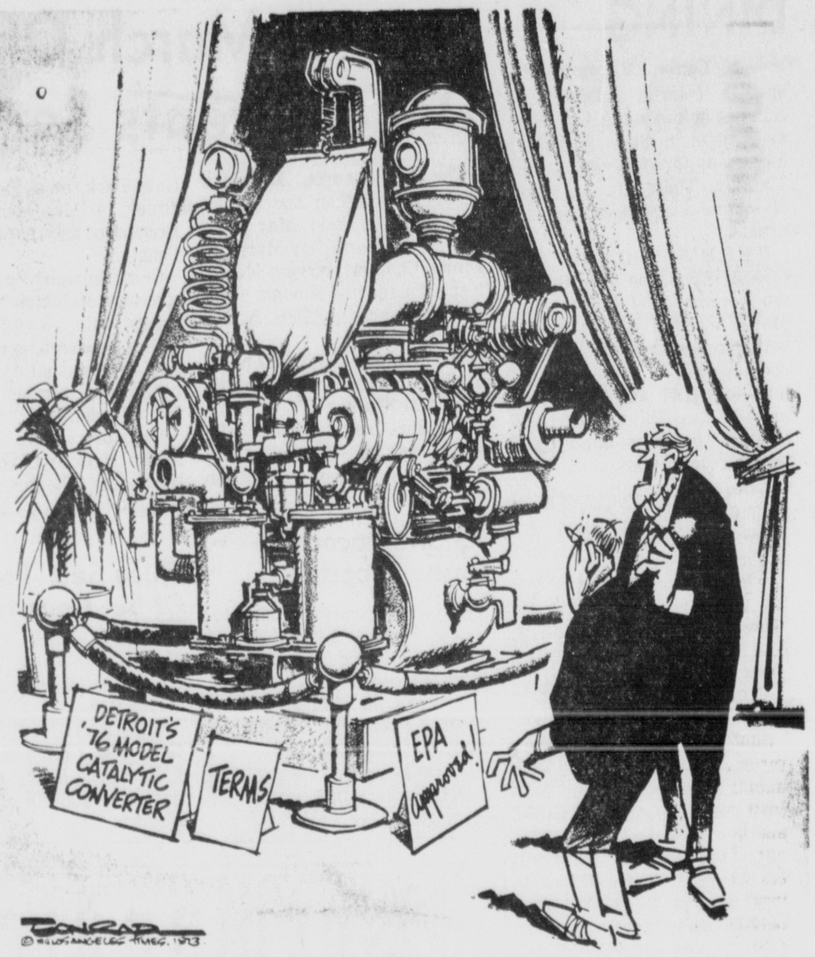
We have some misgivings over the election of Jack G. Nixon to the San Rafael City Council, since his interest in city affairs seems to have sprung up rather suddenly following the death of Councilman Harry A. Barbier. We hope our misgivings prove unfounded.

WE ARE SORRY that San Rafael voters (those of them who bothered to vote) defeated the proposed charter change which would have allowed the city to spend up to $15,000 of hotel-motel room tax receipts on promotion and advertising. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce had counted heavily on receiving additional city support from this source for its worthwhile activities. However, the chamber itself must bear a part of the responsibility for the measure's defeat: it failed to mount any campaign in its behalf.

We are a bit sorry, also, that San Anselmo's proposed half-million dollar open-space bond issue fell just short of the necessary two-thirds approval. In this case, concern for the environment did not triumph.

We expect that failure of the Novato flood control bond issue will mean that the district will turn to a less expensive — though also less adequate — control project.

Passions mount high during election campaigns. But when the voting is over, all of us generally find that those elected prove good choices — even if only a minority of the voters participated in choosing them.



"The car, of course, is extra."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

Sleepy Hollow School Visit Impressive

Open house at Sleepy Hollow Primary School was a revelation to me. Each classroom had exhibits by the pupils that were outstanding and I could see the teachers probably spent some of their own money for material.

I peeked into the principal's office and on the wall were class pictures of every child in the school.

The one classroom that impressed me was a class for pupils overgraded for kindergarten and not just ready for first grade. The library also was a revelation, the librarian reading to children each day and a real good selection of books.

Incontrovertible Facts About Death Penalty

Among issues raised in the "Letters' columns, two that are always guaranteed to generate passions are fluoridation (I'm agin' it) and legalized abortion (I'm for it). Running a close third is capital punishment, a subject perennially providing a field day for all sorts of social theories and purported statistics garnered from a whole spectrum of unlikely quarters, not excluding the self-serving pronunciamentos of convicted murderers and cutthroats.

For the consideration of any whose minds have not totally snapped shut on the subject, two often-overlooked but unchallengeable facts are proffered:

1. The record is replete with instances in which killers whose death sentences were commuted (or who were sentenced to "life") have been duly set free, only to exterminate additional innocent citizens. (The late, unlamented, Louise Peete comes to mind, for one.)

2. There has never been a case in which an executed felon has returned from the grave to kill again. . .

Forty-Plus Succeeding In Job-Finding Role

You have been of considerable help in the past in spreading word of the work of Forty Plus of Northern California through newspaper coverage, and the net result of this program has been rather dramatic. During the past three years this organization has placed 236 executives in positions in Bay Area corporations — 92 within the past twelve months.

Forty Plus membership consists of experienced executives, who are seeking new positions. The organization is a non-profit corporation operated by and for its members. More than 80 per cent of those who have enrolled in the local chapter during its first three years have obtained satisfactory employment through the intensive program. The average time required has been only 14 weeks. . .

On April 9, during the noon hour, my wife and parents (visiting San Rafael from New York) were refused luncheon service at the Great Store in downtown San Rafael because they were in the company of my 3-year-old son.

I am writing to voice my concern over the success of San Rafael's downtown revitalization project if these be the type of businessmen actively being recruited for the downtown area. I am also writing to advertise the apparent policies of the Great Store so that others, who share my feelings, might make themselves heard (or not heard) at the cash register.

It is difficult to explain to a hungry, well-behaved 3-year-old why he was asked to leave a public restaurant.

Junk Cars Remain Despite Assessment

I am writing to you in regard to Sen. Randolph Collier's SB 1308, introduced and passed in 1972, regarding the removal of junked cars along county, city and state highways.

These junks are littering the beauty and environment of our countrysides. They are not only destroying the beauty, but are also breeding grounds for rodents and disease, are dangerous to our young children. The senator's bill stated that on Jan. 1, 1973, the proper authorities that are responsible for this program will start removing these junks from highways, yards of neighbors, the countrysides, trails and paths.

On a very short notice I and approximately 12 million registered car owners were assessed, taxed or levied $1 on each vehicle license year 1973. This money would go toward the removal of these eyesores, with no added expense to junked car owners for tow-away service.

Here it is the month of April, and on my travels especially around Marin County still see these derelicts, have seen the same ones for years. Maybe our political friends who are in charge of this program don't know what SB 1308 stands for, and should brush up on it, and start giving the taxpayers their money's worth or reimburse their money back. And let's not hear the same old political theme song, "We have no funds to do the job." I know one thing, the $2 I invested can bring me a couple of good drinks at the corner bar.

Visitor Pens Plea For Saving Of Hill

Mother Taylor and I have recently spent a very happy two weeks in Terra Linda. We left Pennsylvania before her hills had taken their first breath of spring and in a few hours were in a lushly blooming land full of strange and beautifully exotic trees and shrubs, and rare and fragrant plants and flowers . . .

Everywhere we went, we met courtesy, friendliness, and patience. I'd like to be able to thank the personnel in the Safeway market, the hardware store, post office, the lovely lady in the variety store, the gentleman in the drug store, and especially the very patient nurseryman who answered my many questions, helped me with pruning problems, and even gave me a slip of a much-wanted plant because I couldn't take the whole pot on the plane.

It was a most unique experience, on my way home from that same small shopping center, to have a driver, the first in a line of several cars, stop to allow a woman with a bag of groceries and a 2-year-old grand-niece to cross the road. And on another occasion, the same 2-year-old and I were given a ride to my temporary home, during one of your late spring rains, by a local teacher who lives not too far from there.

As for the hope:

My rights to express an opinion on any action taken by your local electors are extremely limited, since I do not live in San Rafael, Terra Linda, or even Marin County; but, as a small-scale conservationist (we own six acres in the country), and as a lover of beauty . . . I beg your indulgence to allow a plea for the continued natural beauty of the hill between Terra Linda and Lucas Valley.

Nowhere have I seen such an abundance and variety of wild flowers — lupines, false lupines, hyacinths, echevarias, buttercups, and so many varieties that I have not as yet identified, that were in bloom or about to bloom . . .

Then, too, there are the numerous springs on that same hill; I've wandered into and picked my way out of several of them on the Terra Linda side. Might not disturbing them cause many difficulties in the valleys below? . . .

Did Auto Makers Really Try To Meet Pollution Standards?

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government battle with the automakers over clean air gave the public a peek into a dark corner of the industry's executive suite.

The man who opened this usually barred corporate door was William D. Ruckelshaus, chief of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Chrysler Motors, the nation's third largest automaker, was no model of Caesar's wife when it came to making an all-out effort, as required by law, to meet the 1975 auto pollution standards, he said.

So convinced was he that the firm deliberately dragged its feet that he would have imposed sanctions on the automaker. The only thing that stopped him was that his single option would have had the effect of closing down Chrysler's assembly lines.

If Congress had given him some alternative short of this drastic step, Ruckelshaus said he probably would have used it.

UNDER LAW, an auto maker had to show it made "a good faith effort" to meet the 1975 auto pollution standards before the government would grant a requested one-year delay.

General Motors, Ford, American and Chrysler all testified that they did everything possible to perfect their pollution control devices before the deadline, but found that it was not possible.

Ruckelshaus granted the delay to each of the automakers, but he said the record of the hearings left "serious reservations" in his mind that Chrysler should get a reprieve under the "good faith" clause.

Chrysler denies Ruckelshaus' claims. But the EPA administrator cited these items as evidence to back up his position:

—Chrysler spent about a third as much per dollar volume on emission control as Ford and General Motors.

—Chrysler admitted it had no firm plans to test a fleet of cars using the catalytic converter, the pollution control device it said it planned to install on cars to meet the 1975 standard.

—A catalytic converter supplier claimed it lost a contract with Chrysler because the supplier told the EPA its catalytic converters could meet the 1975 standard.

CHRYSLER OFFICIALS also denied the supplier's charge, claiming its corporate decisions were not influenced by what its suppliers said. The company said it dropped the supplier because it found another firm which could manufacture the device cheaper.

But Ruckelshaus said, "If I were forced to choose between one or the other of the versions," the evidence indicated the supplier's argument "would seem more probable."

Since all testimony given before the EPA was under oath, Ruckelshaus said it would be reviewed to see whether the conflicting statements between Chrysler and its supplier involve perjury.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Lawmaker Wants Tax From Your Garage Sale

By RUS WALTON

Remember the garage sale? The one where you cleaned out the garage and got rid of Aunt Sadie's antimacassar?

Assemblyman Walter Powers, D-Sacramento, sees it as something else. He sees it as an opportunity to drag more dough from the people.

Powers says the state is losing thousands of dollars each year because no sales tax is levied on those garage sales. He can't stand the pain of seeing that revenue going out the door.

He wants to force folks to get a retail business permit for a garage sale, and wants them to pay a tax for the privilege of peddling Uncle Charlie's stuffed moosehead. He's introduced a bill to do just that.

Assemblyman Powers recently sent one of those printed questionnaires to the folks in his district. He said he wanted to know what was bugging the people.

A lot of the respondents replied that, for one thing, the Legislature keeps passing too many laws.

The folks said the legislators should spend more time repealing laws and should knock off passing all those new laws. One voter went so far as to suggest that the legislature adjourn for at least three years.

THERE'S ONE BILL in the hopper that bears watching! Especially if you care about the caliber of teachers and the moral environment of our public school classrooms. It's AB 298.

Assemblymen Howard Berman and Henry Waxman (both liberal Democrats and both from Los Angeles) want to amend the state law relating to the Commission on Teacher Preparation and Licensing. That law requires the commission to suspend or revoke the credentials of teachers guilty of immoral or unprofessional conduct.

The law was enacted to protect school children from those very few teachers who refuse to behave in a manner befitting the high calling of education.

The legislative Counsel's digest of their bill states:

"(AB 298) Provides that no conduct or acts shall be deemed immoral or unprofessional conduct or evident unfitness for service unless such conduct is related to the certificated employee's fitness to teach and classroom performance."

BERMAN AND WAXMAN also insist that the commission consider the "praiseworthiness of motives" behind unprofessional conduct (i.e. "situational" ethics). And they would mandate that the commission consider the impact of its disciplinary action on wayward teacher's constitutional rights.

Constitutional rights are precious and should be protected, at all costs. But, when did the right to teach — and the right to a teaching credential — become a constitutional right?

The right to teach our children depends on the individual's professional and moral qualifications, as judged by his peers and the parents of the school children.

Court decisions already make it more than difficult to rid the classroom of those few who fail to live up to the high standards of the profession. There is no reason to lower moral standards or codes of conduct to give the unfit tenure or access to the classroom.

REMEMBER WHEN?

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Americans recognize the importance of serving on juries and do everything possible to avoid it.

When I said that due to impaired hearing I couldn't tell what was going on in the courtroom, the judge ruled that this made me a typical juror.

Requested preferred treatment as a newspaperman — and was sentenced to be the jury foreman.

My fellow jurors tried to break a hopeless deadlock by naming me as the guilty party.

What Happens On Tongue River Has Impact Also On Potomac

WASHINGTON — At the White House correspondents' annual dinner the other night I introduced one friend to another: an environmentalist who spends most of her time testifying on Capitol Hill to a black publicist whose specialties are black politics and minority causes.

"This lady can tell you everything you need to know about strip mining," I notified him.

"Strip mining?"

HIS EYES WIDENED as if I had proposed something immoral, or at least for consenting adults only. He did not say what he was thinking. But if my assumption is correct, he was reflecting in a friendly way that only some farfetched addlepate could imagine that anybody black and involved in urgent urban affairs would ever bother himself about strip mining.

People immersed in slum rebuilding and Head Start are understandably cool about the fate of Appalachian hollows or the grasslands of the Great Plains. Those fields of interest seem geographically and socially as far apart as Punxsutawney and Petropavlovsk.

Since the rise of the environmental movement, some black leaders have been resentful that concern about the physical world may have diverted money and attention away from the immediate problems of the city, and diffused the political influence of people who otherwise should be allies.

THIS FEAR is understandable, but mistaken. Certainly what Congress appropriates this spring for the future of Bedford-Stuyvesant or Watts takes precedence on the agenda of a black politician. But if he can see beyond this spring, he will realize that the poorest Americans are the ones who suffer most from all forms of pollution, who most need green places for relief from the city madness, who are hurt worst by rising meat prices.

Yes, meat prices. This particular connection between strip mining and urban problems was not obvious to me or likely to many in the Congress, either, until it was laid out by Carolyn Alderson, a ranch wife who volunteered to appear before joint subcommittees of the House Interior Committee. If anything can, her testimony against strip mining should help urban representatives to understand that the bell that tolls for the Bones Brothers Ranch, at Birney, Mont., on the Tongue River drainage of the Powder River basin, also tolls for downtown Detroit and Dayton.

Mrs. Alderson's children are the fifth generation of the same family to live on that same land. Only slightly indirectly, the Aldersons exist on grass — on cattle grazing, Montana's biggest industry. They are deeply frightened now because their land and millions of acres around it have been found to overlay shallow and thus easily strippable coal formations. They can hear the bulldozers and draglines coming.

AS MRS. ALDERSON explains, strip mining and cattle grazing are totally incompatible. She maintains, and backs it up with expert evidence from Noland Jacobsen, a veteran livestock specialist of Montana State University, that re-establishing native grasses on "disturbed" rangeland is impractical at best, in fact virtually impossible.

The prospect is, then, that when the strip-mine operators move in, the ranchers will be forced to move out, no matter how long they have lived there. Ground water, surface water and the land itself no longer will be fit to support them. And the result, Mrs. Alderson says, may be "a far more serious crisis — a food crisis — which would ironically aggravate rather than help solve the energy crisis."

The more stock that is fed in feedlots rather than on the range, the more machinery and energy is needed to feed them. On eastern Montana grass, a calf can be raised to some 500 pounds for about $60; on a feedlot, that process takes at least $150. The effect on prices in city supermarkets might make Earl Butz happy, but nobody else I can think of.

It is a long way from the Tongue River drainage area to the Potomac, but not so far that their interdependence cannot be seen and voted on. Any urban legislator unmoved by arguments that strip mining is destroying the wilderness, rivers and future of broad parts of America can put those facts aside, compelling as they should be. He can vote against strip mining out of his own self-interest — and that of his constituents.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Some New Faces On Boards —But Will There Be New Words?

Elections are over and there will be some new faces on the myriad government bodies throughout Marin. Maybe from those new faces will spring some new words.

There is a gaggle of fashionable phrases that the men and women behind the name plates love to use — governmental slang is what it is.

Probably the most overworked these days is poor little "input." There is community input, organizational input, agency input. The term derives from the two words "put in," and is a child of the computer age. Technicians feed computers data, or input, and unless input is put in the machines become put out.

So far, no one has come up with a better term. Now and then a councilman will grope for one in mid-sentence, but input always emerges victorious.

JUST ONCE, instead of calling for community input, it would be nice if a councilman would say, "Hey, what is it you folks out there want, anyway?"

There are others. Councilmen and board members are always putting things "in terms of" and "speaking to that." The freshest current councilmanism is "let's see if it flies," which has roughly the same meaning as the old hack "let's run it up the flag pole and see if anyone salutes."

Some day some councilman or board member somewhere is going to successfully say, "I would like to speak to that in terms of input and let's see if it flies."

SPEAKING OF SLANG, the Associated Students of the College of Marin have laid it out to the dog population in plain language.

Posted on kiosks and bulletin boards throughout the campus are handbills that say: "Doggone it. Don't you know that by hanging around the college you can get ripped off for a fine or worse yet — busted? I mean, this higher learning stuff just ain't worth the trouble. Let's cool it for a while and stay away from the buildings. Signed, the Head Beagle."

Maybe some of the city councils with dog problems should take a look at the college's idea and see if it flies.

Insidious Bureaucratic Growth Exemplified In Barrows' Plan

The encroachment of bureaucracy on the lives of the individual has been, for 50 years, the fundamental — the basic thing that I have cried out against, worked against, and written against.

It has been my lot to be involved in public affairs for most of those years and I have just naturally soaked up an awareness of this bureaucratic effort to control when it appears. This has been especially true during the years I have been writing this column.

Quite likely you read the letter to the editor last Friday, in which a gentleman took me on regarding the column of the week before, respecting a feeling of guilt most of us secretly feel over the way federal bureaucracy has treated the American Indians.

He objected to my phrase that we "all descended from a tide of Europeans" who drove the Indians from their home land. It would have been more accurate, of course, if I had said "most of us" or "many of us". Then perhaps my education would not be "sorely lacking."

ONE CAN SLIP under pressure of a deadline, or when one is angry. Witness: He said, "We are in the fix we are in today because people like Fusselman did not plan and could not see beyond the edge of their noses. I have had enough and feel that somebody has to speak out in favor of these vicious attacks on Mr. Von Gundell." Certainly he didn't intend to write it that way.

Come to think of it, I don't believe there was anyone around during those days who wanted to be like Fusselman. He might be interested, though, to know that I was one of those who voted for the nice subdivision he bought his home in and took part in the ceremony of turning the first spade of earth there.

Shortly after all the funny business of appointing John Barrows as the county administrator, I wrote that he (Barrows) would make his former boss, who allegedly proclaimed, "I am going to run this county and don't you forget it," look like an amateur.

I hope you are watching the play as of right now! Thank goodness there is a good reporter stationed up at the administration building. His name is Erik Ingram and does he tell it as it is. His "Reporter's Notebook" on Wednesday really tells it.

It's almost too much to hope for. On the same day (Wednesday) one of the strongest editorials of the year, Barrows consolidation of county departments. "Streamlining? No, Call It Pyramiding" goes the heading over a four-column spread. You had better read every word of it if you haven't yet! If you don't have a copy, try and get one from a neighbor. There was also a small news item in the same issue that the Marin Conservation League was against the attempt to consolidate the county departments. They denounced it — strong language. Wonder what poor le Baptiste will do now?

YOU TAXPAYERS should demand of the supervisors the resume of both Barrows and his assistant Campanella. I know the background of each of them. They simply do not have the experience to be running the county government to the extent they are doing right now, let alone increasing the takeover of more authority. Five supervisors are being paid to perform, not to posture and debate.

This has every appearance of being part of a step-by-step effort to change the form of county government without submitting it to the electorate.

Tornado Toll

DACCA (UPI) — The tornado which struck Bangladesh earlier this week left at least 700 persons dead and more than 10,000 injured, unofficial reports said today.

$137,000 Is Already In Reagan's Tax Plan Chest

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians have donated $137,000 so far to finance the initiative campaign to qualify Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax limitation plan for the ballot, it was reported yesterday.

They have also contirbuted postage stamps and four books of trading stamps along with offers to walk precincts and gather signatures of voters.

Each day's mail brings more contributions and offers of help, said Mike Woodson, a Reagan staff member assigned to supervise activities of the governor's office in connection with the initiative.

Woodson, who keeps in close contact with the committee organized to operate the initiative campaign, reported the contributions have far surpassed the proposed $100,000 budget supporters had tentatively set for the signature collecting effort.

The campaign must certify to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. the valid signatures of 520,000 voters by June 27 in order for the initiative to be qualified for a specail statewide election Reagan plans to call for Nov. 6.

Woodson reported the cash contributions received from 10,445 citizens were in addition to $75,000 pledged earlier by private contributors as "seed" money to get the campaign started. Reagan previously refused to identify those persons, presumably wealthy political supporters.

On April 1, "Californians for Lower Taxes" mailed out 120,000 letters seeking financial aid and promises to help circulate signature petitions. So far, Woodson said, there have been 19,162 responses.

Nearly 6,000 said they walk precincts, another 4,700 said they would enlist the help of others while 10,445 mailed in contributions. The biggest single donation was a $1,000 check, Woodson said. Most ranged between $5 and $10.

The tax limitation campaign, carefully calculated to coincide with the time Californians were figuring out their income returns, also elicited some unexpected contributions.

Several persons sent in postage stamps. One elderly woman explained she had no extra cash, so she contributed four books of trading stamps.

Woodson estimated that 5 per cent of the letters he receives oppose Reagan's plan.

Easter Egg Art

For early Christians, the egg became a symbol of man's rebirth, and it was eaten to break the long Lenten fast. But Ukrainian "pysanky" developed long before Easter eggs became popular. The tools for this ancient art of decorating eggs are only beeswax, dye, and a stylus, but it often takes many hours to design the outside of a single egg. The word "pysanky" means, literally, "to write." Many shapes and figures drawn on the egg have a meaning and each egg is traditionally designed to carry a message. Flowers, for example, symbolize happiness, while circles and dots represent eternity.

DO YOU KNOW — According to tradition, what animal brings Easter eggs?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — The spitball was banned in 1920.

Riles Sets Metric System Target Date

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California schools will convert to the metric system starting in 1976, state Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles said yesterday.

Declaring the present system of inches, pounds and quarts "is on its way out," Riles said he is "determined" to see new math and science texts use only metric measurements, beginning with the 1976-77 school year.

"The metric system will simplify arithmetic and daily life, if we give it a chance," Riles told a news conference. He said it was "inevitable" that the United States would switch to the metric system within a decade.

Riles also said he will urge teacher-training institutions to begin preparing prospective teachers in metric measurement as soon as possible.

The United States is the only major industrial nation in the world that uses the old English system of feet, tons and gallons. The metric system is based on the decimal system which is used for U.S. currency. It uses terms such as grams and meters.

Riles said President Nixon backs a plan for conversion to metric measurements within 10 years and predicted Congress soon will go along with the idea. 'It has ceased to be a controversial issue," he said.

The California schools chief said he soon will deliver to the Board of Education detailed plans for conversion of schools to metric measurements. The state board must approve the proposal.

He also said his Department of Education hopes to make television films on the metric system to teach parents how to use it before their children begin learning it in public schools.

Riles said he will caution teachers against side-by-side instruction of the current system and the metric system. He said it would be much easier for youngsters to learn just metric measurements without being bogged down with conversion tables.

"I am determined that California education will not lag behind the changeover to the metric system," he said.

"We have to act now to assure that our state's school's are well prepared to offer instruction in metric units, rather than being caught in the confusion as the country converts to the metric system."

"There is nothing sacred and there is not much logic in the present, customary system of measurements in the United States," Riles added.

"Historically, an inch is derived from the length of the end joint of an adult's thumb," he noted. "A foot is derived from the approximate length of the human foot ... and a mile is derived from the distance traveled by a Roman soldier in 1,000 two-paced strides."

Besides the United States, the only countries still using nonmetric systems are Barbados, Burma, Ghana, Jamaica, Liberia, Muscat and Oman, Naura, Sierra Leone, Southern Yemen and Tonga.

U.N. Drops Warning To Israel

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States today won agreement to delete a Security Council resolution warning Israel that stern measures would follow a repetition of its April 10 commando raid on Beirut, diplomatic sources reported.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali, in discussions with leaders of the British and French delegations which sponsored a strongly anti-Israel council resolution, also won agreement to have the 15-nation council condemn all acts of violence, and not just Israeli violence, the sources said.

The changes came in consultations that delayed a scheduled Council meeting more than 2 ½ hours. Previously, the Anglo-French text merely "deplored" all violence without mentioning Arab guerrilla activity, and condemned the Israeli raid which killed three leaders of the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

The changes were expected to result in the United States withholding its veto when the resolution goes to a vote this afternoon.

But Scali was expected to use the veto if Guinea, India, Indonesia and Yugoslavia insist on a vote on their amendment.

Automakers Expect Owners To Complain About Belt Law

DETROIT (UPI) — The nation's automakers expect to hear from a "considerable number" of angry owners when they begin installing a device on 1974 models that will force drivers and passengers to buckle up.

Despite opposition from the industry, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) Thursday refused to withdraw its requirement that 1974 cars be designed to make sure the car cannot move until a combination lap-shoulder belt is fastened.

The original proposal called for an "ignition interlock" system that would prevent the engine from being started until every front seat occupant was buckled up. That was amended so the engine can be started but the car cannot move until the belt is buckled.

Automotive engineers claim the complicated system has not been tested sufficiently and is unreliable. General Motors executives say there may be "some field failures" —meaning a motorist will follow all the instructions and still may not be able to drive the car.

Chrysler president John Riccardo was more specific, he said the failure rate may reach 3 per cent on new cars—360,000 cars in a 12 million car year. The failure rate probably will increase as the cars get older and the system deteriorates, he said.

"The one-belt system is a major step forward since we're making it easier for a guy to wear a belt," Riccardo said. "But it's going to be a tremendous irritant."

The automakers went to court for a delay of the interlock system, but were turned down in February. Then, GM, Chrysler, American Motors and Fiat formally petitioned NHTSA to withdraw the rule.

It appeared for a while that Detroit might get its way when the National Motor Vehicle Safety Advisory Council, an advisory group to NHTS, recommended the requirement be dropped because of its complexity and "unproven cost effectiveness."

GM asked that the present "buzzer-light" belt warning system be continued, but with the more convenient lapshoulder belt combination on an inertial reel which allows a person to move around until there is a sudden deceleration of the vehicle.

Ford did not join in the appeal of the interlock provision which it touted in 1971 as a possible alternative to the air bag.

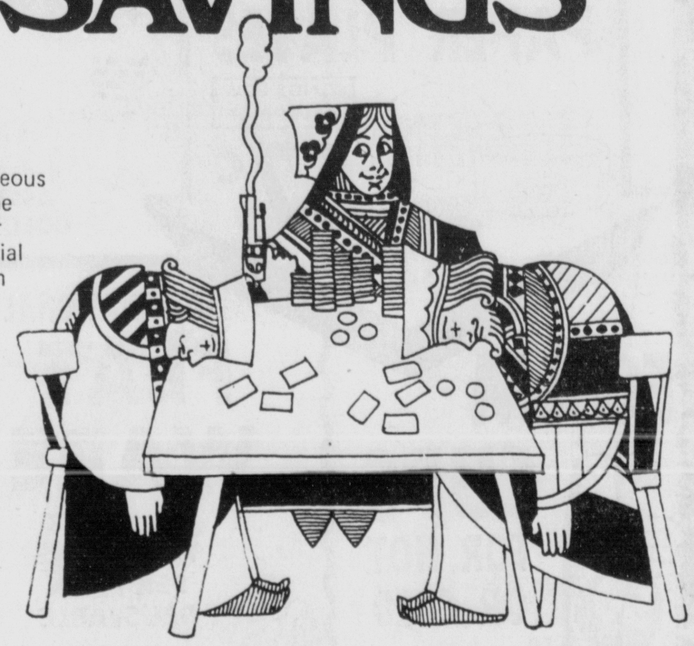
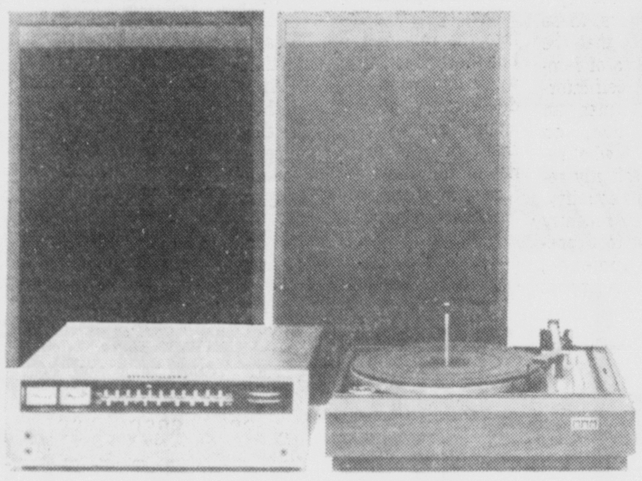
PACIFIC STEREO OFFERS A FRESH DECK OF SAVINGS

Whether or not it's a special occasion, we're continually dealing new combinations of components at the most advantageous prices we can offer. We've three new music systems here, one of which is specially designed for rock buffs, and a speaker offer which should prove very popular. Generally, these special items get snapped up fast, so it's to your benefit to come in early, today if at all possible. If you do, you can be pretty sure of getting a winning hand at Pacific Stereo.





If You Like it Loud and Clear- - -

Marantz rates the power of their 2245 AM/FM stereo receiver at 90 watts (RMS). That's impressive enough but our tests showed even more: 110 watts (RMS) with only .05% distortion from 20 to 20,000 Hz. The tuner section is similarly fine; background noise will be 60dB below the music with only a 10 microvolt signal, and tuning is aided by both center-channel and signal strength meters. The 2245 sells for $449.95, not including the walnut case.

BSR's 710 is about the best $150 automatic record player we know. It shares many features with their well-reviewed 810, such as the sequential-cam mechanism which gives the 710 very smooth operation in the automatic mode. The $144.45 price includes a base and a Shure M91E elliptical cartridge.

If you like music with all the force of a live rock concert, the Cerwin-Vega 211's should be just what you were looking for. Actually the 211's sound great on any kind of music; they're handsome two-way systems with a twelve-inch horn for bass notes, and they sell for $319 a pair.

Four-Channel Receiver, Stereo Price

Harman-Kardon's 50+ four-channel receiver performs so well in stereo that we've built a whole system around it; not only can you save a lot of money now, $97.85 to be exact, but you can easily and economically convert to four-channel later. As a stereo receiver, the 50+ puts out 50 watts (RMS) over a wide bandwidth at low distortion; a good tuner section will give you noise-free FM stereo as well as very listenable AM reception. As a four-channel receiver, the 50+ will handle every quadraphonic source presently available, and it will also create four-channel effects from stereo material. Its $289.95 price is most reasonable for such versatility.

Dual's modestly priced 1215S record player comes amazingly close to the superb Dual 1229 in performance. It can track at pressures as low as .75 gram, and a pitch control allows up to 6% change in speed. With the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge, the 1215S sells for $125.

When you hear the strong, clean bass of the TransAudio 1010's, you'll be amazed that they cost only $119.90 a pair. They're two-way systems with a 10-inch acoustic suspension bass speaker, and are surely one of the best values around.

A First System with Staying Power

At $268, this Sherwood system is an excellent value and a fine choice for an apartment-sized living room. The $199.95 Sherwood 7100A AM/FM stereo receiver is rated at 44 watts (RMS) of power and has an excellent tuner section which will distinguish cleanly among the crowded FM signals in a metropolitan area. You'll find many useful features too, such as a loudness contour and a front panel tape dubbing jack. The walnut case is included.

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable record changer with a cueing lever to gently put the arm and the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge on your records for you. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's normal price is $60.90.

You probably know Harman-Kardon's very fine receivers and you should get to know their speakers, too. The model 20's included here are two-way eight-inch systems in walnut cabinets. You'll like both their sound and their low price of $79.90 a pair.

Shure's Newest and Best Cartridge

Shure's V-15 Type II Improved has long been considered one of the very best phono cartridges around. Now Shure has developed an even better one: the V-15 Type III, which was introduced at the recent Institute of High Fidelity Show in Burlingame. A new internal magnet structure and stylus assembly give the Type III better tracking ability and an even flatter frequency response than the Type II (and that was pretty flat). Audible evidence of these improvements is easy to hear, and you can do so at your nearest Pacific Stereo store.

Open Air Headphones for $5

The stereophones shown here have very light weight foam rubber earpieces which don't require a complete ear seal in order to provide deep bass. They sound great, and will handle very high volume levels without any distortion. $5 is a ridiculously low price to pay for 'phones of this quality and past experience indicates that they will go fast, so it might be a good idea to shop as soon as possible.

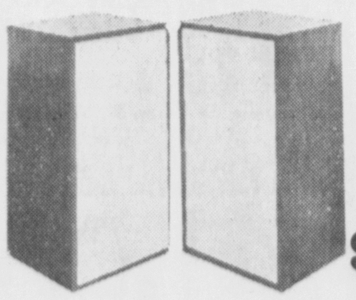
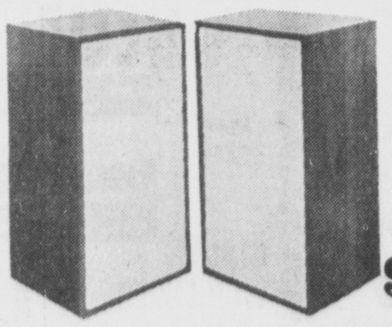
A Week to Save on TransAudio Speakers



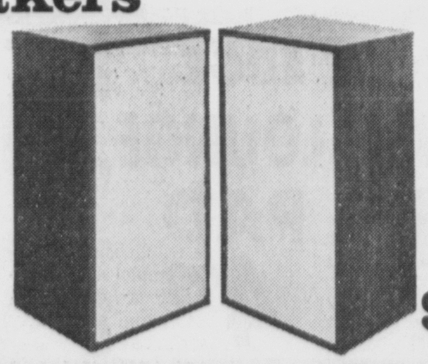
$27 each

TransAudio 1008's are two-way, eight-inch systems that regularly sell for a phenomenally low $39.95 each and sound as if they should cost a lot more. We have a limited supply, including some demos, at an even lower $27 each.



$38 each

The 1010's are also two-way systems, but with a ten-inch bass speaker that will go all the way down to the bass man's low E. Normally $59.95 each, they're reduced now to $38.



$56 each

The 1012's are TransAudio's best. These three-way, 12" systems will cleanly reproduce even the lowest notes on your records. The 1012 is a lot of speaker for the usual $79.95; this week they're just $56.

ANNUAL ANTIQUES SHOW

By BETTY FROST

Once again Mrs. William H. Perdue of Mill Valley is volunteering her services as a consultant at the Antiques Show and Sale sponsored for 21 years by Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley.

The current show will be held from noon to 9 p.m. next Thursday and Friday and from noon to 7 p.m., April 28 at the IDESST Hall in Sausalito. Each day Mrs. Perdue, a member of the American Institute of Designers, will be available from 2 to 4 p.m., stationed near the entrance to the hall, to consult with people who want advice about acquiring an article.

"Will it fit into my house?" is the most popular question, according to Betty Perdue. "Then we talk about their homes and the placement of the antique. I note that people who like a certain styleusually stay with it. For example, the 'country styles', whether they are French Provincial, English, Italian or Spanish, usually combine well. But adding certain fussy Victorian pieces or formal French furnishings from the Louis XIV period would not be appropriate."

THE INTERIOR designer maintains, "Contemporary was my first love, and I like to combine selected old pieces with contemporary, because it helps soften a room."

Mrs. Perdue has been associated with the show for 15 years. Besides her consulting expertise, she contributed the design for Grandmother's cupboard, the colorful area where homemade jams, jellies and baked goods are displayed and sold.

"Since the hall is quite dark, we chose a white background for the cupboard, accenting it with bright primary colors," she said. This year she will again arrange flowers and baskets and interesting old kitchen utensils to keep the Cupboard cheery," even when it's beginning to be bare."

The strictest definition of "an antique is that it must predate 1830," the expert said, "however some now say that anything over 100 years old qualifies for inclusion."

With her husband, an experienced building contractor, Mrs. Perdue maintains an interior designing and decorating business. The couple works out of their home. Mrs. Perdue does the designs, her husband follows through with the practical details, and takes care of the business end of the operation. The couple shares a studio in their Mill Valley home.

THEIR HOME, a modest tract house, is an example of the couple's combined know-how. By changing exterior treatment and interior arrangment, they have brought individuality and charm to the home. There is room, too, to display a fine collection of blue and white china. The china collection was begun by Mrs. Perude's grandmother and continued by her mother. Mrs. Perdue, too, has added items in Royal Doulton and Spode. When renovation was completed, the home was featured in a "before and after" story in House Beautiful magazine.

Betty Perdue is a native of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. She is a graduate of Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., with an art major, and of the University of Iowa, in Iowa City, where she received the bachelors degree in art. She was also graduated from the Parsons School of Interior Design in New York City. She is a member of AID.

Her design experience includes work with Lord and Taylor, Macy's, and McMullen's Interiors in New York. Since 1958 she has been in business for herself, advising residential and commercial clients.

For J.F. Shay Co., whose offices she decorated in Dublin, she designed a carpet in gold, beige and olive tweed, which the firm of Savnik in Oakland manufactured. She named the design "Mill Valley" and the Oakland firm continues to manufacture it.

After the benefit for the Mill Valley Episcopal Church, Mrs. Perdue will be busy creating a room for the Marin Designers Showcase in San Rafael May 11-12. Proceeds for this event assist the Volunteer Bureau of Marin.

The Mill Valley woman is a sustaining member of the Junior League of San Francisco, a member of the Marin Alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma and of the Rector's Guild of the Church of Our Saviour.

Women Largest Group Now Filing Job Discrimination Complaints

By BARBARA HOSMER

The largest single group of job discrimination complaints filed with his office are coming from women, said Frank Quinn, director of the 13-state regional Equal Employment Opportunity Office located in San Francisco.

"The feminist movement is the most active group in the civil rights movement right now," he told the Marin Chapter of National Organization for Women at a meeting Wednesday night at Redwood High School.

Most of the charges in the San Francisco EEO district office, which covers Northern California, Oregon, Idaho and Northern Nevada, come from the Bay Area, and currently there are some 1,500 charges, he siad.

"In 80 per cent of the Northern California complaints we have investigated, we have found cause. Fifty per cent are sex discrimination charges, mostly from women," Quinn said.

The largest group of complaints filed under race discrimination are from black people, he added.

His federal agency has the machinery to combat discrimination in employment, but the EEO has a burgeoning backlog of filed charges and it may take two to four years before investigation can be done, he stated.

"BIGOTRY IN sex discrimination is still largely on the surface," he pointed out, and is easy to document. But, he said, "When we do an investigation (of an employer), we do a very thorough investigation. . .We are interested in what happened to the complaining individual, but beyond that, we are interested in the class to which he or she belongs."

An EEO investigator is interested in the case of a woman filing a complaint and also what happens to other women in connection with that employer, he explained.

"If we go in on racial discrimination and find sex discrimination, we take what we see. We take a profile of the company or public agency. It's easy to spot if there are no women in management training or on the police force, for example," Quinn said.

Thorough investigating takes time, and that's why EEO has backlogged charges, he said.

BUT, HE ADDED, "We are building up a body of law through the courts on exactly what constitutes discrimination. The Supreme Court in Griggs vs. Duke Power held that it is the effect, not the intent to discriminate by an employer, that counts. It is the effect of what you do that counts," he said.

The employer has to prove that any tests or requirements set up by a company or public agency are truly valid for the job open. The burden is on the employer to show that height, weight or weight-lifting, for example, is a bona fide occupational requirement for a particular job, Quinn explained.

He indicated that questions of job applicants about their reproductive lives (for women), marital status, number of children, or weight, might well be discriminatory, and added that application forms asking such things may be mailed to his office in San Francisco to be checked.

Such questions about a potential female employee's reproductive history are quite common, he said, and are nearly always discriminatory.

"If we find discrimination in a charge, it is a violation of Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and we attempt to conciliate. . .we work out agreements on paper, and we write strong agreements," he stated. "We do not sign an agreement with an employer if the complaining person doesn't. There are few successful conciliations because we are looking for the same strong result the courts have been giving."

If conciliation is impossible the case may go to court through EEO attorneys or to legal service EEO supports in which private attorneys take the cases to court.

The complaining person usually is awarded back pay for being denied a job or promotion and may have his or her position upgraded.

SINCE MARCH 1972, state and local governments are covered under the equal employment opportunity laws and such cases are beginning to be filed, said Quinn. The jurisdiction of EEO covers any private employer of 15 or more persons as well.

A person now may file a complaint in behalf of another employee or a class of people, Quinn said. "We need the name, date, but it doesn't have to be exact because discrimination may be ongoing, employer and nature of discrimination, but not detailed information," he explained.

STRUGGLE FOR EQUALITY

Another Liberation Front

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of four articles on the United States feminist movement and deals with a growing number of men who are finding that gains for women do not necessarily mean losses for men.)

By DIANA LOERCHER

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Liberation can seem a frightening prospect to many women. But their reaction pales beside the dread that the movement appears to strike in the hearts of many American men.

Superficially, their resistance is understandable. Rarely does an individual or group in a position of power relinquish it willingly, unless there is a clear-cut advantage in doing so. And this is precisely the problem from the feminist point of view: that men insufficiently educated about the movement interpret its consequences as losses rather than gains. They fail to realize the ways in which women's liberation is in fact a misnomer for its ultimate goal, human liberation.

Yet there is gradually becoming visible on the surface of the movement a groundswell of liberated men, few in number but growing. Involved in consciousness-raising groups of their own and belonging to such organizations as the National Organization for Women (NOW), which counts men as approximately 5 per cent of its members, these men basically believe that the two fundamental issues of feminism are justice and self-interest. The first constitutes an appeal to conscience, on grounds that anyone who rejects feminism is implicitly rejecting the principle of equality.

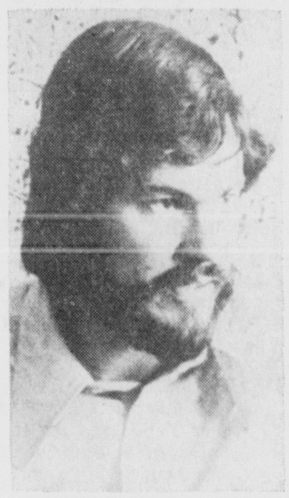
As Germaine Greer recently stated in an address to a predominantly male audience, "When I argue here for support for the Women's Liberation Movement, I am asking you really to consider whether or not you can countenance the nonliberation of any group in your community, and whether or not you are so afraid of the characteristics and personalities of one-half of the human race that you cannot allow them room to move or a voice to be hears."

GENE MARINE, in his book "A Male Guide to Women's Liberation" (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $6.95), tries to clarify the grounds for such complaints to a male readership that he assumes, probably wisely, has a negligible knowledge of the movement. Marine, a professional writer and the husband of a liberated woman, outlines the conditioning that begins at birth, and leads a woman to be treated as, and believe she is, the inferior half of the human race, fit primarily for marriage, motherhood and "sex object" status.

Being a man, he knows what kinds of arguments to wield. He advises men, for example, not to think of women's liberation just in terms of their wives but to consider the kind of life they genuinely want for their daughters.

He similarly analyzed the sex-stereotyped conditioning that locks men also into rigid roles and that works to their disadvantage as well as their advantage. "We are victimized into the role of the oppressor; but there it is. And by the time we're grown up it is difficult to do anything about it, so thoroughly are we convinced that that's the way it ought to be — no matter how much, sometimes, in secret, known only to ourselves, it hurts."

Perhaps the best way to understand the "male victimization" to which Marine refers is to listen to Warren Farrell's account of his own awakening. Farrell teaches urban politics and public administration at Rutgers University in New Jersey. He is the national coordinator of NOW's task force on the "masculine mystique." He devotes much of his time to organizing consciousness-raising groups for men and women, conducted separately and jointly, and has completed a book, to be published this fall, called "Beyond Masculinity."



WARREN FARRELL
Joins the movement

Married for seven years to his wife, Ursula, who holds a management position with IBM, Farrell feels that they both have profited immensely from the movement. "Our marriage is 15 times deeper now than it ever has been."

HE CONTENDS that the basic problem in male-female relationships, including marriage, is that "women are growing and men are stagnating." He further maintains that the conflicts feminism causes between men and women and in the minds of women themselves, who are torn between their feminist awareness and their fear of rejection by men, would be obviated if men were willing to participate in the same growth process.

"When I started dating women in college I found I was choosing intelligent women, which I suppose was one step above the norm at that time, and they were usually women who had a lot of interests. But as soon as I started dating them they would say, 'Can I type your papers?' and I would say, 'Sure, why not?' Then they would start taking an interest in my career.

"One of the things they liked about me was that I had a lot of interests, and before I knew it they were starting to come over into my sphere of interests. And about three or four months later I'd find that the two of us had grown apart, not really grown apart, but that I was judging her on her ability to know things about my areas of interest. So I was making a basic sort of mistake, taking my value system and putting it on hers.

"This happened two or three times during my early college years," he said. "Then finally the thing that solidified it was the woman I met who eventually became my wife. It took her three months to admit to me that she was valedictorian of her class. That I found out by mistake from her mother. All this started to add up, to make me realize that the women I was going out with were not making the most of themselves. I was losing interest in them because the very things that attracted me to them to begin with were the things I found lacking later on.

"So Urse and I went through the interchange about whether she should go to graduate school. She said she wanted to but she felt her basic duty was to make dinner and have children. Well, finally she applied and got a full fellowship to Harvard. That was one of the things that made me realize — here she was willing to toss all of that away for her stereotype of what she should be."

"I WANTED TO go to graduate school, too," Farrell continued, "and I became aware that when she was talking about going to graduate school she was less interested in getting married and in my going out and getting a job. That took some of the pressure off me and gave me the first link I can recall between what is rhetorically called the relation between men's liberation and women's liberation.

"When I went on for the Ph.D. I was still very leadership-and-goal-oriented, but that started changing. My first attempt at liberation was in 1968 when I was being trained to be an adviser to President Johnson in a national-security area. I was basically told that if I did a dissertation in a certain area and came to certain conclusions that I would become very well-known in the area. I began to feel a lot of pressure not to do the things I wanted to with my life but to do what someone was dictating to me. And when I hestiated I also began to see that I was able to hesitate and change my dissertation topic because my wife was financially independent.

"And secondly I was beginning to see what I now call the 'male bribes' that were being

DEAR HELEN:

I work my posterior off making low-calorie meals for my husband who has a weight problem. I never buy candy, cakes, or have anything fattening in the house —even though I'd love them for myself. His health is important to me.

One day when I had to go out unexpectedly, I passed my husband in his car — eating an ice cream cone! I think I was more shocked than if I'd seen him with a blonde.

When I questioned him later, he told me I was seeing things. I know I wasn't and it absolutely infuriates me. What would you do? — DECEIVED BY SMALL VICES

DEAR DECEIVED:

I'd let the bathroom scales tell me what to do. If they show a consistent weight loss for your husband, then let him have his little "ices."

If not, then he's become a secret eater, and you'd better let your doctor scare the fear of a heart attack into him. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

May I add an adult answer to "Forever Fem"? In putting down modern self-sufficient girls, she said, "Policewomen, yecch!"

It appears she is mistakenly equating "femininity" with incompetence, weakness and vulnerability. Does she really believe that women who are actively participating in a "man's world," who are capable of conversing intelligently with males, and (or) who may be "athletic," are not feminine?

I'd like to correct her policewoman "image." ("How unfeminine can you get?" she asks of a girl who wants to become a woman detective.) Has she ever met a female police officer? I have been told many times that I "do not look like a policewoman" by people —most of whom have never seen one but have formed an image of a huge, tough brute.

Surprisingly (to F.F. at least) I too "love make-up and looking pretty," and "take pride in being thin." I certainly do not try to "overpower" men, and I have not found it difficult to "find a way to a guy's heart."

Hope she decides to explore the world of the new woman further. If so, tell her to stop in at the police station and we'll visit. — (SERGEANT) CAROLEN B., ST. PAUL POLICE DEPARTMENT

offered me: a lot of money, a very high position at a young age and a lot of prestige, and these things were in a sense bribing me not to do what I wanted to do with my life, which was something that I thought was socially positive. . .They would have been more of a temptation had my wife not been making a good income, because then everything would have been a reflection of how much I was bringing into the family."

Farrell, who is taking a year off next year to work primarily for the movement, cites as one of his greatest benefits "this tremendous freedom I have to question or to lose any job I have because I'm not totally responsible for the breadwinning. It has also given me the freedom not to specialize. Specialization is part of not being vulnerable —'Don't question him, he's the expert' — and it ties into one of the basic male problems, their inability to ask questions."

As important to Farrell as the sharing of breadwinning in marriage is the sharing of child care. Though he and his wife do not yet have children, he feels that his personality is "particularly conducive to involvement with children." Moreover, "it is not healthy for children to have one parent dominating. If a woman has basic, loving, maternal characteristics, a man should spend time developing them. I think that the division of labor with the man doing one thing and the woman the other leads to a division of interests. It forms a gap between the two persons that often leads to divorce."

CORROBORATING FARRELL'S belief in the humanizing effects of child care on a man is an article in "Ms." magazine by Jonathan Weighland, a divorced father awarded custody of his two small children.

"Each day with my children, I am discovering things I didn't know were there. I know that this parenthood business — as I used to refer to it when I was married, with a mixture of ignorance, mystery and contempt — is something very special and precious among persons, and much too important to be left either to fathers or mothers alone," he said.

Also shared, in Farrell's scheme of things, is the anathema of housework. Farrell stated that one of the biggest problems in men's consciousness-raising groups is "the absolute inability to discuss housework. It's considered trivial because women take care of it. . .Part of the fallacy of tossing off housework as trivia or as nothing is the underlying contempt for women that men have, the assumption that the things women do can be done very easily. It's not until men begin sharing those things that they have real appreciation of the thousands of little details that prevent them from getting any serious work done."

Other major points of male resistance Farrell enumerated were "underestimating the extent to which the woman wants to be liberated, escaping to all the times she did something typically 'feminine.'. . .Also what I guess could be called our emotional constipation is a major barrier. We keep emotions in our system and just can't get them out, nor can we deal with the emotions of other people very easily. We also feel threatened not so much by the change of role as by the loss of control. The inability to accept a woman in control is a cause of impotence, and it's tied in with contempt, the idea of being controlled by an inferior."

Perhaps one of the greatest benefits of feminism to men is that it liberates them from the burdens of the "masculine mystique," which like the "feminine mystique" subordinates their personal inclinations to cultural expectations.

FOR EXAMPLE, boys are brought up to be aggressive, competitive, strong and unemotional. This "machismo" ideal encourages an equation of money with masculinity, discourages any display of "weakness," whether it is crying or simply confiding and is a spawning ground for power struggles, violence and war. The consequence is not only the oppression of women by men but an equally serious oppression of men by each other.

Gloria Emerson, Vietnam correspondent for the New York Times, wrote in a recent article, "Once a woman has cen how the Army can nag men and crush them and never look on them with favor until they are wounded or dead, she can never be committed to the Women's Liberation Movement.

"I have been married. For 10 years I have worked with, and for, men in a profession that is largely composed of males. But I know that you can gain ground and hold it and fight back if you are willing to pay the price. I have never known a woman who was as helpless as a draftee, as humiliated and hassled as he is, or one who had so few choices. Men may be condescending to women, but they do not send us out to die for them. The real victims of men are other men."

Because the institutionalized polarity between the sexes inhibits men from showing "feminine" characteristics such as sensitivity and passivity, men, like women, are thwarted from developing their full potential as individuals, the liberationists argue. This is not to say that women should become like men are now and that men should become like women are now. That would be no more than a futile switching of roles leading to a new balance of power. The point is to abolish roles and power balances, to become complete male and female human beings rather than simply males and females.

In an essay Farrell cites the hypothesis of the sociologist Harold Lasswell that persons with low self-estimates tend to seek power. The implication is that those men who cling most tenaciously to the masculine mystique are the most unsure of themselves as men.

"It takes a secure man to want a liberated woman, and developing secure men means breaking down the emphasis on external goals, the achievement of which is linked to masculinity," wrote Farrell.

Or, as Marine concludes at the end of his book, "We must first overcome our fear: our fear of each other, our fear of the society, the culture and most of all our fear of the women themselves. If the idea of free women makes us feel 'unmanned,' it is the fear, not the women, that unmans us. Or as Myron Brenton (author of "The American Male") puts it, 'As long as men feel that the equality of women will emasculate them, it is exactly what will happen.'"

ON BEING BLACK

Super, Super, Super That Familiar Word

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

For awhile, to the point of nausea, everything and everyone was beautiful. Ugly-acting individuals and ugly situations, for lack of honest appraisal, were beautiful. The toilet tank was beautiful.

Mercifully, beautiful (misused, abused and consequently rendered meaningless) has dropped in verbal popularity, and a new cliche is with us. Everything and everyone now is super.

Black males are superstuds, and policemen are superfuzz.

Our children never miss the Saturday morning superstar movies, the Lucy reruns and the now archaic Superman.

Companies still employ token blacks but are leery of the superblack types.

A TRIP to New Orleans may net you a powerful gris-gris and superstitions galore.

Black movie fare introduced us to Superfly, who, in his chosen profession, was superbad, i.e., outstandingly good.

Athletes are now running heats in supertime, and the kids are blowing bubbles with something called Superelasticbubbleplastic.

Our country continues to maintain its supersonic jets, and our young people continue to dig on supersonic rock sounds.

The stage proclaims Jesus Christ as superstar, and meditation groups demonstrate how we can become supersensitive to our inner beings and the world around us.

KIDS BOUNCE superballs, and adults do, too — feeling a bit supercilious when they can catch them.

Whites are "allowed" to have soul while blacks have supersoul.

You can get superduper scoops at the ice-cream parlor, and some of us rely on horoscopes and the supernatural to guide our daily lives.

Since we Americans have a tendency to burn out anything we use, and since we have long fancied ourselves to be a superlative people (the biggest, the richest, the most attractive), what word will replace it when "super" is a cinder? Is there a superlative for super?

ART REVIEW

New Gallery Not Ordinary

By ADA GARFINKEL

Galleries come and galleries go. Occasionally one that opens seems to be a cut above the ordinary. This is the case at the Port Art Gallery in Mill Valley with a five-artist group show as its opening feature.

Two of the artists are photographers. Each has his individual approach and attitude.

David Cordoni, a gold-medal winner in the 1972 Seattle International Photography Exhibit, is concerned with intimate indoor scenes in which sunlight and shadow play a dominant role as a background for one or two people in wordless communion with each other.

Photographer Bernie Lustgarden shoots the mad, mad world around him, enriching the dead-end junk of his scenes with whimsy and poetical titles. A close-up of a pile of skate-wheels and oil cans for example, is dubbed "America on the Move," while "Gulliver Travels No More" shows the rear view of a dismantled Ford truck, its jagged, broken taillight a breeding ground for a crop of weeds.

More contrived is the scene of empty boxes as homage "To Malvina Reynolds," the composer, and a laboratory flask is a subject for the sardonic humor of "Minnie's Revenge."

Sculptor Jon O'Day's alabaster figures rest on wooden bases — truncated pyramids or cubes stained ebony or of natural walnut. All of the figures pivot on their bases.

O'Day's inspiration is drawn from the classics — "Mercury" and "Muse;" from life: "Torso" and "Man and Woman;" from the environment — "Orgasmic Subway," and lastly, from the letters of his own surname.

Multiple thin layers of paint create irridescent effects in "Innerscape," and "Color Veils" combines merging oval and circular forms such as one might see in bright sunlight or upon falling asleep.

The quintet of artists is rounded out by gallery director David Auerbach, whose linear drawings skillfully visualize whole complexities and insights in significant vignettes within a total montage effect.

With the whole world as his scope, the highly developed, mysterious Inca civilization becomes visible. So does the former movie empire in "Hollywood USA."

Hybrid forms — hands becoming snakes, legs becoming faces — and moral justice — "If my Eye offends Thee" — are other concerns for the Dartmouth graduate. So is the extinction of rare animal species such as the brown antler deer, elk, and mountain ram which he draws in their total gracefulness in "Pandora's Box."

But Auerbach's thin black line is most scathing and dramatic in "Strip Mining," in which he documents the ravages to the land in strong black and white details as a wedge-shaped section is lifted from the circle that is earth.

The exhibit will continue through May 15 and may be viewed Tuesday through Sunday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The gallery is located at 393 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

Teachers To Present Scholarship Benefit

Members of the Marin Branch of the Music Teachers Association of California and their guests will perform at an annual scholarship benefit concert at 8:30 p.m. May 5 in the Fine Arts Building at College of Marin.

Performers will be Marcelle Mignault-Strong, mezzo-soprano, and pianist Annie DeCook, Arndt Hansen and Ronald McFarland.

Guests on the program will be Betty Mueser, cellist; William Clark, harpsichordist; Bruce Strong, Caity Hurt and Sarah Allen, flutists, and Patricia Russell, pianist.

The program will include Cantata by Telemann, Aria from Pastorale Cantata by Bach, Sonata Opus No. 10 by Beethoven, Third Scherzo in F Sharp Minor by Chopin and Divertimento for Two Pianos by Ronald McFarland.

Evening Of African Music, Dance Set

"From Home to Harlem," an evening of African music, dance and drama, will be presented next Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Ives Hall, at Sonoma State College.

The college African music and dance ensemble will present drumming, singing, chanting and dancing to illustrate the culture of Africa.

Combining the poetry of Longston Hughes and Paul Lawrence Dumbar with mime, dancers will present "Montage of a Dream Deferred," depicting Harlem in the 1920's.

Directing the program will be Tunji Vidal, Ada Hall and Debra Collar. Reservations should be made through the office of instructional services and continuing education.

Deaths On Motorcycles, Bicycles Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fatal accidents involving motorcycles and bicycles have increased sharply in the past four years in California while traffic deaths in other vehicles have remained at the same level, it was reported yesterday.

Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski said fatal accidents involving motorcycles increased 51.3 per cent during the period and fatal bicycle accidents rose 95.5 per cent at the same time.

Pudinski noted the number of all fatal traffic accidents totaled 4,427 in 1969, one more than recorded in 1972.

But he said there were 394 fatal motorcycle accidents in 1969 compared to 596 in 1972 and 66 motorcycle fatalities in 1969 compared to 129 last year.

Pudinski urged both the motorist and cyclists to "remain alert at all times while continuing to follow the rules of the road." He said bright clothing should be worn by cyclists to make it easier for motorists to see them.

Drop In Demand For Texas Crude

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The U.S. Bureau of Mines estimates the demand for Texas oil next month will be less than it was this month. But the State Railroad Commission said Thursday that oil pumps can run at full capacity for the 14th consecutive month.

The Bureau of Mines estimate of May market demand for Texas crude oil totaled 3,425,000 barrels daily, down 10,000 a day from the April estimate, said commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon.

Registration Set For Camps

Sign-up day for Marin Young Men's Christian Association summer programs for boys and girls will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 28, YMCA officials announced.

Programs include day camps, residence camps, special trips, back-packing trips and mountain trips for various age youngsters.

The sign-up day will feature free T-shirts for registrants, refreshments, balloons, contests and games, according to Carl Jensen, program director.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Cinderella" — Disney's delightful fairy tale in a magnificent production with plenty of music.

"Charley and the Angel" — A depression-era comedy about a man so preoccupied with his business he neglects his family until he learns his time on earth is limited.

"Dumbo" — Classic cartoon feature about the baby circus elephant with gigantic ears who overcomes all obstacles and becomes the hero of the circus.

"Living Free" — Dramatic but laugh-provoking adventure of lion cubs in this excellent sequel to "Born Free." A delight.

"Sounder" — A fascinating document of life in the deep south as well as an inspiring drama of familiar love and loyalty.

"Legend of Lobo" — Here a wolf tells his story, he is the hero and man the villain. There is adventure, suspense, humor and education about wild life.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Brother Sun and Sister Moon" — Lyrically beautiful photography and fine acting add dimension to this 13th Century story of the effects of war on a young man and his decision to renounce all worldly goods and live a life of poverty and service.

"Buck and the Preacher" — A post-Civil War tale of the problems of recently freed slaves who set out to make new homes in the West. Plantation owners try to frighten the blacks to returning to the South. Violence.

"The Getaway" — Fun and games crime escapade about a half million dollar bank robbery contains every shoot-out cliche since "Bonnie and Clyde." Director treats film as a satire.

"Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" — An outlaw takes over a Texas town in the 1880's and creates his own brand of law and order.

"Man of La Mancha" — Awaiting trial by the Inquisition, Cervantes puts on a play telling the tale of Don Quixote thereby inspiring his fellow cellmates in a Spanish dungeon.

"Separate Peace" — Drama based on John Knowles' novel about the critical senior year in the lives of two American prep school students in 1944.

"Sleuth" — British production of recent Broadway mystery hit presents rivals who play at a murderous game of wits. Casts dynamic performance creates excitement and suspense.

"Soylent Green" — New York City, 50 years hence, when 40 million people live there has many problems of scarcity of everything and rigid, corrupt governmental control. (San Francisco Chronicle)

BORDERLINE
(Most courses say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — A raw, raucous satire on subjects formerly held sacred or taboo. Plot is an excuse for all kinds of hilarious and offensive situations.

"Cries and Whispers" — Stunningly beautiful scenes and intricate lives of the characters aren't easy to forget in this psychological drama set in the last century. Two sisters return to their ancestral home to comfort a sister who is dying of cancer.

"Scorpio" — High quota of action and violent deaths in the tale of CIA agents and double agents being triple-crossed. (Boxoffice Magazine)

ADULTS ONLY

"Dirty Harry" — This San Francisco police thriller is an exercise in violence. Film tries to make a case against the pampering of criminals. Strong stomach needed.

"Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie" — Surrealist satire about a foreign ambassador and his Parisian friends trying to have a meal together but always interrupted.

"Klute" — Hard hitting psychological story about a policeman and a call girl.

"Prime Cut" — A Chicago syndicate big shot is sent to Kansas City to make a sadistic local operator of a prostitution ring toe the line. Excessive violence, nudity and cursing.

Special Analysis Workshop Is Set

An introduction to transactional analysis will be given by Duncan Cameron in a three-day workshop May 18, 19 and 20 at the Lewis Marshall Lloyd Educational Center in San Anselmo.

GEORGE SAKELLARIOU
Dominican recital set

Recital Set By Classic Guitarist

Classical guitarist George Sakellariou will perform in a recital at 8 p.m. May 4 in Angelico Hall at Dominican College, San Rafael.

Sakellariou will play works by Torroba, Scarlatti, Francesco da Milano, Strizich and Albeniz.

The Greek-born guitarist joined the faculty of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music in 1964 and currently is teaching at Dominican College as well.

He has been a soloist with the Orquesta de Camara de Antioquia, the Donald Pippin Chamber Group and with the Sacramento, Vallejo and Greenville, Miss., symphonies.

San Anselman Plans To Open Antique Shop In San Rafael

Donaid M. Jones of San Anselmo, who has been dealing in antiques in Marin since 1962 when he first came to Sausalito from St. Louis, will open an antique shop at 821 B Street in San Rafael about the end of this month.

Jones is remodeling the building formerly occupied by The Loyal Order of the Moose, next to Assemblage Gallery, across the street from Filipello & Filipello Antiques, Marin's long-established and largest antique shop.

Jones, who has traveled to London, Amsterdam and other parts of Europe to develop contacts, said he will specialize in quality merchandise.

His interest in antiques started in St. Louis where he grew up on Antique Row, later called Gaslight Square. He worked as picker (one who buys from flea markets and sells to dealers), lectured at the Marin Art and Garden Center Lauren House antique shop, helped price items for the Sunnyhills Bargain Box, and worked at Town and Country Antiques in Sausalito for about three years.

Donald Jones Antiques is the fifth new establishment to locate within a block and a half of B Street in San Rafael since last August. The Assemblage Gallery opened in August at 819 B Street, followed by Dali Feenjon deli-restaurant at 901 B Street, and Mary Strickler's Quilts at 936 B Street. Grandma's House Antiques of San Francisco is preparing to open a branch at 831 B Street next to Donald Jones.

CHARLES E. HAMEL of Mill Valley has been elected senior vice president for National BankAmericard Inc., San Francisco-based administrative organization for the BankAmericard program in the United States.

He joined the corporation during its formation in July of 1970 as treasurer and became vice president in October of that year. Hamel was controller with Shuman, Agnew and Co. in San Francisco before joining National BankAmericard Inc.

Hamel

McNeil

J. DOUGLAS McNEIL of Novato was elected vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company's Chartered Life Underwriters Association this week. The announcement came from Pacific Coast field vice president, James M. Smith.

McNeil is an agent with the firm's San Rafael general agency at 4340 Redwood Highway in Northgate Industrial Park. A graduate of the United States Naval Academy, he joined Hancock in 1954.

GARDEN OF DELIGHTS Productions, a theatrical and stage designing group, has been formed in Sausalito to provide all technical services needed in stage performances —plays, dances and concerts.

McGee

Elison

It is located at 360 Gate 5 Road in Sausalito, Post Office Box 642. Principals are Robert Elison of Mill Valley, head coordinator; Martin McGee of San Rafael, equipment coordinator; Aaron McDonald of Sausalito, architectural designer and stage lighting expert; and Carol Von Buchau of Mill Valley, artist, photographer and musician who also handles public relations.

Garden of Delights Productions offers planning, designing and lighting of stage productions and graphics, posters, silkscreens, films and other equipment for all types of performances. It also gives instruction in photography, film making, theater and stage lighting, silk screen, organic gardening, tap and cabaret dancing.

"We also rent space for theater groups who want a place for rehearsals," said Mrs. Von Buchau.

D & R ADVERTISING Specialties, a new firm that puts advertising on items like pens and calendars, opened last week in San Rafael.

Owner of the firm is Richard Schaffer Jr. of 859 Hacienda Way, who formerly managed the Seven-Eleven store in Santa Venetia for a year and a half. He has lived in Marin for 16 years.

D & R Advertising Specialties prints names on pens and pencils, calendars, and balloons; and makes magnetic signs, business cards, low-cost business forms of all kinds, and labels and decals.

THE GREAT STORE in San Rafael, next to Rafael Theater, has just acquired a beer and wine license for its restaurant, the Inside Outside Cafe, located to the rear of the store. It serves domestic and imported beers, wines and champagnes.

KAREN DAHLIN, broker of Red Carpet Realtors at 701 Third Street in San Rafael, announced that Owen W. (Spud) Moore of Tiburon has joined the firm as an associate. Moore has experience as a mortgage loan broker and as an appraiser. He will be salesman and financial counselor to clients of Red Carpet Realtors.

McDONALD'S Restaurants in Marin donated 7,000 hamburgers for the benefit of the Marin Catholic High School Scholarship Fund.

Seven thousand tickets, each entitling the holder to a McDonald hamburger and fries, were issued for a luncheon and fashion show held at Dominican College on March 31, with proceeds going to the Marin Catholic Scholarship Fund.

SAUSALITO ARTISTS and Merchants Association is sponsoring a champagne cocktail open house Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. to celebrate the official grand opening of Pets of Sausalito at 1913 Bridgeway, near the Seven-Eleven shopping center.

Judith Abramson and Biba Davey of Sausalito opened the pet shop six months ago in space formerly occupied by The Family Store. Pets of Sausalito features salt water fish, iguanas, lizards, turtles, chinchillas, birds, hamsters and other pets. Dog grooming is done by appointment. Those who attend the open house Sunday afternoon will have a chance for door prizes.

PETER GERBER of Larkspur has been named a vice president of Grubb & Ellis Securities Co., Oakland. He will be responsible for marketing the company's current and forthcoming resort condominiums. Additionally, he will be working with the Grubb & Ellis Development Company on resort projects at Lake Tahoe, Hawaii and Mexico.

Gerber previously worked for Grubb & Ellis' financial services division.

FORMER JUDGE Samuel W. Gardiner, who retired from the Marin Superior Court bench last December, is busy as ever in the private practice of law. He is with the San Rafael law firm of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks in the Albert Building, 1010 B Street.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU — Roderick D. McPeak mans the new Marin branch of the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco. McPeak is manager of the new office in the Albert Building in San Rafael.

Better Business Bureau Opens Office In Marin

Marin County now has its own branch of the Better Business Bureau in the Albert Building, 1010 B Street, San Rafael.

Roderick D. McPeak of San Rafael opened the San Rafael office this week in room 310.

D. W. Schwartz, general manager of the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco announced that the branch was opened in San Rafael to serve Marin County residents on a more personal basis.

"We will provide full inquiry and reliability report services, complaint handling facilities, and consumer education materials at the San Rafael office," said Schwartz. The Marin branch will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

McPeak, the Marin manager, attended Alameda parochial schools, took courses at San Francisco City College, and volunteered for the Army, serving for three years including one year in Germany. Since then, he did general office and bookkeeping work and dispatching for a large truck-leasing firm in San Francisco.

Since joining the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco last September, McPeak was manager of the membership and sales department until his assignment to the Marin office.

Familian Plans Another Move Into Northwest

VAN NUYS (BW) — Familian Corp., through its subsidiary, Familian Northwest Inc. of Portland, Ore., has agreed to acquire Pioneer Supply Co. of Seattle to create one of the leading full-line plumbing and industrial pipe distributing companies in the Northwest.

Announcement of the acquisition of Pioneer by Familian Northwest was made today by Bernard J. Shapiro, president of Familian Corp.

Jerry Stern, president of Familian Northwest, and Sanford Gladstein, president of Pioneer, announced jointly that they expected the merger of the two firms to be finalized by May 1.

Stern will be president of the newly formed subsidiary firm, to be known as Familian-Pioneer, and Gladstein will serve as vice president and general manager.

The move into Washington is the second for Familian, which opened a branch in Kennewick last year. The consolidation of the two companies increases Familian Northwest's Oregon and Washington facilities to five and raises the total number of Familian Corp.'s outlets to 17.

Familian Corp., the parent firm, is engaged in the manufacture, fabrication and distribution of plumbing and related products for residential, commercial and industrial building industries through its various subsidiaries.

Familian is the West Coast's largest distributor of plumbing products, including pipe, valves, fittings and fixtures. It is also the country's largest manufacturer of gas and electric fireplaces and makes kitchen range ventilating hoods and food waste disposers.

Vice President Of Litton Named

BEVERLY HILLS (BW) — Crosby M. Kelly has been named a senior vice president of Litton Industries Inc., effective May 1, according to Charles B. Thornton, chairman and chief executive officer.

Kelly, who resigned as a vice president of the corporation in 1965, rejoins Litton after eight years in his own management consulting firm.

Acting Chief

Purex Long-Range Potential Is Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 200 shares of Purex Corp. (NYSE) at 19⅝. It has never gone back up to my cost price despite making good profits. I blame this on the company's efforts to conglomerize and ultraconservative management. — W.L.

A. Although Purex has reported higher profits in each of the past five quarters the earnings trend has been erratic and improvement in the December quarter was only minimal. Nonetheless for the year to end June 30 a gain of about 15 per cent to $1.55 a share is anticipated. Management has been aggressive in marketing the company's grocery and consumer products, which account for about 10 per cent of sales. Recently the introduction of new products has been stepped up and unprofitable agricultural operations scaled down.

Company efforts to expand and diversify make sense, helping to counteract the cyclical segments of operations. Shares should be held for their above-average long-term prospects.

A. Gladly. On a discount bond the average annual capital gain is first calculated by subtracting purchase price from the face value and dividing the result by the number of years to maturity. This figure is then added to the coupon rate to get annual net income which is then divided by the purchase price. A similar calculation is made, dividing the same net income by the face value minus the annual appreciation. The two resulting yields are added and divided by two to get an approximate yield to maturity.

In premium bonds the annual loss is subtracted from the coupon rate to arrive at net income. Further along in the calculation the net income is divided by the bond's face value plus (as opposed to being subtracted for a discount bond) the annual average loss. The remaining processes are the same as above. The longer maturity a bond has the less accurate is this method. Nevertheless you can get an idea of yields using this procedure.

Florida Businesswoman Conquers Big Handicap

TAMPA, Fla. — One of the most active and successful businesswomen in Florida has walked on crutches all her life. She was hit by polio when she was a year old.

The weakened muscles in her legs and hands never gained strength, but Mrs. Natalie Gels didn't slow down.

She worked her way through Wayne State University as a switchboard operator, and later as a statistician. Then she did graduate work at the University of Michigan.

After college, she learned that people were discriminated against because of handicaps. That's why she started a special employment agency, partly to help them. It is a big success.

Mrs. Gels is a former Woman of the Year, chosen by the American Business Women's Assn. She has worked with the Tampa Advertising Club, the Credit Managers of Tampa and many other organizations.

At the same time, she has led a successful home life. She has two grown children and three grandchildren.

She cooks at home for herself and her husband, who also suffers from polio. But she doesn't do her own housework.

"I'm too busy for that," she says, "playing bridge and studying psychology in my spare time." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

NOTICE OF SALE OF PARTNERSHIP INTEREST AND CESSATION OF PARTNERS' AUTHORITY

NOTICE IS GIVEN, that CALVIN C. B. WHEELER, DIXIE M. WHEELER, SANFORD B. WEISS, CHARLOTTE S. WEISS and THE UNITED FOUNDATION, heretofore doing business as partners under the partnership names of TERRA LINDA MEADOWS and THE MEADOWS at 910 Lea Drive, San Rafael, California, have transferred their partnership interests to JOHN F. SULLIVAN and TLM LTD., whose principal place of business is located at 211 Sutter Street, San Francisco, California 94104, and will no longer be associated with the partnerships or in the carrying on of the business of the partnerships.

JOHN F. SULLIVAN and TLM LTD. will conduct the business in the future and will pay and discharge all liabilities of the partnership and receive all monies payable to the partnership.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that CALVIN C. B. WHEELER, DIXIE M. WHEELER, SANFORD B. WEISS, CHARLOTTE S. WEISS and THE UNITED FOUNDATION will not be responsible from this day on, for any obligations incurred by JOHN F. SULLIVAN and TLM LTD. in their names or in the name of the partnership.

As of March 1, 1973, the only person authorized and empowered to act for and bind either partnership or The Meadows apartment project for any contract, debt or obligation of any kind whatsoever, shall be John F. Sullivan.

It is not the intention of any of the parties to create a dissolution of either of the said partnerships or to terminate their business. Rather, this cessation of authority is brought about as a result of amendments to the Partnership Agreement, and the respective agreement among the parties.

Neatness is good roofing, passersby might surmise, as stacks of tile form interesting patterns atop the First Presbyterian Church under construction opposite the library in San Rafael. The stacks enable the clambering roofers to lay the material in a quick and efficient way. The church will replace a century-old stone building razed because of the threat of earthquake damage.

Madera Del Presidio Hearing Set

By PAT PERRY

The bitterly contested Madera del Presidio development — halted by a taxpayers' suit in January — will be the center of attention in Corte Madera again Tuesday, when the town planning commission holds a public hearing on the project's environmental impact report at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

The 532-unit townhouse and apartment project by Harter and Odenthal Development Company of Orinda, has brought opposing Corte Madera residents to court, to petitions, to organized protests, and to mock funeral processions and lying in front of bulldozers, since it began last year.

The development was halted in January when Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson said he will sweep away the town's approval of the project. The citizens' suit, filed by Larry P. Weingarth and Marilyn Hallin, and backed by dozens of residents, rested on the lack of a proper environmental impact report.

The report before the commission on Tuesday was prepared by town planning consultants Sedway and Cooke, and pros and cons of the mammoth project have been aired for the last year.

The developers intend to build 128 townhouses selling for $38,000 each by autumn this year, state the consultants. Next year it is expected that 90 townhouses selling for $45,000 and 75 apartments at $23,000 each will be constructed by autumn. In 1975 another 90 townhouses at $50,000 each will be built, with 75 more $23,000 apartments. The final construction will be in 1976, with 74 $55,000 townhouses.

The most obvious adverse impact of Madera del Presidio, acknowledges the report, will be elementary schools — or, rather, the lack of elementary schools.

The development lies entirely within the Mill Valley School District, which has no school within walking distance. The Reed School District has space available in its Granada School in the Marin Estates subdivision, which is within walking distance, but Madera del Presidio children wouldn't be entitled to attend it, nor the Larkspur School District's schools.

In addition, high school age children would be in Redwood High School's attendance area, and that school is already operating at capacity.

The report suggests redistricting as the only way to solve the school problem.

Other adverse impacts listed in the report include the need to widen Paradise Drive between El Camino and San Clemente drives, the requirements for two more policemen and two more firemen, and a new sewage treatment contract or facilities.

Noise from traffic on Highway 101 could bother residents of Madera del Presidio, and the report suggests double pane glass on windows facing the freeway, heaving door flashing, and noise-reducing barriers or baffles along the freeway.

The report notes that many of the development's original proposals have already been altered to meet local objections and minimize environmental impact. Public trails have been included in the plans, and recreation areas improved. The existing creek in the site's meadow area will be preserved, and so will established and significant vegetation.

Smog Board Urges Congress To Resist Nixon On Air Standards

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials yesterday urged Congress to resist the Nixon administration's plan to weaken the Clean Air Act of 1970.

The resolution adopted unanimously by Air Pollution Control District directors was proposed by the board's newest member, Napa County Supervisor John Tuteur. It appealed to Congress to ensure "the strictest possible regulation" of air pollution.

The 1970 act set the standards which must be used throughout the nation.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency last week granted the auto industry a one-year delay in meeting emission limits set by the act. President Nixon said on Tuesday that some compromises on environmental standards are needed to keep the costs of energy at reasonable levels.

Tuteur, citing reports the Nixon administration soon will ask Congress to weaken the 1970 act, brushed aside claims by U.S. auto manufacturers that they need at least an extra year to meet the 1975 standards set by the act.

Newark City Councilman Robert T. Plowright quipped that "someone forgot to notify Mazda and Honda that the technology is not available." Both Japanese manufacturers expect to meet the 1975 standards by 1975.

Tuteur likened the need for tougher smog controls on autos to the nation's decision to land a manned space flight on the moon. "When the people decide to get something done, it can be done," he said.

Board chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County Supervisor, objected that federal air pollution experts originally proposed the stringent limits on autos be effective in 1980. Politicians in Congress cut it to 1975, he said.

The district's deputy air pollution control officer, Milton Feldstein, pointed out that even if the limits had been imposed by 1975 the Bay Area could not meet the federal oxidant standard until 1985. One of the alternatives to tougher smog controls is rationing, he noted.

St. Clair also complained that the Nixon administration's decision to let auto manufacturers off the hook for one year was "punishing" the rest of industry by forcing it to carry an unfair portion of the burden of controlling pollution.

A representative of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. objected from the audience the board's resolution was "motherhood and apple pie." It amounted to urging a law against the motor vehicle, he said. He declined to give his name to newsmen, saying he spoke for himself and not for the utility.

Tuteur closed the matter by commenting "the auto has ruined more than the air."

Conservationist Asks Smog Violation Probe

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials were charged yesterday with delaying prosecution of polluters so long that the one-year statute of limitations has run out on numerous cases.

Jean Siri of the West Contra Costa Conservation League told Air Pollution Control District directors that they should investigate the staff's handling of the cases.

Speaking at a meeting of district directors, she was critical especially of the district's former temporary attorney, Robert Anderson of Oakland. He worked part time from June through September while the district was between permanent attorneys.

Anderson was paid $50 an hour, and got a total of $13,287.

Mrs. Siri said that up to half of some 40 violation notices issued over the past 18 months against Humble Oil and Refining Co. alone had lapsed because they were not filed in court for prosecution.

"We believe the duty to the public has been abused by Mr. Anderson or the district," she declared.

The district's new attorney, David Self, told the Independent-Journal he has worked to catch up on a backlog of cases he inherited when he started work in November.

Homes For Japanese Students Sought In Marin For A Month

Thirty Marin families with big homes and big hearts are being sought to provide housing for as many Japanese students this summer.

For one month, from mid-June to mid-July, the students will learn first-hand about life in America. They'll live with Marin families and study conversational English and American history.

It's part of a program supported by Interstudy, a Swedish-based nonprofit corporation started 10 years ago to place European students in American homes.

Last year, according to Michael E. Kaufman, a teacher at Mill Valley Middle School and area representative of Interstudy, the program was expanded to include Asian students as well.

It's not exactly an exchange program, Kaufman said, because it doesn't involve sending American students to Europe or Asia, but the basic idea is the same: "To let them (the students) experience the American way of life and develop competency in English."

Homes for the students and one Japanese teacher have to be found by the first of June, preferably in Southern Marin, Kaufman said.

The students won't stay in Marin the entire month. There'll be side trips to Yosemite and Southern California as well as local sightseeing.

Each student has at least two years of study in English, with the average being three or four years. Most will be 18 or 19 years old, although ages vary from 17 to 23, Kaufman said.

Families interested in housing one of the students should write to Kaufman at P.O. Box 198, Belvedere 94920, or telephone him. He lives at 256 Bay View Avenue, Belvedere.

Tapestry Show

The remaining Gobelin pieces we ordered from France have just arrived to complete the most extensive showing of tapestries ever held in this area.

Included in the show are woven wool, quilted and embroidered examples, both large and small, and tapestry woven hand bags, bell pulls and other small items. Acquisition of one of these tapestries now would be a wise investment for the future.

No. 647 Apr. 20, 1973

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

CITY OF FAIRFAX, STATE OF CALIFORNIA

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Fairfax will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, California, on or before 10:00 a.m. on the 4th day of May, 1973 for the furnishing of all labor, materials, and services required for the 1973 STREET RESURFACING PROJECT.

Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications, and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of Ben C. Albritton, City Engineer, 35 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, where they may be examined and copies thereof be obtained upon deposit of $10.00 per set, which deposit will not be refunded. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the City Engineer, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, currency or bid bond, equal to ten per cent of the aggregate amount of the bids, which amount shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract, if awarded him, and will file the contract bonds required within fifteen days after notice that his bid has been accepted.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any irregularity in any bid received.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is on file at the office of the City Clerk and incorporated by reference herein. It shall be mandatory that all persons employed in the execution of the contract be paid not less than said specific wages and rates, and that existing labor agreements, relative to overtime, holidays, and other special provision, be recognized.

Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

NOTICE OF ESCHEAT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a petition has been filed in the above-entitled court, which proceeding is designated as State of California, plaintiff, v. Ivy Baker Priest, Treasurer of the State of California; Houston I. Flournoy, Controller of the State of California; Doe One through Doe One Hundred, defendants, and numbered 232414 in the records thereof, to escheat certain sums of money and items of personal property. Said sums and items are derived from the estates of deceased persons whose estates were probated in the State of California, said sums and items being distributed to named persons and thereafter deposited in the treasury of the county in which probate had been had because of the failure of the distributees to claim the amounts so distributed. Thereafter, and at the time of the next county settlement following the expiration of one year from the date of deposit in the county treasury, all of the sums of money and items of property so distributed and deposited were delivered to the State Treasurer. All of said sums of money and items of property have been on deposit in the State Treasury for more than five years prior to the commencement of the above-mentioned proceeding.

Among the sums of money to be escheated in the above-mentioned proceeding are the sums designated below which were forwarded to the State Treasury from the Treasurer of the County of Marin and which are derived from estates probated in Marin County.

The names of the decedents whose estates were probated, the names of the known heirs or distributees to whom the amounts to be escheated were distributed, the approximate date of receipt by the State Treasurer, and the gross amounts received in each estate are as follows, to-wit:

Name of Decedent and Heir and Distributees	Date Received	Amount
Falconi, Michael aka Falconi, Mikele A. Falconi, Mike Falcone, Mikele Angelo For: Joe Falconi	7/13/60	$ 1,774.71

NOTICE IS ALSO GIVEN that the above-entitled court has issued an order directing all persons interested in the sum of money and items of property to be escheated to appear before the court and show cause, if any they have, in Department 3 on the 4th day of June, 1973, at 9:00 a.m. in the courtroom of said court, in the Courthouse in the City of Sacramento, County of Sacramento, State of California, why said sums of money should not be decree of said court vest in and escheat to the State of California.

For further particulars on the above-entitled matter, reference is made to the petition and order on file in said proceeding.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED BIDS will be received by the California State Prison, San Quentin California 94964 until 3:00 P.M. Friday April 27, 1973 at which time they will be publicly opened and read in the Procurement Office at said address for:

RESURFACE ROAD FROM SAN QUENTIN LEVEE GATE TO WEST GATE CALIFORNIA STATE PRISON, SAN QUENTIN, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA 94964

In accordance with the specifications therefor, and such addenda thereto as may be issued prior to bid opening date.

In general, the project comprises resurfacing road from Levee Gate to West Gate approximately 40,000 square feet. Approximately 20 feet wide by approximately 2,000 feet in length and 2 inch overlay of asphalt concrete.

Bidders may obtain the specifications and plot plan from the Procurement Office of the California State Prison, San Quentin, CA 94964 without charge and are not to be returned.

Each bidder must be licensed and also prequalified when required. The California State Prison at San Quentin reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality in any bid received.

Bids will be entertained only on a lump sum basis.

GENERAL PREVAILING HOURLY WAGE RATES COUNTY OF MARIN

The California State Prison at San Quentin has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages for straight time, overtime, Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays, including employer payment for Health and Welfare, Vacation, Pension and similar purposes, to be as tabulated hereafter for the County in which the work is to be done. Holidays shall be those defined as such in the collective bargaining agreement, applicable to the Labor Classification(s) employed on the project.

'Waltons' Top Emmy Nominations

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Waltons" led the Emmy nominees announced Thursday, with 12 nominations, followed by "The Julie Andrews Hour," "The Mary Tyler moore Show," "M-A-S-H" and "The Red Pony."

"The Waltons" collected 12 nominations. The weekly series, a sleeper that began low in the ratings but picked up followers after being highly praised by critics, tells tales of a mountain family during the Depression.

Among its nominees was Richard Thomas, who plays John Boy, for best actor in a leading role, and Michael Learned, who plays his mother, for best actress in a series leading role.

Ten nominations went to the Julie Andrews Show, which has been canceled.

The "Mary Tyler Moore Show" won 9 nominations, and "M-A-S-H" and "The Red Pony" 8.

The nominations were announced by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. The winners will be revealed in a telecast ceremony May 20.

"All in the Family," the No. 1 ranked show in the ratings, drew seven nominations, as did "The Carol Burnett Show."

Carroll O'Connor, Archie Bunker of "All in the Family," was nominated for best actor in a comedy series.

Liza Minnelli, who last month won the best actress Oscar for her performance in the movie "Cabaret," drew an Emmy nomination for starring in the most outstanding musical-variety show, her special "Liza with a Z."

Nominated for most outstanding single show of the year were "Long Day's Journey into Night," "The Red Pony," "That Certain Summer," "A War of Children" and "The Marcus Nelson Murders."

Sculpture Will Be On Exhibit

Featured artists will be Oliver Andrews, Kelly Hames, Robert Harris, David Herschler, Loren Madsen and William Maham, all of Southern California.

Gallery hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays.

END OF LINE FOR RUNAWAY AUTO

San Rafael policeman Richard Michaelsen calculates damage caused by runaway sports car that rolled down Arguello Circle in San Rafael at about 7:40 p.m. yesterday. Police said the unoccupied car jumped a curb, rolled down an embankment and crashed through a retaining wall before banging into the side of a house at 46 Arguello Circle. Car owner, David B. Lapidus, 53, of 109 Gordon Avenue, San Anselmo, told officers he parked the car facng downhill and was struck from behind by the rolling auto when he walked in front of it toward the sidewalk. He managed to spin out of its way then suffered cuts on face and hands when he tried to stop it.

Lakers' Sharman Vows No Letdown Vs. Warriors

Combined AP & UPI

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Bill Sharman isn't forgetting the last time the Los Angeles Lakers won their first two games in the National Basketball Association playoffs. In fact, he remembers it like it was yesterday.

"We can't let down now," the coach for the defending champion Lakers said. "We'll have to play hard in Oakland."

Despite a 2-0 start in their opening series against the Chicago Bulls, the Lakers needed seven games and a lastminute finish Sunday night to advance to the semifinals against Golden State.

Now the Lakers find themselves in the same position against the Warriors following their 104-94 victory here Thursday night. The series now moves to Oakland for games No. 3 and 4 Saturday and Monday nights.

Jerry West sank Golden State 101-99 with a jumper with eight seconds to go Tuesday night and he finished them off with a 36-point performance in the second game, while Wilt Chamberlain gave the Lakers superiority on the boards with 30 rebounds.

"Our defense won the game," said West, who complained he never felt more tired than in the opener against Golden State when he scored 17 points.

"I felt so much looser tonight. When I woke up the other day, my hands felt heavy. This time, my hands felt light."

Like Sharman, West wasn't about to write off the Warriors in the Western Coference finals.

"Being two games up isn't that much of an advantage at this level of competition," he said. "At this point, you have to play well in every game."

"If we go up there and let them win two games like we did against Chicago," chipped in Jim McMillian, who had 21 points Thursday night, "it's going to be very tough."

If necessary, the best-ofseven series will return here Wednesday night. Meanwhile, the Eastern Conference finals between the Boston Celtics and the New York Knicks, tied at 1- 1, will continue in Boston tonight.

In game No 2 of the Laker-Warrior series, Chamberlain outrebounded Nate Thurmond, whose strategy was to attempt to lure the Laker giant away from the basket with his outside shooting, 30-14. The Lakers wound up winning the rebounding battle 55-47.

"I think they (the Warriors) got tired the last few minutes," said Chamberlain. "They weren't taking good shots toward the end but I think our defense had something to do with that.

"We want him (Thurmond) to shoot outside. We'd rather see that than (Rick) Barry or (Jeff) Mullins shooting outside. Anyway, it's not my job to guard Nate when he goes outside.

Golden State, the team that eliminated the Milwaukee Bucks, was led by Barry with 29 points—before he fouled out with 2:04 to go—and Mahdi Abdul-Rahman, the former Walt Hazzard, who came off the bench to score 20 points.

Barry made an obscene gesture after fouling out and after the game was quick to point out that the Lakers won the game at the free throw line —24 to 13—while each club made 40 field goals.

"Sure, we committed fouls, but not to the extent they were called," he said. "We're going home and we know we can win two there but we realize with a break or two we should have been 2-0 now."

"I was knocked down and have a four-inch scratch to show for it, yet I get the foul," he declared.

"I'm not going to change our defense," said Golden State Coach Al Attles. "We intend to play with the same aggressiveness we've been playing with. Quite frankly, I didn't see any extraordinary roughness on our part out there."

Rough, Uphill Climb Ahead For Warriors

To say the Warriors are going to have a rough time reaching the National Basketball Association finals would be putting it a trifle too mildly. I suggest you not bet the house mortgage on it. I wouldn't even bet my lunch money on it.

Coach Al Attles would have been very content with a split of the first two Western Conference championship games played in L.A. as that would have meant the Golden Staters need win the three playoff games scheduled in Oakland and not worry about winning any more of the L.A. games. Now the Warriors must win at least one of the away games in the best-of-seven series.

That is why Attles was so angry when Golden State let that first game slip through its fingers. When the Lakers tied the game and then won it on Jerry West's jump shot, television viewers could see clearly Attles' disgust as Angry Al kicked a towel nearly over the bench after he had called that last timeout.

It was Rick Barry's turn to show his disgust in last night's game. With that age old gesture displayed by the use of just one finger, he let the referees know his feelings about the call of the sixth foul which sent him to the bench for the night. The camera work was perfect, although unplanned. And no, referees Don Murphy and Ed Rush, you are not No. 1 in Barry's eyes.

True, the officiating didn't help the Warriors, but putting too much emphasis on the poor officiating takes away from the jobs that Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West did.

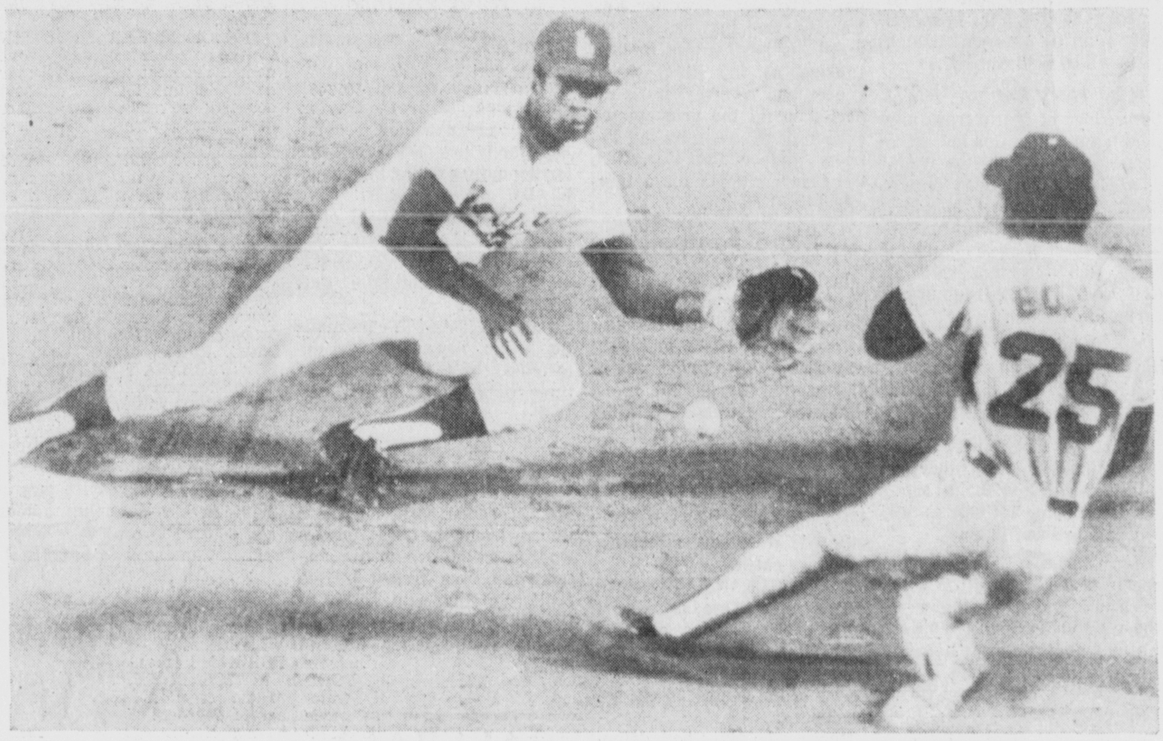
After watching those first two games on television I get the feeling that the Lakers' strategy is to just stay close to the opponent for the first three quarters, knwoing that they'll win out in the last few minutes. It's as if they say,

Maybe it's the experience. Maybe it's the steadying influence of coach Bill Sharman. But it seems the Lakers are poised, calm, and relaxed when the game gets down to those final, crucial minutes. This is the way they beat the Chicago Bulls in the conference semi-finals and it's the way they beat the Warriors twice so far in the conference finals.

It's possible things will turn around when the teams play in Oakland tomorrow and Monday nights. Two wins for the Warriors will give them the psychological edge going into L.A. But if they lose tomorrow, don't expect to see Boston Celtics in Oakland.

AN HONORABLE GAME is golf. The honorable Yasushi Oshima, mayor of Osaka, Japan, and wife Naoko will be playing a round of golf tomorrow at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael as guests of Kizo Mineo, senior vice president of the Mitsui Co. in S.F. and a member of Peacock Gap. Mayor Oshima will be grand marshall of the Cherry Blossom Festival parade Sunday in San Francisco, sister city of Osaka.

HAPPINESS IS six straight strikes in bowling. Unhappiness is six straight splits. Last night in the 845 Scratch League at Nave Lanes, Ellis (Cy) Seibert, retired sheriff's deputy and investigator, started off his third game with six splits and broke the string with a nasty old strike in the seventh frame. A couple of splits later Cy finished the game with a score of 116 and then said, "Let's see. Three strikes in the first game, five in the second, and eight in the third. That's 16."



A STEAL — San Francisco Giants' Bobby Bonds (25) arrived under the throw to Los Angeles Dodgers' Lee Lacy who was covering second base on a Bonds' steal attempt last night in Los Angeles. Bonds stole the base along with much of the game's thunder by belting a home run, driving in three runs and scoring two himself as the Giants defeated the Dodgers, 8-6.

LOS ANGELES — Outfielder Bobby Bonds says he and Willie McCovey, as two of the oldest men on the San Francisco Giants, have to set an example for the younger players on the club.

The 27-year-old right fielder did just that Thursday night when he smashed a two-run home run, his fourth of the year, and a single to carry the Giants to their fourth straight victory, an 8-6 win over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Willie Davis drove in five runs with his second and third homers of the season but they weren't enough as the Dodgers dropped their second straight game.

"We have a lot of young players who never quit, Bonds said. "I've never seen a Giants team so inspired. We want to take it (the Pennant) this year and we're going after it. I think we have the fastest outfield in baseball.

"McCovey and I have to be the leaders to help the club," Bonds said.

Bonds' homer allowed him to catch up in that department with McCovey, who went hitless against the Dodgers Thursday.

The win boosted the Giants into a full game lead over Cincinnati in the National League west.

"We're trying to take each game as we go," Giants manager Charlie Fox said.

Bonds' homer came in the seventh inning with Dave Rader on base with a single and it gave the Giants a 7-4 lead.

But Davis came back in the eighth with his second homer of the night with Bill Buckner on base to narrow the score to 7-6 and drive winner Jim Willoughby from the mound. The victory evened Willoughby's record at 1-1.

The Giants opened the scoring in the second when Ed Goodson singled and Garry Maddox tripled and scored when Steve Garvey fumbled the ball.

Tito Fuentes singled in Bonds from second after a walk and stolen base to make it 3-0 in the third but the Dodgers bounced back to take a brief 4-3 lead in the inning on five consecutive hits.

Singles by Lee Lacy and Bill Russell and a double by Buckner drove in one run and set the stage for Davis' first homer, a three-run blast.

The Giants added two runs in the fourth when Maddox singled, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch. Gary Matthews then singled, advanced to third on Rader's single and scored when Willoughby forced Rader.

Bonds singled in pinch runner Gary Thomasson in the ninth for the Giants final fun.

Randy Moffitt, who pitched the last two innings for the Giants, was credited with his second save of the year.

It required a superb relief job by Moffitt to preserve the win for Willoughby. After Davis' homer, Elias Sosa relieved.

"He couldn't find his glasses," explained Fox. He couldn't find the plate, either, walking two batters and Moffitt of Mill Valley entered with the tying run at second base.

Moffitt struck out Steve Garvey and Ron Cey, then got pinch hitter Manny Mota to pop out.

Mitty Nine Tops Marin Catholic

SOQUEL — Unlike the Walter Mitty of James Thurber's famous tale, Mitty High School of San Jose is capable of translating its daydreams into achievements, as it did yesterday by defeating Marin Catholic in the Soquel Boosters Baseball Tournament in this Santa Cruz County town, 5-2.

Marin Catholic helped the Monarchs by committing three errors behind pitcher Joe Ducey to allow four of the five runs to be unearned.

Mitty, the West Catholic Athletic League leader, boosted its overall record to 16-4. Marin Catholic is 7-12.

Mike Nivens of the Wildcats hit two singles, each a factor in the 'Cats' scoring. In the third inning, Russ Knudsen walked, took third on a hit by Nivens, stayed there as Rich Lopez was hit by a pitch, and trotted home as Layne Cozza drew a bases-loaded walk.

In the fifth, Rich Speidel singled, Nivens advanced him with a single and Lopez drove him home with another base hit.

Marin Catholic will be idle today but will meet Morello High tomorrow at 10 a.m. for seventh place in the eight-team tournament.

'Hot' Colbert Is Rejecting A Golf Label

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — At 32, Jim Colbert of Kansas City, Kan., has been on the pro golf tour for seven years and has won only three tournaments but he doesn't take a backseat to the big names such as Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

He shot a 34-32--66, six under-par, to move into a one-stroke lead in the first round of the 72-hole $200,000 Tournament of Champions Thursday.

"I don't consider myself a dark horse," he said. "People just don't talk as much about me as some of the other golfers."

Colbert gave a lot of credit for his subpar round to a new driver with a graphite shaft. He said he hit the ball lower from the tee and was more accurate. He was in the rough only twice at the par 36-36--72 La Costa Country Club course.

A stroke back at 35-32--67 was Homero Blancas of Houston, who was the last of the 31 entrants to qualify for this elite event. He won the Monsanto Open at Pensacola, Fla., last Sunday.

"I'm a streak player and I'm on a hot streak," he said. "This course is kind of awesome with its narrow fairways and deep rough but it grows on you."

Tied for third and still in good position for a shot at the top money of $40,000 Sunday were Lee Trevino and Jim Jamieson, a rotund first-timer from Moline, Ill. Trevino, who qualified by winning six tournaments during the past 12 months, shot 31-37 and Jamieson who won just one—the Western Open—carded 35-33.

Trevino who would become a golfing millionaire if he won this one, started with a string of three birdies, was five under at the turn and seven under after 12 holes. Then he slipped with three bogeys on the last six holes.

The merry Mexican said he has been bothered by a pulled muscle in his left shoulder. He did it when he went fishing in Mexico before the Masters Tournament, he said.

"Then I went home and hit 2,000 practice balls during the week," he said. "I didn't want people to think I was just a 75-shooter like I was at Augusta."

He wore an extra undershirt for warmth and is getting rubdowns with an ointment, he said.

Grier Jones, the collegian from Wichita, Kan., landed alone in fifth place with 34-35--69.

Palmer and Nicklaus who have each won this tournament three times, shot 70 and were in a tie for sixth with four other

AT SPYGLASS HILL

Nine Local Golfers In 4-Ball Tourneys

Nine golfers from Marin and Southern Sonoma are scheduled to compete in the Northern California Golf Association four-ball tournaments at Spyglass Hill on the Monterey Peninsula late this month and early next month.

Competition in Division A, for teams with a combined handicap under 24, will be held April 26-28, while Division B, for handicaps 24 and above, will be held May 3-5.

Nine-handicapper Robert Lyons of Marin Country Club will team with Stanley Ellexson (11 handicap) of Franklin Canyon Golf Club and will tee off at 9:48 a.m. Thursday in Division A. At 9:21 a.m. Friday, James Carroll (8) and Charlie Comstock (10) of Rohnert Park Golf Club will begin play.

In Division B, Jim Wieder (11) and Kelly Gearety (16) of Marin C.C. will tee off at 8:45 a.m. on Thursday, May 3; Robert Kyle (10) and Robert Dreyfus (14) of San Geronimo National will tee off at 8:54 a.m. May 4; and Terry Jarcik (6) and Elwood Frink (18) of Marin C.C. will begin play at 9:03 a.m.

The NCGA also announced it had sent out entry applications for its Public Links Championship, scheduled August 4-5 at Spyglass. Entries are due no later than 5 p.m. Monday, June 18, at P. O. Box 1157, Pebble Beach 93953.

LI'L LEAGUE OPENER SET TOMORROW

Only one Marin County Little League opens play this weekend, but it's a whopper!

The Novato National and American Little Leagues begin play tomorrow at 9 a.m. with marching bands and team presentations. Some 558 players on 36 teams will be introduced at Rancho School.

After the introductions, four games will begin simultaneously around 10 a.m. and play will continue until dark. All 36 teams will play.

Seven leagues have begun play in Marin this month. Next week's opening festivities include: Mill Valley American and National leagues, Twin Cities, San Rafael American and National leagues, Sausalito, Strawberry, Tiburon-Peninsula, Fairfax-Sleepy Hollow, Gallinas Valley, San Anselmo, and Hamilton-Loma Verde.

A's Taunted By Royals' Words, Bats

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The world champion Oakland A's are home today for a meeting with California following a 16-8 Thursday night shelling in Kansas City at the hands of the Royals.

A's manager Dick Williams may have second thoughts before making remarks again about the Kansas City Royals.

Williams, after his A's broke the Royals' four-game winning streak with a 7-6 victory Wednesday night, said, "We busted their bubble."

Kansas City stormed back Thursday night with a 19-hit attack to clobber the A's 16-8.

"Hey, Williams, you busted our bubble, huh!"

Amos Otis had his biggest game of the season, driving in four runs with a homer, triple and two singles and scored three times. He started the scoring with a two-run triple in the first when the Royals knocked Blue Moon Odom, 0-3, out with a four-run outburst.

The A's never caught up even though Gene Tenace hit his fourth home run of the campaign in the second to make the score 4-2.

Otis, after Kansas City broke loose for four more in the second, slammed his third homer in the third inning with a man on base as the Royals took an 11-3 lead.

Williams, angered by the bombing, said, "I told you they had a good hitting club. I think we'll meet again. We'll show up the next time we play."

Williams insisted the world champions will continue to go with only eight pitchers even though he was caught shorthanded Thursday night.

By AL GIDDINGS

Fish, Hunt Licenses Need Your Signature

Sportsmen are advised to make sure they put their signatures on their hunting and fishing licenses.

The Fish and Game Commission, meeting in Los Angeles April 6, adopted a regulation designed to prevent licenses being "shared" by more than one hunter or fisherman.

In addition to bearing the signature of the individual sportsman, licenses and validation stamps must show the date of purchase, year of birth and physical description.

CALIFORNIA'S THIRD spring turkey hunting season, which is designed to give hunters an extra chance to bag a wily tom, will open tomorrow in 14 counties and a portion of one other.

The season, which ran for nine days last year and the year before, has been extended for an additional week this year.

Generally, the Department of Fish and Game said, prospects for hunter success are good for those who have mastered the art of calling a gobbler.

An increase in take is expected because of the good hatch last year in most areas and because one new county and portions of three others have been added to the open area.

BAG LIMIT IS one bearded turkey — with a beard visible through the breast feathers — per person. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise and until noon.

Toms may be taken only with shotgun or bow and arrow, and the fish and game advises scattergunners to use minimum loads of 2, 4 or 6 shot at distances of not more than 40 yards, preferably 30 yards or less. Dogs may not be used during the spring hunt.

According to the fish and game, the toms will be spread out over their spring strutting territory and may not be found in their usual fall or winter grounds.

In virtually every case, Department of Fish and Game officials said, the spring turkey hunter will have to call the tom to him if he expects to bag one. Calls range from a wing bone to a cedar box fitted with a well chalked lid. Even rubbing a hardwood peg against a piece of slate is supposed to produce results.

OPEN FOR THE abbreviated season, which runs through Sunday, May 6, are all of the counties of Colusa, Fresno, Glenn, Kern, Lassen, Monterey, Nevada, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Shasta, Tehama, Trinity, Tulare and Yuba, and that part of Mendocino County lying within Mendocino National Forest.

Open for the first time this year is Fresno County. The balance of Glenn, Tulare and Kern counties, portions of which were open last year, also have been added to the open area.

Hunters are advised that, except for public lands in the open areas, all hunting will be on private land for which permission from the landowner is required.

HUNTER SURVEY results indicate that about 1,900 birds were taken in the spring and fall hunts last year. An estimated 2,400 hunters turned out last spring, and more than 4,000 last fall.

The California Fish and Game Commission has set a hearing on a special antelope hunt in Modoc, Lassen and eastern Shasta and Siskiyou counties. The hunt was proposed by the Department of Fish and Game.

The commission scheduled the hearing for 8 p.m. May 15 in the Church Fellowship Hall in Alturas, Modoc County.

Three-hundred and eighty-five permits would be issued for the Aug. 25-Sept. 3 hunt. The department reported 380 hunters took 300 buck antelopes in a special hunt in the area last year.

A MINIMUM of 4,357 animals, the highest number in 20 years, were counted in this year's census.

Commissioner Joseph Russ III of Ferndale, Humboldt County, will preside at the hearing.

Marin Golf Action In Full Bloom

Local courses, laden with greenery and covered with golfers basking in the wind and sunshine, are active this week, according to the club pros.

The Mill Valley Golf Course hosts its Directors' Cup tournament qualifying Sunday. Some 50 to 60 golfers will tee off starting at 6:30 a.m. in medal play in an 18-hole round. Match play will be held April 29.

MRS. TONY BAILEY, wife of the College of Marin track and field team coach, won low gross honors in the North Bay Women's Golf Association tournament contested last Monday, Wednesday and Friday. She shot a 246 at Kennedy Park in Napa, San Geronimo National Golf Club and the Blue Rock Springs in Vallejo.

Mrs. William May prevailed in the championship flight, posting a 257-42—215 in a field of 68 gal golfers.

MEADOW CLUB near Fairfax will hold its kickoff tourney Saturday with a 9:30 a.m. shotgun start. Some 144 golfers are expected to shoot 18 holes.

Marin Country Club in Novato gets in the act April 28 with its Founders' Day tourney. About 132 golfers will tee off at 9 a.m., shotgun-style. Each foursome in the 18-hole event will include a charter member of the club.

Additionally, Marin Country Club was to have held another free clinic today. Some 30 youngsters were expected to participate. Tuesday's clinic drew 21 juniors, ages 6-17. They were treated to an hour clinic covering game basics.

Perry Pitches No-Hitter

Clobber, Inc. may be ready to change its name to Whitewash, Inc. today following a no-hitter last night by its pitcher, Ronn Perry.

Perry struck out 11 batters from California Land and Title during his gem as Clobber won the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball league game at Albert Field, 11-0.

In the only other game, George and Charles Carpentry scored seven runs in the seventh inning to tie the SMB Fliers, but the Fliers won in the eighth, 11-10.

Patriots, Bills Swing Big Swap

Combined AP & UPI

FOXBORO, Mass. — The New England Patriots obtained running back Wayne Patrick and linebackers Edgar Chandler and Jeff Lyman yesterday in a six-player trade with the Buffalo Bills.

The Patriots surrendered linebacker Jim Cheyunski, guard Mike Montler and defensive end Halvor Hagen in the deal. The key player for New England was Patrick, who enjoyed his best season in 1971, ranking as the Bills' No. 2 runner and receiver. He is expected to fill the void created earlier in the year by the Patriots' trade of Carl Garrett to the Chicago Bears for a first-round draft choice.

More Football

LONDON, Ont. — Don Paquette, who played with four Canadian Football League teams in the 1950's and 60's, was sentenced to four years in prison on charges of manslaughter in the death of a 44-year old salesman last fall.

Paquette, a former lineman, pleaded guilty to the charge in the death of Kenneth Mero, who died Sept. 1 of head injureis suffered in a severe beating four days earlier.

NEW ORLEANS — Derland Moore, New Orleans' No. 1 draft choice, signed his 1973 National Football League Contract with the Saints yesterday. Terms of the contract were not announced.

Moore, who plays both defensive end and tackle, was selected to both the Big Eight Conference and All-America teams.

Tennis

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. yesterday advanced to the quarter-finals of the Masters Tennis Tournament with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Anne Kiyamura.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Brian Gottfried yesterday posted a 6-1, 5-7, 7-6 triumph over Sausalito's Bob Lutz and advanced to the semifinals of the World Championship Tennis tournament.

Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The Eagles and the McLarens, cars that have monopolized the front row starting berths the last two years, were expected to dominate activities when practice for the million dollar Indianapolis "500" opens April 28.

A perusal of the field of 82 entered in the Memorial Day classic shows that 29 Eagles and 15 British-built McLarens are entered.

Only the fastest 33 cars make the lineup, however, to be determined in two weekends of time trials May 12-13 and May 19-20.

Baseball

ANAHEIM — Right-hander Mike Strahler, who was obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the five-for-two winter swap, was traded by the California Angels to Toledo of the International League yesterday for catcher Charlie Sands.

Pickett Captures 22-mile Bike Race

Tom Pickett of Redwood High School yesterday won Class A in the 22-mile bicycle road race from Nicasio to Point Reyes and back by a narrow margin over Tom Knutsen of San Marin (both riders timed in 1:01:31) and Tom Gartner of Tamalpais (1:01:34).

Everett Gordon of Tamalpais won Class B in 1:03:05 and Mike Vendetti of San Rafael took Class C in 1:08:06 in the race, sponsored by the Marin Cyclists. It was the last in a four-stage series, and the overall standings showed Pickett first, Knutsen second and Gartner third in Class A.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Tigers' 'Home' At Fenway Park

Combined AP & UPI

Fenway Park is the home of the Boston Red Sox — and a home away from home for the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers feel very comfortable there, says Bill Freehan.

"In this ballpark, you just know you'll get your share of hits," the Tiger catcher said after his team got more than its share with 16 in an 11-7 victory over the Red Sox Thursday.

The triumph gave the Tigers a sweep of their four-game series, a rarity in Fenway where the Red Sox usually are extremely tough. The lusty hitting gave the Tigers 56 hits for the series and raised their team batting average from .165 to .239.

In other American League games, the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 10-7, the New York Yankees topped the Baltimore Orioles 61 and the Kansas City Royals defeated the Oakland A's 16-8.

In the National League, the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing 7-0; the Montreal Expos topped the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 and the Pittsburgh-St. Louis game was postponed by rain.

Ken Singleton belted a three-run homer in the sixth inning as Montreal erupted for five runs to defeat the Phillies. The score was tied 1-1 when John Boccabella led off the sixth with a single and later scored on a double by rookie infielder Pepe Frias. Mike Jorgensen's double drove in Frias as Montreal went ahead 3-1.

Mike Torrez who worked six innings, won his first game of the year in four decisions. Tom Walker mopped up for his first save of the season after Philadelphia got single runs in the sixth and seventh innings and rallied for three runs off Walker in the eighth.

Predicted Log Race Scheduled April 28

It is a boating prognosticator's delight.

A predicted log race, a test of a skipper's navigation abilities, will be held Saturday, April 28, at the Loch Lomond Yacht Club. This event, third in a series of seven races, is sponsored by the Independent-Journal and will start at 8:30 a.m. at the San Rafael Channel.

Power boat skippers will follow a pre-determined course and reach various check points, as they predicted in their logs prior to the race.

The skipper who comes closest in matching his predicted times (log) with his actual times will be the winner. Prizes will be awarded to all participating skippers in the event, sanctioned by Predicted Log Racing Association of Northern California.

Some 30 to 40 power boats, featuring about 100 participants, will compete. John Money of the San Joaquin Yacht Club, who skippered the Yenom On to victory last year, will be back to defend his title. (If you're wondering about that name of Money's boat, read it backwards.)

In the San Rafael Yacht Club race March 24, Phil Chivell of Loch Lomond Y.C. was the overall winner on the boat, Denus. Jay Heinen of the host yacht club was the D Class winner on Mary Ruth. In the Berkeley race April 14, two Loch Lomond Yacht Club members stood out. Stan Moore was the overall winner, while Bob Montgomery was the A Class champion on Mary Agnes.

Deadline for entry forms and accompanying $4 fees is Tuesday at 5 p.m. Further information can be obtained by contacting PLRA Commodore Norman S. Buell at 125 St. Albans Road, Kensington, 94808.

Award To Monzon

Mini Gingham Checks In The New Sero Purist® Button-Down.

The New Purist button-down collar is longer and a bit fuller, but not obviously so. To wit — this longer collar doesn't dominate the shirt or the man who wears it. Nothing is obvious except the quality tailored into the shirt.

The mini check gingham is a superb blend of 65% polyester and 35% cotton that keeps its composure on the most humid days. And the colors are as gentlemanly as its checks.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Give Your Opponent A Chance —A Chance To Make A Mistake

Very often the main point of a hand is a struggle by declarer to reach the dummy, while the defenders struggle just as hard to prevent this. Occasionally, however, the defenders should give up their struggle. "Live and let live" is a good motto for bridge players.

RUFFS CLUB

South played a low club from the dummy at the frist trick and ruffed the next club. He then drew three rounds of trumps and led the queen of diamonds.

West played the deuce of diamonds, showing that he held three cards in the suit. (West would have played a higher diamond if he held two or four diamonds.) East knew, therefore, that South also held exactly three diamonds.

East could refuse to take the queen of diamonds and likewise the next diamond. He could save his ace to kill dummy's king of diamonds, and South would never be able to win a trick in the dummy.

EAST'S REASONING

East might have adopted this plan, but he could see that South wanted to reach dummy in order to take a spade finesse. East could also see that any spade finesse would fail.

For this reason, East took the second diamond with his ace. He then returned a club, making South ruff.

THIRD DIAMOND

South unsuspectingly led his third diamond to dummy and finessed with the queen of spades, losing to the singleton king. South still had to lose another spade, and was therefore down one.

If East had prevented South from reaching the dummy, South would have been obliged to lead the ace of spades from his own hand. The singleton king would have dropped, and South would have made his contract. Incidentally, South should have led the ace of spades first as the play actually went, but that is another story.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

It is unusual to make a forcing bid with only 19 points in high cards, but the hand will probably produce a game even if partner has a worthless hand.

Physician Count

SAN JUAN (UPI) — Puerto Rico has 3,447 practicing physicians, the equivalent of one physician per 787 inhabitants, says a report of the University of Puerto Rico Medical School. Over the next 10 years, the goal is to provide at least one physician per 600 inhabitants.

WEE PALS

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREG

That's my line! Yes, people called them this, but can you guess their real names?

1. DER FUHRER was born this day in 1889. His father was an Austrian, his mother a Bavarian, and their family name is said to have been Schicklgruber. A failure as an artist, draftsman, and businessman, he entered politics after World War I and succeeded in becoming the "supreme leader" of Nazi Germany, plunging Europe into World War II. His name was (A) Adolf Hitler, (B) Joseph Goebbels, (C) Rudolf Hess.

2. THE PHILOSOPHER, a Roman emperor, lived in the years 121 to 180 — a writer, thinker, ruler, politician, and military commander. There is a bronze equestrian statue of him in Rome, set there by Michelangelo. But towering over his skill in the strategy of warfare is the work he composed in Greek, called the "Meditations." His name was (A) Julius Caesar, (B) Marcus Aurelius, (C) Nero.

3. THE MASTER COMEDIAN is the way this man was honored by Hollywood in 1952 with a special Oscar, bearing that title. Slim, dark-eyed, wearing glasses and a puzzled look, he was successful in both silent and sound films, making such classics as "The Freshman" and "Feet First." His name was (A) Eddie Cantor, (B) Charlie Chase, (C) Harold Lloyd.

4. THE GREAT HAMP is what he was called on a record album he put out with trumpet star Charlie Teagarden. Born in Louisville, Ky., he started as a drummer, then took up piano and vibraharp. It was the latter which got him teamed with Benny Goodman in a famous quartet — the first vibraharpist to play real jazz on this instrument. Sixty today, his name is (A) Gene Krupa, (B) Herb Hancock, (C) Lionel Hampton.

Marin Young People To Aid Latin Doctors

Twenty-four Marin young people, most of them high school students, are completing a seven-month training course preparing them to become volunteer paramedics this summer in the Amigos de las Americas program.

The young people, after training in such skills as giving innoculations, will conduct immunization clinics and serve as doctors' assistants in remote villages in five Latin American counties.

They also are studying Spanish, Latin American culture, first aid, sanitation and various diseases during their training period. The Amigos pay their own way to Latin America and help raise additional money for medicines and supplies, according to Nancy Bourbour, chairman of the Marin Chapter of Amigos de las Americas.

No Stop In Pot Arrests Planned

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Chief Bruce Baker has instructed Berkeley police to continue making marijuana arrests despite an order from voters to make the weed their lowest priority.

Baker said Thursday that he will ask the City Council next week for authority to continue to enforce the marijuana laws.

"I cannot leave this in limbo," he said. "I must give guidance to my officers."

An 'Open Campus' To Be Studied

The Tamalpais High School District board will consider a students' proposal for an "open campus" policy at Redwood High School at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Redwood faculty lounge.

Redwood students want to be permitted to leave the campus during their free period, during break or lunchtime and have suggested that a trial open campus period be approved until May 25.

In a report to be presented to the Tam trustees, students Lauren Post and Carla Baird claim all public high schools in Marin (with the exception of Novato and San Marin) permit students to leave at any time.

The two students note that of all Marin police departments, only Larkspur and Mill Valley object to open campus policies.

Also on Monday's agenda is a discussion about the district's continuation education program at Mewah Mountain school and a policy on reviewing contracts.

A Grim Scenario For Quake '06 Intensity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A repetition of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake would take more than 10,000 lives, close bridges, airports and freeways —and probably collapse dams, causing thousands of more deaths, according to a federal study released yesterday.

In a grim 220-page scenario of the earthquake that many have predicted, the experts said that under "credible assumptions" a half dozen major dams could collapse in the San Francisco Bay Area, each causing deaths in the thousands.

The study, released one day after the 67th anniversary of the 1906 San Francisco quake, was drawn up by the Office of Emergency Preparedness last year. It is the basis for an earthquake emergency plan now being prepared by the state of California.

The federal disaster experts estimated damage that would be caused by a quake with a Richter magnitude of 8.3 — equal to the 1906 earthquake — occurring either on the San Andreas fault, where that one occurred, or the Hayward fault in the East Bay.

The study also estimated damage from quakes of Richter 7 and Richter 6 on either of the faults. Generally, the damage from the smaller quakes was expected to be much less, although a hundred deaths could be expected from a Richter 6 quake occurring at 4:30 p.m. in San Francisco.

If the big quake took place at 2:30 a.m. when few people are in the high-rise office buildings or on the streets, the death toll was estimated at 2,850 in a 1906-type quake.

A similar quake at 2 p.m. would cause 9,460 deaths, 2,100 of them in schools. At 4:30 p.m. when many people are on the streets, the quake would take 10,360 lives, including 200 deaths caused by freeway collapse and motorist panic.

The federal study listed 226 dams in the San Francisco Bay Area. As many as six of them could collapse, it said, but "for planning purposes," complete collapse of only two dams in the East Bay —the San Pablo Dam and the Upper San Leandro Dam —is anticipated. These dams would probably fail even in a smaller quake of Richter 7 magnitude, according to the study.

If those two dams collapsed at night, the death toll from flooding would probably be 60,000. "Streets, freeways, and rapid transit systems will be closed as will be schools, factories and airports," the study said.

The repetition of 1906, however, would not result in a repeat of the fire which destroyed most of San Francisco that time.

Every large city in the area can be expected to have at least one major uncontrolled fire, and there will be water shortages and access problems. But "it is not reasonable to expect a conflagration in terms of 1906," the disaster experts said.

However, if a fire breaks out in a high-rise building whose elevators and water had been disrupted by a quake "life loss in the upper stories could be in terms of hundreds of persons."

Radio and television stations would be out of service for at least 24 hours, half the telephone service in the area would be out, the telephone system "for all practical purposes will be useless" and newspapers could not be printed in the area for at least a week.

While the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and the Golden Gate and other spans are not likely to fall into the bay, landslides and freeway collapse at their approaches will probably make them unusable, the study said.

A section of Bayshore Freeway south of Candlestick Park south of San Francisco will almost surely wash away in such an earthquake, cutting off the main highway to the south, according to the study.

One-fourth of all the freeways would be impassible, including Interstate 80 in the East Bay.

The BART tube under the bay, although built to withstand quakes, "will be considered out of service for an indefinite period of time," the researchers said.

Even a quake of Richter magnitude 6 would block the BART tunnel through the Berkeley Hills, the study said. Thus, the whole transit system would be shut down in a quake of 8.3 or 7 magnitude, and the East Bay portions would be inoperative after a Richter 6 quake.

San Francisco International Airport would be closed down "in terms of weeks," and the Oakland airport for a week by a major quake.

The study said most areas would suffer power losses for 24 hours. Water supplies would be greatly reduced due to aqueduct damage, and natural gas lines and sewers would also be disrupted.

Rabbits Frolic Set Tomorrow

The 57th annual "frolic of The Rabbits" easter egg hunt will be held at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at the golf driving range at the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds, Petaluma.

The program by the Petaluma Recreation Department will be limited to preschool and kindergarten-aged youngsters. Prizes will be awarded in the homemade Easter Bonnet parade as well as to children finding special eggs.
